Overview of the Constitutional Convention Process

Provisions generally began as Committee Proposals and were then brought to the convention floor for first reading. The majority of debate on the substance of provisions occurred during the first and second readings. There were two third readings; the first on an article-by-article basis and the second reviewing the Constitution as a whole. Following the third readings the entire Constitution was voted on by the delegates. The delegates then created the Notice of Address to the People, summarizing the Constitution on a provision-by-provision basis, which was distributed so that the people could be informed when making their ratification votes.

The convention used ALL CAPS to denote added material and [brackets] to denote removed material.

PRESIDENT NISBET: The Chair recognizes Mr. Iverson.
MR. IVERSON: Mr. President, I move the convention recess for ½ hour.

PRESIDENT NISBET: The question is on the motion of Mr. Iverson. Mr. Madar.

MR. MADAR: Mr. President, we've been doing a lot of talking along here in the last couple of days about getting this convention over with. That's exactly what I'd like to do — get it over with. Here we are talking about a recess today for ½ hour. Yesterday the leaders of this convention knew very well that we had appointments at 5:30 —

MR. WANGER: Point of order.

MR. MADAR: We asked that we be allowed out of here at 5:00 o'clock —

PRESIDENT NISBET: Mr. Madar.

MR. MADAR: Everything was done to keep us from doing this so that we couldn't attend the party that we had arranged —

PRESIDENT NISBET: Mr. Madar.

MR. MADAR: — and I say that we ought to save time. You yelled about it yesterday. Let's stay here and work.

PRESIDENT NISBET: What is the point of order?

MR. WANGER: The point of order is, this motion is not debatable.

PRESIDENT NISBET: The motion is debatable because it was made to a time certain. Mr. Madar have you concluded your remarks?

MR. MADAR: Yes sir. And I knew I was right; so I let him bellow.

PRESIDENT NISBET: The question is on the motion of Mr. Iverson. Those in favor will say aye. Opposed will say no. The motion prevails. We are recessed until 11:20.

[Whereupon, at 10:50 o'clock a.m., the convention recessed; and, at 11:20 o'clock a.m., reconvened.]

The convention will please come to order.

SECRETARY CHASE: Mr. President, a quorum of the convention is present.

PRESIDENT NISBET: The Chair recognizes Mr. Hutchinson.

MR. HUTCHINSON: Mr. President, I move the convention resolve itself into committee of the whole for the further consideration of the proposals on general orders.

PRESIDENT NISBET: The question is on the motion of Mr. Hutchinson. Those in favor will say aye. Opposed, no. The motion prevails.

[Whereupon, Mr. Hutchinson assumed the Chair to preside as chairman of the committee of the whole.]

CHAIRMAN HUTCHINSON: The committee will be in order. The secretary will report the next proposal.

SECRETARY CHASE: Item 24 on the calendar, from the committee on legislative powers, by Mr. Hoxie, chairman, Committee Proposal 123, A proposal to permit administrative agencies to promulgate rules and regulations and to provide for legislative review thereof, and for judicial review of the findings of such agencies. Amends article V by adding a section.

Following is Committee Proposal 123 as read by the secretary, and the reasons submitted in support thereof:

The committee recommends that the following be included in the constitution:

Sec. a. The legislature may authorize any governmental agency to establish rules or regulations of general applicability under standards and subject to restrictions prescribed by law. No such rule or regulation shall take effect prior to its filing with the secretary of state in such manner as shall be prescribed by law. The legislature may require any such rule or regulation to be laid before the legislature concurrently with its filing with the secretary of state; and the legislature may reserve the power to suspend or annul any such rule or regulation by legislation. A legislative committee may suspend any rule or regulation until the next session of the legislature in such manner as may be prescribed by law.

Mr. Hoxie, chairman of the committee on legislative powers, submits the following reasons in support of Committee Proposal 123:

The committee proposal authorizes legislative delegation of rulemaking power to administrative agencies subject, however, to legislative review of same.

The committee language is designed, further, to permit a legislative committee to suspend an administrative rule or regulation. This in effect increases the power that can be presently exercised by a legislative committee. Under the present law as interpreted by the attorney general, a legislative committee is restricted simply to expressing its disapproval of an administrative rule or regulation but is powerless to suspend same.

Following is the minority report to Committee Proposal 123 as offered and the reasons submitted in support thereof:

Messrs. Downs, Lesinski, Youngblood, Baginski and Murphy, a minority of the committee on legislative powers, submit the following minority report to Committee Proposal 123:

A minority of the committee on legislative powers recommends that Committee Proposal 123 be not adopted.

Messrs. Downs, Lesinski, Youngblood, Baginski and Murphy, a minority of the committee on legislative powers, submit the following reasons in support of the foregoing minority report which accompanied Committee Proposal 123:

Unfortunately this complicated proposal on administrative law was presented to the committee a half hour before the committee on legislative powers adjourned on the deadline date, Wednesday, January 31. This did not give ample time to review and discuss the subject matter.

However, a very cursory examination of this language indicates that it violates the separation of powers concept already approved by the convention. The proposal, if adopted, would lay a constitutional foundation for the confusion of the separation of powers concept. There is no clear definition of "rule" or "regulation," and this might result in the interference with the normal executive functions of administrative agencies.

The net result of this proposal can very well be the undue interference with the normal executive process, and can be a roadblock in the way of efficient governmental operation.

This matter should not be frozen into the constitution, but should remain as at present as a matter of current legislative, judicial and executive review.

CHAIRMAN HUTCHINSON: The Chair recognizes Mr. Kuhn.

MR. KUHN: Mr. Chairman and members of the committee, as you all know, the legislature today has the power to amend or repeal any rule or regulation that is made by any agency. The only purpose of this proposal was to allow a legislative committee, when the legislature was not in session, to suspend a rule until the next session of the legislature. Everything else that this proposal has in it is already allowed today. The only purpose for this proposal is to allow them to suspend it — not kill it or anything of that nature. Therefore, at this time, we will pass, and wait for the minority report to be explained. I would like to say at this time that we are preparing a substitute amendment to this, which will make that intent very clear and leave the rest out.

CHAIRMAN HUTCHINSON: The secretary will report the first amendment.

SECRETARY CHASE: Mrs. Daisy Elliott has offered the following —

MR. DOWNS: Mr. Chairman, I have a preferential motion.

CHAIRMAN HUTCHINSON: You will state it, Mr. Downs.

MR. DOWNS: I move that this item be laid over until after lunch; and, having made the motion, I believe I can speak on it? I have the floor, do I, Mr. Chairman?

CHAIRMAN HUTCHINSON: Yes. You may proceed.

MR. DOWNS: I understand from Delegate Kuhn that a substitute has been prepared. I think it would be a waste of the committee's time for us at this point to discuss a minority report to something that is apparently being withdrawn.

When Delegate Iverson asked for a recess, after a little discussion we acquiesced in that. We are not now asking for a recess, though we think we should have the same opportunity, but we feel that if the substitute is prepared and we get copies before our noon recess, those of us from the Democratic party will work on our lunch hour so that we will have time to review this and discuss it after lunch. We think this will facilitate the convention and help us complete the document. If this does not happen, then of course we will either have to ask for a recess or discuss the minority report which asks that we strike the majority report that apparently is being removed.

CHAIRMAN HUTCHINSON: Mr. Yeager.

MR. YEAGER: I should like to support Mr. Downs' position in this and suggest that we take up the exclusion report, which we should be able to finish before lunch, and then we would be finished with the legislative powers section.

MR. KUHN: Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN HUTCHINSON: Mr. Kuhn.

MR. KUHN: May I respectfully request Mr. Downs to let us go on to the exclusion report, and we can talk to him and maybe we can agree before it's over. Otherwise, he can renew his demand.

MR. DOWNS: I am just so cooperative, Delegate Kuhn, that I'll be glad to do that and help facilitate the convention.

CHAIRMAN HUTCHINSON: In order to facilitate the convention, Mr. Downs moves that the further consideration of Committee Proposal 123 be temporarily passed. All those in favor will say aye. Opposed will say no.

The motion prevails. The secretary will report the next order of business.

SECRETARY CHASE: Item 26 on the calendar, from the committee on legislative powers, by Mr. Hoxie, chairman, Exclusion Report 2045, A report recommending the exclusion of article V, section 34.

Following is Exclusion Report 2045 as read by the secretary, and the reasons submitted in support thereof:

The committee on legislative powers recommends that article V, section 34 of the present constitution be excluded from the new constitution.

