McLellan to Chair Africa Infrastructure Board

Richard McLellan, co-director of the Dykema law firm’s Government Policy Department, was elected chairman of the Board of the Council of Africa Infrastructure Development, a four-year non-profit organization designed to promote infrastructure development opportunities in Africa.

McLellan, a founding member of the Mackinac Center, a free-market think tank, works with and assists a developing network of free market think tanks in Africa, having been active in West Africa for more than 30 years.