Mr. Hoxie, chairman of the committee on legislative powers, submits the following reason in support of Exclusion Report 2045:

It is our conclusion that the safeguard against possible abuse in this area would appear to be adequate if article V, section 24, and article VI, section 20, are retained.

CHAIRMAN HUTCHINSON: On the exclusion report, Mr. Hoxie.

MR. HOXIE: Mr. Chairman, fellow delegates, I will call on Mr. Powell to make an explanation.

CHAIRMAN HUTCHINSON: Mr. Powell.

MR. POWELL: Mr. Chairman and members of the committee, probably I should read the little section that is involved here. It's entitled "Private Claims," section 34 of article V, "The legislature shall not audit nor allow any private claim or account."

The report of our committee is exceedingly brief. It is found on page 494, and it probably would need some explanation. It just reads like this, "It is our conclusion that the safeguard against possible abuse in this area would appear to be adequate if article V, section 24, and article VI, section 20, are retained."

I'll identify those 2 sections to which reference is made. Article V, section 24, is the portion of the constitution which requires a 2/3 vote for appropriations for local or private purposes. Then, the other article to which reference is made, article VI, section 20, has to do with the board of auditors and the procedure for adjusting claims against the state. This was cleared with the other committees involved, and we feel that the report from the committee on executive branch adequately takes care of any situation which might arise. We see no need for retaining this section.

CHAIRMAN HUTCHINSON: The question is upon the exclusion report. All those in favor will say aye. Opposed will say no.

Exclusion Report 2045 is passed. The secretary will read the next item of business.

SECRETARY CHASE: The only remaining item of business is Committee Proposal 123.

CHAIRMAN HUTCHINSON: Committee Proposal 123 is next in order. Mr. Hoxie.

MR. HOXIE: Mr. Chairman, I'm looking for Mr. Downs. He made a motion a moment ago. It is my understanding Mr. Downs wanted an opportunity to review the proposed new amended proposal. Mr. Downs do you wish to proceed at this time, or do you want the committee to rise?

MR. DOWNS: Mr. Chairman, I would just as soon continue this. This is a one sentence one, and I don't want to speak on it, but the minority report for striking still applies to the new language. And if it will facilitate the committee to continue on this now, we are perfectly willing to.

CHAIRMAN HUTCHINSON: The next order of business is the consideration of Committee Proposal 123. The secretary will read the proposal.

SECRETARY CHASE: Committee Proposal 123.

[The proposal was again read by the secretary. For text, see above, page 2419.]

Messrs. Kuhn, Hutchinson, Hatch, G. E. Brown and Allen offer the following amendment:

1. Amend page 1, line 8, after "Sec. a.", by striking out the balance of the section and inserting "The legislature may by concurrent resolution empower a joint committee of the legislature acting in the interim between sessions to suspend any rule or regulation of an administrative agency promulgated when the legislature is not in session until the end of the next regular legislative session."

[Mr. Bentley reentered the chamber and took his seat.]

CHAIRMAN HUTCHINSON: The Chair recognizes Mr. Kuhn on the amendment.

MR. KUHN: Mr. Chairman and members of the committee, this is the purpose which I explained earlier which the committee had in mind. Now, what does this allow? This allows the legislature, by a concurrent resolution, to form a joint committee, so when any administrative agency promulgates a rule when the legislature is not in session, this committee is merely allowed to suspend it until the legislature comes back into session. It does not allow this joint committee to kill the rule, or anything like that, or to alter it, but merely to suspend it. We found that, too many times, these administrative agencies have adopted rules when the legislature was not in session. It was thought that this would make it a better method to carry out the legislative intent.

CHAIRMAN HUTCHINSON: The question is upon the amendment. Mr. Downs.

MR. DOWNS: Mr. Chairman, we do have our minority report. Now, at what point does that come in, inasmuch as I assume this is really a substitute for the majority report?

CHAIRMAN HUTCHINSON: The minority report proposes to strike out everything. Therefore, the order of business properly should be that the proposal itself should first be perfected and, then, having been perfected, the minority report, being an amendment to strike out, would be next considered.

MR. KUHN: Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN HUTCHINSON: Mr. Kuhn.

MR. KUHN: I would like to say also that we tried, and thought it suitable, justifiably, we thought, to have a much stronger provision in this, even in our committee. Most of the intent that we have here was an amendment offered by Mr. Murphy and some of his colleagues on the legislative powers committee, and we think that this is a very mild proposal to take care of a problem that could arise, and that it really has no effect to hurt anybody, but merely gives the legislature, the ones that are really responsible for making our legislative acts, a chance to look at it.

CHAIRMAN HUTCHINSON: The question is upon the amendment. Mr. Staiger.

MR. STAIGER: I would like to ask Mr. Kuhn a question, through the Chair, if I could. Mr. Kuhn, under this amendment, a rule is made by an administrative agency while the legislature is not in session. The committee, under this language, would then have power to suspend the rule until the next session of the legislature. Now, suppose the legislature does not act on it at that session? The committee would then, as I read it, have no further power to suspend it again, is that correct?

MR. KUHN: You are absolutely correct.

MR. STAIGER: Thank you.

MR. BLEDSOE: Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN HUTCHINSON: Mr. Bledsoe.

MR. BLEDSOE: May I propound a question to the proponent of this amendment?

CHAIRMAN HUTCHINSON: You may proceed, sir.

MR. BLEDSOE: Mr. Chairman, Mr. Kuhn, during this period of suspension, presumably there are some rights involved, are there not? Presumably?

MR. KUHN: Presumably, yes.

MR. BLEDSOE: What position are our courts in with reference to the persons whose rights are involved while this period of suspended animation is being engaged in by the legislative committee, so called?

MR. KUHN: Well, they would be in abeyance. The truth is that now if the agency comes out with a rule, it's the rule unless the legislature kills it. The only change here, Mr. Bledsoe, if I may continue for half a minute, is to the effect that when the legislature is not in session and a rule is promulgated, then the committee can suspend it. Chances are they may never use this power. But this is the one power the attorney general said they do not have unless it is in the constitution.

MR. BLEDSOE: During this period the courts are still in session, aren't they?

MR. KUHN: Yes, sir, they are.

MR. BLEDSOE: Aren't you conferring a judicial power on this phantom legislative committee, while the rights of the people are being involved before this tribunal? You can answer that question yes or no.

MR. KUHN: The answer is no.

MR. BLEDSOE: No?

MR. KUHN: No.

MR. BLEDSOE: Don't these administrative tribunals initially take jurisdiction in matters cognizable within the purview of their enactments?

MR. KUHN: Yes, sir.

MR. BLEDSOE: Mr. Chairman, Mr. Kuhn, suppose the legislative committee decides to suspend indefinitely the action under this so called transitory procedure suggested by this amendment. What will happen to the litigants involved before this administrative tribunal?

MR. KUHN: Mr. Bledsoe, I believe that you're referring now to an order of an administrative body. We are speaking of rules and regulations. One is judicial and one is not. We are not speaking about a judicial order, as I understand it.

MR. BLEDSOE: Could either party, Mr. Chairman and Mr. Kuhn, apply to the court in the meantime to have the question determined?

MR. KUHN: Mr. Bledsoe, I would say the only thing this affects is rules and regulations. It has nothing to do with an order, which I think you are injecting at this time.

MR. BLEDSOE: No. With reference to this action that you are talking about, Mr. Chairman and Mr. Kuhn, could either one of the parties apply to the court during this period?

MR. KUHN: You can always apply to the court, but I don't know what relief you would get.

CHAIRMAN HUTCHINSON: Mr. Hoxie.

MR. HOXIE: Mr. Chairman, fellow delegates, I think perhaps an explanation is in order to Mr. Bledsoe. In the first place, the legislature has the right to suspend the rule or regulation promulgated by the agency if they feel it is not within the scope of the intent of the legislature. This only extends to that interim committee the right to suspend, if they feel that that rule promulgated by the administrative agency is not within the scope of the intent of the legislature, until the legislature reconvenes.

And, Mr. Bledsoe, as a very capable attorney you know, of course, that even though an agency does adopt a rule, it is always subject to attack in the courts as being within the intent of the legislature. This only protects the people during that interim period against an agency making a rule that is not intended by the legislature and would be injurious to the people. We are only doing this, Mr. Bledsoe, to protect the interests of the public for that interim period between the time the legislature adjourns and until they return. May I stress, again, the only purpose of this is to give an interim committee that right, and that it will be subject to the action of the full body of the legislature, which authority and power the attorney general has ruled they presently have.

CHAIRMAN HUTCHINSON: Do you yield to Mr. Bledsoe?

MR. HOXIE: Yes.

CHAIRMAN HUTCHINSON: Mr. Bledsoe.

MR. BLEDSOE: Mr. Chairman, Mr. Hoxie, may I ask this question? Do not we in America apply to our courts for protection?

MR. HOXIE: That is true. But I don't see where that has any bearing on the question before the committee.

MR. BLEDSOE: What order would that committee issue for the protection of the people, and who could enforce it?

MR. HOXIE: Mr. Chairman, Mr. Bledsoe, the committee would not issue any orders. They would merely decide that that particular rule — and I will say that many, many agencies have made many, many rules that were entirely within the scope of the authority of the legislation which gave them the power to administer a certain piece of legislation. But once in a while we do have an agency which promulgates a rule that the legislature did not intend within the scope of that authority. They do not make any orders, as referred to by yourself, any more than the legislature, when they convene and pass upon the rules and regulations of an agency when they come into session, are making any more rules. But this committee would only have the authority to delay the operation of that particular rule until the legislature convenes.

MR. BLEDSOE: Mr. Chairman, Mr. Hoxie, do I understand that it is your position here that once the legislature makes an enactment, it has the power then to enforce its enactment?

MR. HOXIE: Apparently Judge Dehnke has requested the floor.

MR. BLEDSOE: Will you answer that?

MR. HOXIE: I can answer it, but I think —

MR. BLEDSOE: I would like you to answer that, if you can.

MR. HOXIE: Will you repeat the question.

MR. BLEDSOE: I say, is it your position that once the legislature passes an enactment, it has the power to enforce it?

MR. HOXIE: That is not the point.

MR. BLEDSOE: I'm asking you that question.

MR. HOXIE: I'm saying that you are proposing a question which is not at all in point in this particular thing. The legislature does not enforce acts, as you well know. They only pass legislation for the purpose of carrying out activities for the benefit of the people of the state of Michigan. But they do have the authority, presently, under the attorney general's ruling, to determine if the rules and regulations promulgated by an agency are within the scope of authority granted to an agency.

CHAIRMAN HUTCHINSON: The Chair next recognizes Mr. Martin.

MR. MARTIN: I thought perhaps just a short word of explanation might help here. The sole purpose of this provision would be to avoid the situation which you get into when a rule or regulation is promulgated while the legislature is not in session. If you don't have such a provision as this, you can have all kinds of court actions arise in the meantime, just as you have in the past, to prevent the rule coming into effect. All this does is to give the legislature, through its interim committee, an opportunity to delay the effective date of it until the legislature meets, when it can consider the matter, and if it wants to act, which it has the power to do, it can act. If it doesn't want to act, it needn't; and of course the rule then goes into effect at the end of the session. So this is simply a device to prevent court actions from arising, and from all kinds of entanglements occurring, in the event that an administrative agency promulgates a rule in the period when the legislature is not in session.

It seems to me that both sides could agree that this was a desirable and necessary thing and that it does not in any way interfere with the rights of litigants. It doesn't affect any existing orders of the commission, or anything of that sort. It simply relates to new rules or regulations which may be promulgated for the future by administrative boards or commissions.

CHAIRMAN HUTCHINSON: Mr. Jones.

MR. JONES: Through the Chair, I should like to ask Mr. Kuhn a question. Mr. Kuhn, under the proposal which you have presented here for this interim committee, under what procedures would this committee operate? For example, would a public hearing be held before this committee issued its decision? Just what do you have in mind?

MR. KUHN: That would be a legislative detail, sir, and I do not think that would be necessary to put in this constitution. I would assume that they would probably do something to that effect, quite naturally.

MR. JONES: Thank you.

CHAIRMAN HUTCHINSON: There is an amendment to the amendment. Mr. Nord.

MR. NORD: Mr. Chairman, am I in order to speak before the amendment is read? I would like to speak on the amendment that is on the wall.

CHAIRMAN HUTCHINSON: You may proceed.

MR. NORD: Mr. Chairman, I rise to oppose the amendment that is now before us, on a number of grounds. First of all, I take issue on the entire theory on which it is based. Then, I also take issue on some of the details in the way in which it would operate. First of all, I think this is certainly a new concept, and unless it can be justified clearly on the basis of some principle, it ought not be adopted.

I do take issue with the basic principle on which it is proposed. The principle on which it is proposed, as I understand it, is this: the legislature is the one who has adopted the statute in the first place, setting up the administrative board. Therefore, the legislature ought to know what its intent was better than the board. If that is a correct theory, then of course there is some justification for such a proposal. But I argue that this is not a correct theory, for this reason: the legislature is not a correct judge of the legislative intent because it may not be the same legislature that is going to do the judging.

You might have an administrative board set up in the year 1900, and in the year 1950 there is a rule or regulation adopted by the board, and the new legislature 50 years later says it is going to judge the original legislative intent. Now, I can't see why these new legislators 50 years later are in a good position to know the original legislative intent. They are certainly in no better position than anybody else—any other lawyer or any judge. Therefore, I think for that reason the entire premise on which the whole concept is based is fallacious. It would seem as though the legislature is the best judge of the legislative intent, but that is not so.

Furthermore, if they are only judging their own intent, how do we know that they don't change their intent in the meantime, and in this manner basically enact a new law changing their intent without going through the ordinary due process of law? We can't be certain that when they say their original intent was so and so, that it really was their original intent. They may have changed their intent, even if it's the same legislators involved. But, especially in view of the fact that you might have all new legislators, they certainly are not in a better position than anybody else.

Now, the question arises: in the absence of a provision such as the one that now appears on the wall, what provisions are available for determining the legislative intent? The answer to that is clear, in my opinion. The courts determine the legislative intent. That is the normal provision of law in every state, everywhere, as in the common law; that if the legislature enacts a law, and the question is raised, "What was their intent?" That's a judicial question. I therefore think we are getting extremely mixed up in the separation between the legislature and the judiciary and are introducing a concept which, in my opinion, we will not like a bit after we adopt it. That's my first objection: that the theory is just superficially good. But when you look at it carefully—and of course we haven't had a real chance to look at it carefully—but when you begin to look at it, you begin to get quite nervous as to the theory.

Now, as to the practical application of this amendment. Again, as I see it, we have this basic rationale behind it. The legislature has adopted a certain act setting up a board. Now, we say: let's not trust the board. All right, now, if we don't trust the board, and I realize there are some cases where some people do not trust the board, the next question is: whom do we trust until the legislature decides to repeal the statute or the rule? We know, of course, that we could trust the legislature in the end to change the rule by enacting a law. The question is though: whom do we trust in the meantime? Do we trust the board which was set up by the legislature, or do we trust the committee which is now proposed? And I raise this point: the legislature set up the board. Now the legislature will set up the committee. The committee will not act as a legislature; it will act as a board. It is just another board. In fact, it is an administrative board because its sole function is to determine whether or not a certain rule should go into effect. It is doing the same kind of thing as the board itself. And the question is: which one of these 2 should we trust during the interim period, the board that was set up for that specific purpose, or the committee which will have to act in the same way, but without the same knowledge, without the same expertise? I therefore feel that by substituting one board for another, substituting a board which certainly has no expertise in the matter for a board which the legislature set up to have expertise, we are again damaging the administrative process, and I can't see any good rationale on behalf of that.

The final point that I would make relates to and reinforces the points that I believe Mr. Bledsoe made as well. That has to do with this problem. Suppose a rule goes into effect in the year 1950. In the year 1960, I believe, under the language here—I may be wrong—the joint committee could still suspend it. I'm not sure of that, but I think that as long as the rule was adopted when the legislature was out of session, I don't think that the right to suspend it automatically is determined. But in the event that that could be repaired; I suppose it could be repaired, but maybe I'm wrong on that point.

Suppose the board enacts the rule, let's say in May, and the legislature is not in session, let us assume. And suppose we have a case like this: a rule that sets forth the amount of contaminants that can be emitted from a factory into a stream. We have a water resources board. Suppose they were to adopt a rule, as is done in many states, stating you can emit so many parts in a million of a certain effluent. Now, a company desires to build a factory, and taking into account that rule, they begin to build a factory, or else they let out a contract to build a factory based on that assumption. The reason I mention this particular subject is this is one in which I have expertise myself as a consultant. And I know that, as an engineer, a factory that is being built needs to consider what you are permitted to do in the way of discharging effluents. Now, if we were to design a plant which would be based on the theory that we are permitted to emit a certain amount of effluents, and then the rule is suspended — and under the provisions of the amendment on the wall it could be suspended for about a year, I believe — now what will happen to the people who are building this factory during that period? Mr. Bledsoe, I believe, has pointed out that they have certain rights when they let the contract to build that factory. Now they don't know whether they have those rights or not. If they don't know whether they have those rights or not, it seems to me they are being deprived of certain rights.

I hope no one will think I am crying crocodile tears in favor of factories because operating factories has been my life until a few years ago, and water pollution and air pollution have always been big problems with us. It is a serious factor.

I'm quite certain if we think this matter over carefully we will find many other examples where a retroactive effect would be given, even though it is only temporary, by a committee. And I question whether a committee should have any right to engage in any retroactive changes in the law. I question further whether that does not violate the fourteenth amendment principle of due process of law because somebody's liberty — namely the liberty to build a factory of a certain type — is being taken away from him without due process of law. No law has been enacted, and no court decision has been given, and yet he no longer is in position to go along with his contract. In fact, he may have to breach his contract.

I will say this. I don't take a dim view of the whole objective behind this. I also don't think this will kill the whole state of Michigan if it should pass. But I do think it is ill conceived and hastily drawn. And although I see some people walking around the floor, attempting to perfect it on the floor, I just don't think this can be perfected that fast. In fact, I really hope that it can be reconsidered, or maybe postponed if necessary. But I think it has booby traps in it, and we ought not to adopt it blindly.

CHAIRMAN HUTCHINSON: The secretary will report the amendment to the amendment.

SECRETARY CHASE: Mr. Faxon has offered an amendment to the amendment:

1. Amend the amendment, after "joint" by inserting "bipartisan"; so the language will read, "The legislature may by concurrent resolution empower a joint bipartisan committee of the legislature acting in the interim between sessions. . . ."

CHAIRMAN HUTCHINSON: The question is upon the amendment offered by Mr. Faxon.

MR. FAXON: Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN HUTCHINSON: Mr. Faxon.

MR. FAXON: I don't think there is any need for me to go into any explanation as to what the purpose of this is. If there is to be a provision of this sort, the least that it should include is some recognition of the need for a bipartisan committee if it's to act in this way during the interim between sessions of the legislature. That's all I care to say on it.

CHAIRMAN HUTCHINSON: The question is upon the amendment. All those in favor will say aye. Opposed will say no.

The amendment is not adopted. The question recurs on the amendment offered by Mr. Kuhn and others. All those in favor will say aye. Opposed will say no.

The amendment is adopted. The secretary will read the next amendment, the minority report.

SECRETARY CHASE: Pursuant to the minority report of Messrs. Downs, Lesinski, Youngblood, Baginski and Murphy,

Mr. Downs offers the following amendment:

1. Amend page 1, line 8, by striking out all of the proposal.

CHAIRMAN HUTCHINSON: The question is upon the amendment to strike. Mr. Downs.

MR. DOWNS: Mr. Chairman, I believe the discussion on the other amendments has in a sense covered this, so I shall try to be very brief. The whole matter of administrative law and what is an executive agency and what is a quasi judicial one is probably one of the most complicated as well as important fields in public law. I feel that the way the majority report stands, even as amended, it's a grave interference with the executive branch of government, and really holds everybody and nobody responsible.

The legislature, in creating agencies, whether quasi judicial or administrative, can and very properly has the right to make certain statutory and other limitations. But I'm concerned that if the majority report passes, the public service commission, for example, could be very much hamstrung in the operation of its day to day administration, where rules and regulations must come out.

Now, we use the words "rule" and "regulation" rather lightly here. I don't want to embarrass anybody by asking him to define what a rule is and what a regulation is; and what an agency might do in a court construction of what is a rule or regulation, or something a little this side or that side of it. I do feel that the field of administrative law is one of the growing areas, and that this above all we should not try to put in a straitjacket in the constitution. We have our broad protections of equal protection of the law, due process of law, and in our rights, suffrage and election we very properly put in the concept of fair hearing before administrative and all governmental agencies, which I think are fine concepts. I therefore urge the support of the minority report amendment that strikes this entire language, and then we leave this problem to the legislature and the courts to develop as time and situations change in the years to come.

CHAIRMAN HUTCHINSON: The question is upon the amendment to strike.

MR. DOWNS: I demand the yeas and nays, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN HUTCHINSON: On which Mr. Downs demands the yeas and nays. Is the demand supported? The demand is supported, 1/5 of the members present agreeing thereto, and it is thereby ordered. Mr. Kuhn.

MR. KUHN: Mr. Chairman and members of the committee, since Mr. Downs would like a definition of what a rule is and what a regulation is, I would like to read it to him. A rule and regulation is the same thing. And under the administrative code, in Michigan Statutes Annotated, volume 2, page 334, it is defined:

Rules include every regulation, standard or statement of policy or interpretation of general application and future effect, including the amendment or repeal thereof adopted by an agency, whether with or without prior hearing, to implement or make specific the law enforced or administered by it or to govern its organization or procedure.

And it has a few more things, if he would like to read what rules and regulations are. But the main thing is: it is to carry out the intent of the legislature and to implement their substantive law.

CHAIRMAN HUTCHINSON: The question is upon the amendment offered to strike. Those in favor of striking the proposal will vote aye. Those opposed will vote no. This is a record roll call vote. Have you all voted? If so, the secretary will lock the machine and record the vote.

The roll was called and the delegates voted as follows:

SECRETARY CHASE: On the minority report amendment to strike out the body of the proposal, the yeas are 31; the nays are 77.

CHAIRMAN HUTCHINSON: The amendment is not adopted.

Following is explanation of vote submitted by Messrs. Dade, Hood, Hodges and Miss Hart:

We wish to state the reasons to delete amended Committee Proposal 123, regarding administrative agencies

The legislature may by concurrent resolution empower a joint committee of the legislature acting in the interim between sessions to suspend any rule or regulation of an administrative agency promulgated when the legislature is not in session until the end of the next regular legislative session.

This proposal, as passed by the committee would permit the legislature to create a committee of an unknown number, who could meet secretly and suspend any and all new rules and regulations of administrative agencies when the legislature was not in session.

The definition of agency and rule and regulation is so vague that this might mean a civil service rule could be suspended during this interim period. Universities who thought of themselves as separate constitutional agencies might be found to fit within the definition and find that their actions of constitutional governing boards were subject to suspension by this interim committee. Certainly state agencies such as the corporation and securities commission could find that if they proposed a rule similar to rule 9, that this special legislative committee could suspend its operation—without even a recorded roll call vote of who on the committee supported and opposed this suspension.

But worse yet, when the legislature came back into session the suspension could continue until the end of the legislative session, if there was no action by the legislature. Then the interim committee might, the very day after the adjournment of the legislature, resuspend the rule. Thus the administration of the executive branch of government could be completely frustrated by such an interim committee.

The conservation commission might find that its ordinary new and temporary rules and regulations regarding hunting, fishing, game and land preservation could be held up indefinitely through this devious means.

The public service commission and highway department might find that new rules and regulations relative to weight and even safety measures for trucking and other matters could be suspended indefinitely.

This proposal does not belong in the constitution, and should be held for the action of the legislature during regular sessions in creating administrative agencies, and should be the responsibility of the executive branch to see they operate effectively.

This proposal weakens the executive branch of the government and weakens the people's control of the government by having an interim committee make decisions without even the necessity of a recorded roll call vote.

This committee could be set up by a legislative concurrent resolution without any power of the governor to veto or right of referendum by the people.

Following is explanation of vote submitted by Mrs. Daisy Elliott:

In explanation of my vote on the substitute language of Committee Proposal 123, I wish to state here that I do not concur with the present language adopted here. My amendment to delete the same was withdrawn for the expressed purpose of expediting time to help complete the convention's work schedule. However, I hope that all delegates will have ample time to consider this language before the second reading.

I believe that the language in this proposal would permit the legislature by itself to strike down administrative rulings and stifle administrative process. This proposal is another aim at rules similar to rule 9, possibly rule 10 or 11 and could suspend their operations indefinitely.

It is clear that the legislature can authorize or prohibit rulemaking by an administrative agency. At the present time the legislature may change any rule by passing a bill and having the governor sign it. The legislature has attempted to alter administrative rulings in the past by concurrent resolution. The attorney general has ruled this unconstitutional.

The interim committee with the power to suspend administrative rulings defeats one of the main concepts of administrative agencies. Such agencies are created with the idea that they will have special competence within their area. To allow a legislative committee the power to suspend rules is to create a super agency without the necessary expertise. Such a committee could effectively halt agency work for long periods of time. Where a rule is unconstitutional or illegal, the courts can act by injunction to halt the agency. If a rule is within the scope of an agency's power, that agency is acting under a bill passed by the whole legislature and ratified by the governor. It should take the whole legislature and the governor to change the law under which the agency acted. A small part of the legislature should not have the power to stifle the administrative process.

CHAIRMAN HUTCHINSON (continuing): Are there any further amendments to the body of Committee Proposal 123? If not, it will pass.

Committee Proposal 123, as amended, is passed. The Chair recognizes Mr. Hoxie.

MR. HOXIE: Thank you, members of the committee. Mr. Chairman, I move that the committee rise.

CHAIRMAN HUTCHINSON: Mr. Hoxie moves that the committee do now rise. All those in favor will say aye. Opposed will say no.

The motion prevails.

[Whereupon, the committee of the whole having risen, President Nisbet resumed the Chair.]

PRESIDENT NISBET: The Chair recognizes Mr. Hutchinson.

MR. HUTCHINSON: Mr. President, the committee of the whole has had under consideration a certain proposal on which the secretary will make a detailed report.

SECRETARY CHASE: Mr. President, the committee of the whole has had under consideration Committee Proposal 123, A proposal to permit administrative agencies to promulgate rules and regulations and to provide for legislative review thereof, and for judicial review of the findings of such agencies; has adopted an amendment to this proposal, and recommends its passage as thus amended.

[The following is the amendment adopted by the committee of the whole:

1. Amend page 1, line 8, after "Sec. a.", by striking out the balance of the section and inserting "The legislature may by concurrent resolution empower a joint committee of the legislature acting in the interim between sessions to suspend any rule or regulation of an administrative agency promulgated when the legislature is not in session until the end of the next regular legislative session.".]

PRESIDENT NISBET: Committee Proposal 123, as amended by the committee of the whole, is accepted and referred to the committee on style and drafting.

Following is Committee Proposal 123 as amended and referred to the committee on style and drafting:

The committee recommends that the following be included in the constitution:

Sec. a. Danhof, Herman Dehnke, Edward Douglas, Stanley Everett, William Ford, Kenneth Prettie and Earl Pugsley.

PRESIDENT NISBET: Without objection, they are approved. Mr. Van Dusen.

MR. VAN DUSEN: Mr. President, there will be a very brief meeting of the members of the committee just appointed by the president in room F immediately following the recess.

PRESIDENT NISBET: The Chair recognizes Miss Andrus.

MISS ANDRUS: Mr. President, I move that we recess until 1:30.

PRESIDENT NISBET: The question is on the motion of Miss Andrus. All those in favor will say aye. Opposed, no.

The motion prevails. We are recessed until 1:30.

[Whereupon, at 12:10 o'clock p.m. the convention recessed; and, at 1:30 o'clock p.m., reconvened.]

SECRETARY CHASE: The secretary, on behalf of the committee on style and drafting, has been requested to call to your attention a chart which has been prepared by that committee to help each delegate keep track of the second reading proposals. This chart has been placed in your status books.

PRESIDENT NISBET: Just one other announcement. There has been some communication and discussion with the state bar of Michigan asking us to be their guests on law day, which will be held on May 1. It is my understanding that they are arranging a program that will not interfere with the convention. A definite announcement will be made of this a little later. I'm sure we should participate in it as much as possible. It will be on Tuesday, May 1, during the noon hour.

The Chair recognizes Mr. Yeager.

MR. YEAGER: Mr. President, I move that the convention resolve itself into committee of the whole for the purpose of considering items on the general orders calendar.

PRESIDENT NISBET: The question is on the motion of Mr. Yeager. Those in favor will say aye. Opposed, no.

SECRETARY CHASE: Messrs. Marshall, Faxon and Mahinske offer Resolution 92, A resolution relative to extending the constitutional convention May 15 deadline.

Following is Resolution 92 as offered:

Whereas, The major concern of this convention ought properly to be that of submitting a document which is our best deliberative judgment; and

Whereas, We have to date exercised this judgment carefully and judiciously; now therefore be it

Resolved, That in the future consideration of proposals on second and third reading we not be guided by a fixed time schedule, but are to be guided by our own good judgment and sound thinking in concluding this convention expeditiously and with a document of which we can all be proud; and be it further

Resolved, That appropriate steps be taken to secure additional funds, if necessary, for up to 2 weeks beyond the May 15 deadline, to insure that we can conclude our work in an orderly, sensible, judicious, expeditious and deliberative manner.

PRESIDENT NISBET: Referred to the committee on rules and resolutions.

SECRETARY CHASE: Mr. Downs, Miss Hart, Messrs. Kelsey, Norris, Bradley, Mrs. Daisy Elliott, Messrs. Buback, Baginski and Krolkowski offer

Resolution 93, A resolution providing for the separate submission to the people of the controversial and the noncontroversial portions of the proposed constitution.

Following is Resolution 93 as offered:

Whereas, The constitutional convention is in the process of adopting several items with substantial bipartisan support, which in all likelihood are desired by the people of this state; and

Whereas, Such items include, but are not confined to, the following: (1) elimination of spring elections; (2) 4 year terms; (3) improved borrowing power for the state; (4) a self executing civil rights commission; (5) constitutional protection from taxation for churches; (6) possibility of lowering interest rates and tolls on the Mackinac bridge through full faith and credit bonds; (7) constitutional status for universities and an 8 member state board of education to replace the present 4 member board, with additional coordinating powers; (8) increased pay for legislators; (9) constitutional prohibition of capital punishment; and (10) elimination of much obsolete language; and

Whereas, There are many other highly controversial provisions that have been adopted by smaller majorities which may jeopardize the acceptance of these proposals that have substantial agreement; and

Whereas, The constitutional amendment creating this convention permits this convention to submit either amendments or a revised constitution to the people; now therefore be it

Resolved, That this convention call upon the committee on style and drafting, immediately after second reading, to present to the convention in such form that those provisions which have received substantial bipartisan support be submitted in one package and those that are highly controversial be submitted as separate items for the voters to pass on independently so that the voter's antipathy to one controversial item will not jeopardize the passage of those portions of the constitution that are agreed upon with substantial bipartisan support.

PRESIDENT NISBET: Referred to the committee on rules and resolutions.

Second reading.

SECRETARY CHASE: Item 19 on the calendar, Committee Proposal 22, A proposal pertaining to state civil service. Amends article VI, section 22.

PRESIDENT NISBET: The Chair recognizes Mr. Martin.

MR. MARTIN: Mr. President, in view of the length of the proposal, I move that since the secretary has read the title that the balance of the proposal be considered read.

PRESIDENT NISBET: Without objection, it will be so considered. Hearing none, it is.

Following is Committee Proposal 22 as reported by the committee on style and drafting and considered read. (For text as referred to said committee, see above, page 714.):

Sec. a. The CLASSIFIED state civil service shall consist of all positions in the state service except those filled by popular election, heads of PRINCIPAL departments, members of boards and commissions, the chief executive officer of boards and commissions heading principal departments, employees of courts of record, EMPLOYEES of the legislature, EMPLOYEES of the [higher] state [educational] institutions OF HIGHER EDUCATION, all persons in the armed forces of the state, 8 exempt positions in the office of THE governor, and within each PRINCIPAL department, when requested by the department head, 2 other exempt positions, one of which shall be policy making. [Three additional positions of a policy making nature may be exempted within each department as determined to be necessary by the civil service commission.] THE CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION MAY EXEMPT 3 ADDITIONAL POSITIONS OF A POLICY MAKING NATURE WITHIN EACH PRINCIPAL DEPARTMENT.

SECRETARY CHASE: On the passage of Committee Proposal 20, the yeas are 108; the nays, 3.

PRESIDENT NISBET: Committee Proposal 20 is passed and referred to the committee on style and drafting.

For Committee Proposal 20 as rereferred to the committee on style and drafting, see above.

Will the delegates please clear the board? The secretary will read the next proposal.

SECRETARY CHASE: Item 31 on the calendar, Committee Proposal 123, A proposal to permit administrative agencies to promulgate rules and regulations and to provide for legislative review thereof, and for judicial review of the findings of such agencies. Amend article V by adding a new section.

Following is Committee Proposal 123 as reported by the committee on style and drafting and read by the secretary. (For full text as referred to said committee, see above, page 2425.):

Sec. a. The legislature may by concurrent resolution empower a joint committee of the legislature acting in the interim between sessions to suspend UNTIL THE END OF THE NEXT REGULAR LEGISLATIVE SESSION any rule or regulation PROMULGATED BY [of] an administrative agency [promulgated] when the legislature is not in session [until the end of the next regular legislative session].

PRESIDENT NISBET: Mr. Hoxie.

MR. HOXIE: Mr. President, fellow delegates, the committee approves the proposal as it is returned to us from style and drafting. However, we do have a committee amendment, which is a clarifying amendment, which we will ask the secretary to read at this time.

SECRETARY CHASE: Mr. Hoxie, on behalf of the committee on legislative powers, offers the following amendment:

1. Amend page 1, line 5, after "in" by inserting "regular"; so the language will then read, "... when the legislature is not in regular session."

PRESIDENT NISBET: Mr. Hoxie.

MR. HOXIE: Mr. President, fellow delegates, you will notice on line 3 it refers to "until the end of the next regular legislative session," and it was our feeling that we should spell out that we are only referring to regular sessions which take place annually. We recommend the adoption of the amendment.

PRESIDENT NISBET: The question is on the amendment offered by Mr. Hoxie. Mr. Baginski.

MR. BAGINSKI: Mr. President and fellow delegates, I may get away from the amendment here for just a minute, but this proposal did not receive the unanimous approval of the committee and I am not in favor of this amendment and, of course, later I will talk on the proposal. I don't think this amendment should be adopted.

PRESIDENT NISBET: The question is on the amendment offered by Mr. Hoxie. Will the secretary read the amendment?

SECRETARY CHASE: The amendment offered by Mr. Hoxie:

[The amendment was again read by the secretary. For text, see above.]

PRESIDENT NISBET: Mr. Yeager.

Explanation—Matter within [] is stricken, matter in capitals is new.

MR. YEAGER: Mr. President, I should like to ask Mr. Hoxie a question.

PRESIDENT NISBET: If Mr. Hoxie cares to answer.

MR. YEAGER: If the word "regular" is not put in in amendment form, what will be the effect that is different?

MR. HOXIE: Well, it could relate, Mr. Yeager, to some special session of the legislature. It was the feeling of the committee that we should spell out what is intended by the convention, that we are referring to the annual regular sessions of the legislature as far as concerns the duties and responsibilities of the legislative committee which has the right to review the rules that are promulgated by the various administrative agencies.

MR. YEAGER: In other words, if the legislature should be in special session, this committee could still operate, because in special session they wouldn't be able to take up the question anyway; isn't that correct?

MR. HOXIE: I think that would be a reasonable interpretation.

PRESIDENT NISBET: The question is on the adoption of the amendment offered by Mr. Hoxie. Those in favor will say aye. Opposed, no.

The amendment is adopted. The question now is on Committee Proposal 123, as amended. Mr. Baginski.

MR. BAGINSKI: Mr. President and delegates of the convention, I might state before I go into this Committee Proposal 123 that we worked—the legislative powers—in harmony, but on this one proposal we will have to separate and the honeymoon will be over for just a few minutes. But we did talk about this particular proposal, and here is what it could do: let us say the liquor control commission adopted a rule that they thought was very necessary for the operation of the liquor control commission. Now, if for some reason this rule promulgated by the commission didn't suit this legislative committee, you might create a lot of hardship on the liquor control commission by suspending the rule until the legislature was in actual session. This same thing could apply to many, many other rules promulgated by boards and agencies, and I don't think this is language for the constitution. We do now have a statute to handle this, and I think the legislature has the right to do this without putting this wording into the constitution. I hope this proposal is defeated.

PRESIDENT NISBET: Mr. Kuhn.

MR. KUHN: Mr. President, members of the convention, the legislature would not have the power to do what this amendment to the proposed new constitution does. The legislature has the power to suspend or kill any rule or regulation by an administrative agency, but it does not have the power to allow a committee to suspend it until they come back into session the following year. That is the purpose of this amendment. It is to allow the legislature, in case any agency, during the summer-time when they are not around, does something which they do not think follows the intent of the legislature, merely to suspend it until the legislature comes back into session. Therefore we recommend the passage of Committee Proposal 123, as amended.

PRESIDENT NISBET: Mr. Downs.

MR. DOWNS: Mr. President, fellow delegates, I join with Delegate Baginski in urging a no vote on this proposal. As Delegate Baginski said, this is one of the few in the legislative powers committee on which there was not substantial agreement. I will try to review the history very briefly. This came in within about the last hour of the deadline for committee proposals. It came in at the very last. There was a minority report, and we did discuss this in committee of the whole. As I recall, Delegate Kuhn and I were discussing when a rule and a regulation were and were not in complete agreement—

PRESIDENT NISBET: May we have a little better order, please.

MR. DOWNS: —which I hope assumes that reasonable men can reasonably disagree.

I think Delegate Baginski's example of the liquor control commission is a very good one, where a liquor control commission might, for their efficient operation, adopt a rule dealing with hours or some enforcement procedure and then find it could be suspended. I think that the rule applies to everything from deer herd control to rule 9 of the corporation and securities commission.

Now, the question was also raised whether this legislative committee could resuspend the rule and, as I recall our earlier discussion, we were told it could not, and yet I do not see any language here that would prevent such a committee at the end of a legislative session, if there had been no legislative action, from meeting again and resuspending the rule. I think that while those of us here are properly concerned to see that administrative agencies do not abuse their prerogatives, that we should also see that our legislative committees also function responsibly. I think we made some protection in seeing that legislative committee action reports are public and kept in a journal. The way this constitutional provision is, I do not even see here—though our other provision may apply to it—rules for recorded roll call votes or even for hearings or making decisions. I am concerned that while we don't have apportionment, this might invite harassment between the legislative and executive branches of government that would not benefit the people of the state of Michigan.

I do agree that we need to see that administrative agencies follow due process concepts. The legislature, in creating various administrative agencies, can and should see that there are reasonable safeguards set up to protect the public interest. But I am afraid that this provision in the constitution may go way beyond that. This definitely is the type of language that does not belong in the constitution. I therefore urge a no vote on this Committee Proposal 123.

PRESIDENT NISBET: Mr. Norris.

MR. NORRIS: Mr. President, fellow delegates, I believe that to students of administrative law this particular provision will in time reflect its unwisdom. I think it is not in keeping with the best administrative practices. It is not in keeping with the best legislative practices.

What we are creating here in the constitution is an administrative censor or policeman in the legislature having a continuous licensing overview of all administrative conduct, and instead of the legislature exercising its power of investigation over things that might be wrong and which they have a legitimate interest in evaluating, here you are going to have a continuous committee set up in the constitution to review administrative action so that the flexibility and the expertise of administrative bodies will be limited and harassed and restrained. The administrators will be constantly looking over their shoulder as to what this committee in the legislature wants them to do, and they will not acquit themselves of their duty in the public interest. I submit, ladies and gentlemen of the convention, that this is a dangerous and ill advised proposal. I urge that we vote against it.

PRESIDENT NISBET: Mr. Stevens.

MR. STEVENS: Mr. President, delegates, the legislature creates all but a few of these administrative boards. They have only the power the legislature delegates to them. It seems only reasonable, logical and sensible that the legislature can limit these things. I do not see how it is going to do any great harm that some rule they have never had before shall be temporarily suspended until the legislature can take a good look at it and, if necessary, act by bill.

PRESIDENT NISBET: Mr. Yeager.

MR. YEAGER: Mr. President, ladies and gentlemen of the convention, Mr. Baginski spoke a few minutes ago about undue hardship upon the liquor control commission. My own experience with administrative agencies would not permit me to worry about undue hardship on the administrative agencies, but rather I would worry about undue hardship upon the citizens of this state. I think administrative agencies need someone looking over their shoulder. I therefore urge the adoption of this proposal.

PRESIDENT NISBET: Mr. Barthwell.

MR. BARTHWELL: Mr. President and members of the convention, on line 3, what do they mean by "any rule or regulation?" Do they mean by this that a commission would not have the authority to put any rule into effect when the legislature is not in session? It looks to me like this might be what this means, because you have no definition of what criteria they will use in determining which rules they would suspend. It looks to me like you could well say a commission should not institute a rule when the legislature is not in session, and if I am right in this opinion, this would particularly make me against this proposal. Therefore, I do not favor this proposal. I don't see any purpose it accomplishes.

PRESIDENT NISBET: Mr. Wanger.

MR. WANGER: I urge you to vote in favor of the proposal, fellow delegates. One of the reasons for its adoption was the statement that had been urged that when an agency is thinking of promulgating a somewhat controversial rule or regulation, it finds it convenient to wait until the legislature has adjourned before doing so. In this way, by putting the rule into effect when the legislature is not in session, it sometimes creates a political situation where, when the legislature returns, it finds it very difficult to consider this rule or regulation and the statute under which it was promulgated in a dispassionate and objective frame of mind.

I would also call your attention to the fact that administrative agencies are, by their nature, composed of specialists and experts in the field. This is necessary, but it is one of the inherent qualities of a specialist that he occasionally—I might even say often—loses the broad view which our legislators are expected to maintain and, therefore, by empowering a committee of legislators to have this power, which obviously would not be frequently exercised, would be a healthy thing for the general welfare of the people.

PRESIDENT NISBET: Mr. Young.

MR. YOUNG: Mr. President and fellow delegates, I think this proposal is a good example of an attempt to set a small legislative body up as super experts on every field of administrative agents. In fact, various delegates here might have various reasons for being opposed to the rulings of a given administrative agency, but this amounts to burning down the house in order to roast the pig. It is a dangerous shotgun approach to some of the evils that some of us may have suffered at the hands of administrative agencies that could well throw the whole administrative process in the state into a chaotic condition.

PRESIDENT NISBET: Mr. Hoxie.

MR. HOXIE: Mr. President, fellow delegates, I think that perhaps we should clarify our thinking a little bit. The legislature now has the right to review the rules and regulations of an agency to determine whether or not they are within the scope of the intent of the legislature. What has happened on rare occasions is that an administrative agency has adopted a rule and it has gone into effect to the detriment of the citizens. It is already in operation before the legislature comes back into session. It is the purpose and intent of this proposal to grant to that interim legislative committee the authority to review these rules to see that they are within the intent and scope of the legislative act.

Now, there is nothing in the law presently that would legally authorize this interim committee to function in this respect. The law does provide for the interim committee, but the attorney general has ruled that this interim committee does not have any authority in reality; so it is necessary, if we are going to protect the general public against the occasional rule laid down by an administrative agency, only to suspend that particular rule until the legislature is next in session. It is mandatory for the legislature to act upon that rule laid down by the particular agency, so there is no great hardship involved. It is a protection to the public. It is only for a period of a few months until the legislature each time comes back in session. So we urge your favorable consideration of this proposal in the interests of protecting the public.

PRESIDENT NISBET: Mr. Van Dusen.

MR. VAN DUSEN: Mr. President, I would move that further debate on this proposal be limited to 5 minutes.

PRESIDENT NISBET: The question is on the motion of Mr. Van Dusen. Those in favor will say aye. Opposed, no.

The motion prevails. Mr. Binkowski, you are recognized. Let me say there are 3 other speakers, Mr. Binkowski.

MR. BINKOWSKI: Mr. President, I would like to ask Mr. Hoxie a question in view of his last statement.

PRESIDENT NISBET: Mr. Hoxie.

MR. BINKOWSKI: Mr. Hoxie, would you please give this convention examples where administrative agencies have passed particular rules which have hurt the public in such a manner that the legislature has not been able to correct them?

MR. HOXIE: Yes. I can give you 2 examples in the revenue department: back some time ago the revenue department made a rule that all liquor that had been sold in our SDD stores was subject to a sales tax. As a result, we had to quickly move and pass legislation; otherwise we would have bankrupted all the SDDs in the state of Michigan because that would have been accumulated over a long period of time.

Another instance is where the revenue department passed a rule in which it was incumbent upon the distributor of gasoline to farm trade not only to secure the affidavit that the farmer intended to use a certain amount of that gasoline for agricultural purposes, but the revenue department put the burden of proof upon the distributor to prove that the farmer did actually use that gasoline for agricultural purposes, even though that farmer had made an affidavit which that distributor had accepted in good faith. There, again, we had to pass legislation which would remove that distributor, who was operating in good faith, from being financially responsible to the state of Michigan for many, many thousands of dollars. It was not the intent of the legislature, when they passed the law which gave a preference for gasoline used in agricultural purposes, to hold the distributor responsible beyond securing an affidavit that he was going to use it for that purpose; and again we passed legislation to correct what we considered injustices in that field.

MR. BINKOWSKI: Well then, Mr. Hoxie, my question was, where is there an example where an agency has acted and the legislature was not in the position to correct it? In both the examples you have cited, the legislature corrected the so called situation.

MR. HOXIE: They corrected by legislative acts, which is the only way they could do it, because the interim committee that was authorized by the statute didn't have any authority under the attorney general's ruling and, as a result, the only correction it could make was by legislative act.

I could give you another example of a case in which a very good agency in state government laid down some rules relative to sale of seed in the state of Michigan. The legislative committee was successful in holding the rule in abeyance, but the end result would have been that all the Scott seed would have had to have been taken off the shelves of the retailers in the state of Michigan if they would have had to comply with that particular rule.

I think there are always arguments on both sides of these things, but we are only concerned with protecting the public against possible misinterpretations of what the legislature intended only until such time as the legislature is back in session, and then the full body will determine whether or not that rule is in accordance with the intent of the legislature.

MR. BINKOWSKI: Well, ladies and gentlemen of the convention, I submit that the committee has not borne its burden of proof in proving why this particular language is necessary in the constitution. I further submit that with the exception of the last sentence, all of this language is presently in the statutes or could be in the statutes without any question, so this language is completely unnecessary.

PRESIDENT NISBET: Mr. Faxon.

MR. FAXON: Mr. President, Mr. Hoxie states that the question is of suspending the rules only for a few months until the legislature is in session. However, it states in the proposal it will be until the end of the next regular legislative session. Now, the question that I have is, what is to prevent this special committee from then resuspending the rule after the end of the next regular session? In other words, what guarantees are there here that the rule will ever take effect, because this committee could just go ahead and resuspend it?

PRESIDENT NISBET: The time has expired, Mr. Faxon.

MR. AUSTIN: Mr. President, I move we extend the time for debate for another 5 minutes.

PRESIDENT NISBET: The question is on the motion of Mr. Austin. Those in favor say aye. Those opposed?

The motion does not prevail. The question is now on Committee Proposal 123, as amended. Those in favor will vote aye. Those opposed will vote nay.

MR. AUSTIN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT NISBET: Mr. Austin.

MR. AUSTIN: Would it be appropriate for me to ask a question about the language here before I vote?

PRESIDENT NISBET: No, the vote has been ordered; the vote has started to be taken. Have you all voted? If so, the secretary will lock the machine and record the vote.

Article IV

Legislative Branch

Sec. 1. The legislative power of the State of Michigan is vested in a senate and a house of representatives.

Sec. 2. The senate shall consist of 38 members[,] to be elected from single member districts at the same [time] ELECTION as the governor for [4] FOUR-year terms concurrent with the term of office of the governor.

In districting the state for the purpose of electing senators after the official publication of the total population count of each federal decennial census, each county shall be assigned an apportionment factor equal to the sum of its percentage of the state's population as shown by the last regular federal decennial census computed to the nearest [1/100] ONE-ONE HUNDREDTH of one percent multiplied by [4] FOUR and its percentage of the state's land area computed to the nearest [1/100] ONE-ONE HUNDREDTH of one percent.

In arranging the state into senatorial districts, the apportionment commission shall be governed by the following rules:

(1) Counties with 13 or more apportionment factors shall be entitled as a class to senators in the proportion that the total apportionment factors of such counties bear to the total apportionment factors of the state computed to the nearest whole number. After each such county has been allocated one senator, the remaining senators to which this class of counties [are] IS entitled shall be distributed among such counties by the method of equal proportions applied to the apportionment factors.

(2) Counties having less than 13 apportionment factors shall be entitled as a class to senators in the proportion that the total apportionment factors of such counties bear to the total apportionment FACTORS of the state computed to the nearest whole number. Such counties shall thereafter be arranged into senatorial districts that are compact, convenient, and contiguous by land, as rectangular in shape as possible, and having as nearly as possible 13 apportionment factors, but in no event less than 10 or more than 16. Insofar as possible, existing senatorial districts at the time of reapportionment shall not be altered unless there [shall be] IS a failure to comply with the above standards.

(3) Counties entitled to [2] TWO or more senate districts shall be [further sub]divided into single member districts. The population of such districts shall be as nearly equal as possible but shall not be less than 75 percent nor more than 125 percent of a number determined by dividing the population of the county by the number of senators to which it is entitled. Each such district shall follow incorporated city or township boundary lines to the extent possible and shall be compact, contiguous, and as nearly uniform in shape as possible.

Sec. 3. The house of representatives shall consist of 110 members elected for [2] TWO-year terms from single member districts apportioned on a basis of population as [hereinafter] provided IN THIS ARTICLE. The districts shall consist of compact and convenient territory contiguous by land.

Each county which has a population of not less than [7/10] SEVEN-TENTHS of one percent of the population of the state shall constitute a separate representative area. Each county having less than [7/10] SEVEN-TENTHS of one percent of the population of the state shall be combined with another county or counties to form a representative area of not less than [7/10] SEVEN-

Explanation—Matter within [] is stricken, matter in capitals is new.

TENTHS of one percent of the population of the state. Any county which is isolated under the initial allocation as [herein] provided IN THIS SECTION shall be joined with that contiguous representative area having the smallest percentage of the state's population. Each such representative area shall be entitled initially to one representative.

After the assignment of one representative to each of the representative areas, the remaining house seats shall be apportioned among the representative areas on the basis of population by the method of equal proportions.

Any county comprising a representative area entitled to [2] TWO or more representatives shall be divided into single member representative districts as follows:

(1) The population of [each] SUCH districtS shall be as nearly equal as possible but shall not be less than 75 percent nor more than 125 percent of a number determined by dividing the population of the representative area by the number of representatives to which it is entitled.

(2) Such single member districts shall follow city and township boundaries where applicable and shall be composed of compact and contiguous territory as nearly square in shape as possible.

Any representative area consisting of more than one county, entitled to more than one representative, shall be divided into single member districts as equal as possible in population adhering to county lines.

Sec. 4. In counties having more than one representative or senatorial district, the territory in the same county annexed to or merged with a city between apportionments shall become a part of a contiguous representative or senatorial district in the city with which it is combined upon the effective date of the annexation or merger[.]. THE DISTRICTS WITH WHICH THE TERRITORY SHALL BE COMBINED SHALL BE [as] determined by ordinance of the city certified to the secretary of state.

[No legislator shall be deemed to have vacated his office by virtue of the above section.] NO SUCH CHANGE IN THE BOUNDARIES OF A REPRESENTATIVE OR SENATORIAL DISTRICT SHALL HAVE THE EFFECT OF REMOVING A LEGISLATOR FROM OFFICE DURING HIS TERM.

Sec. 5. ISLAND AREAS ARE CONSIDERED TO BE CONTIGUOUS BY LAND TO THE COUNTY OF WHICH THEY ARE A PART.

Sec. 6. A commission on legislative apportionment is hereby established consisting of [8] EIGHT persons, [4] FOUR of whom shall be selected by the state organizations of each of the [2] TWO political parties whose candidates for governor received the highest vote at the last general election AT WHICH A GOVERNOR WAS ELECTED preceding each apportionment. If a candidate for governor of a third political party has received at such election more than 25 percent of such gubernatorial vote, the commission shall consist of 12 members, [4] FOUR of whom shall be selected by the state organization of the third political party. One member of the commission shall be selected by each political party organization from each of the following [4] FOUR regions: (1) The upper peninsula; (2) The northern part of the lower peninsula, north of a line drawn along the northern boundaries of the counties of Bay, Midland, Isabella, Mecosta, Newaygo and Oceana; (3) Southwestern Michigan, those counties south of region (2) and west of a line drawn along the western boundaries of the counties of Bay, Saginaw, Shiawassee, Ingham, Jackson and Hillsdale; (4) Southeastern Michigan, the remaining counties of the state.

The commission shall complete its work within 180 days after all necessary census information is available. The commission shall proceed to DISTRICT AND apportion[, and district,] the senate and house of representatives according to the provisions of this constitution. The secretary of state shall keep a public record of all the proceedings of the commission and shall be responsible for the publication and distribution of each plan.

If a majority of the commission cannot agree on a plan, each member of the commission, individually or jointly with other members, may submit a proposed plan to the supreme court. The supreme court shall determine which plan complies most accurately with the constitutional requirements and shall direct that it be adopted BY THE COMMISSION and published as provided in this section.

Upon the application of any [qualified] elector filed not later than 60 days after final publication of the plan, the supreme court, in the exercise of original jurisdiction, shall direct the secretary of state or the apportionment commission to perform their duties, may review any final plan adopted by the commission, and shall make orders amending such plan if it fails to comply with the requirements of this constitution.

SECRETARY CHASE: On the amendment offered by Mr. Binkowski, the yeas are 34; the nays are 82.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: The amendment is not adopted. That completes the amendments to this article on the secretary's desk. Mr. Downs.

MR. DOWNS: Mr. President, fellow delegates, there are no more amendments and we're now on the adoption of the entire article; is that correct?

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: That is correct, Mr. Downs.

MR. DOWNS: I rise near the hour of midnight in trepidation, fellow delegates, but I shall try to be very brief. I rise, announcing I am going to vote no on the entire article and urging other delegates to do the same. I shall not make a long speech but I want to make one or two points on what we've done, so the delegates will knowingly and very clearly know what has transpired, particularly on the key item of apportionment.

I wish to point out that under this provision neither house is based on population. And I do not say this in a fringe or flaky manner. I have asked the research department of this convention to prepare maps on how the apportionment system would work out. I am told this is a possible apportionment plan and there are other possibilities. However, I asked for one that would be as reasonable construction as possible.

In the senate in 1970, and not before, there would be a reapportionment and the smallest district in population would be 86,000; the largest would be 3 in Oakland county, each averaging 365,000 votes. In other words, it would take 4 voters in Oakland county to equal 1 voter in the 86,000 area. That is the senate. And this ties in with advice and consent. Then in the matter of the house, Monroe county, according to the 1960 figures, would be the largest, with 101,000, and the counties of the presiding delegate, Allegan and Van Buren, have the distinction of having an average of 53,062, in other words, practically a 2 to 1 difference. It would take 2 citizens from Monroe county to equal 1 citizen's vote in Allegan county. I point this out to try to dramatize that neither house is on population, and if anybody came to this convention pledged to have at least 1 house on population, I hope those delegates will join with me in voting no on this section in the hope that we'll have something done by third reading.

I do also wish to point out that by the time we come back on August 1, there may be additional supreme court decisions. I just have the newspaper report and if I keep talking long enough, I'll be able to have a special delivery letter with some of the further details. But I understand that not only Georgia threw out the county unit system, but in Maryland, their frozen senate, somewhat similar to Michigan's, has also been thrown out by the court there on the concept of equal protection of the laws. I will not now move that we postpone consideration until further court action is taken. I remind us again that the Michigan case, Scholle versus Hare, was remanded by the United States supreme court and is back in the hands of the Michigan state supreme court. I feel that our progress here is going to come from the judicial branch, unfortunately, rather than branches like this which, by themselves, are not created on a one man, one vote concept. I do urge the delegates to understand these factors in arriving at the conclusion. There are other points of this article that we have discussed — some facetiously; some seriously. But I wish to emphasize that the main reason that I am urging a no vote on this article IV, section 2, is that I think that it is not only wrong to deny the one man, one vote concept, but I believe it is running contrary to the historical thrust of the court decisions. Thank you.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Mr. McAllister.

MR. McALLISTER: Mr. President and fellow delegates, the hour is getting late. I cannot vote for this article. The committee that proposed this apportionment setup does not seem to be able to explain just what counties are going to be where. In fact, when the committee can't explain it to my satisfaction, I certainly can't vote for something of that kind.

It appears to me from the Tennessee case, the Scholle case, your Georgia case in the federal court, and your Maryland case, that we are doing something here that is just what Mr. Downs would like to have us do. And I do support his position. But I don't think this article should be passed if there is a possibility that the Michigan supreme court will rule on this case before August 1. It appears to me that what we are really going to have here is a senate and a house, both on a population basis. And at the present time I can't see where rural Michigan has any representation, either in the house or senate, under this plan. And in view of that fact, I cannot vote for it.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Mr. Pollock.

MR. POLLOCK: Mr. President, I've listened with what, for me, is unusual patience to the repeated dolorous pronouncements of the delegate from Detroit to the effect that he intends to vote no on one article after another. I will not attempt to surmise his real reason for acting in this negative and wholly destructive manner. He can answer to his own conscience and whatever forces in his party or elsewhere to which he so loyally responds.

I can only say that it is, to me, utterly incomprehensible how any delegate — I say any delegate; not merely the leader of the minority party — can sit here for 7½ months in the give and take of debate and decision and then, at the end of our deliberations, recommend a no vote on issues in which he shared responsibility as a delegate and, as often as not, won his own points. By what kind of extraordinary wisdom or insight does he or any other delegate or delegates think that his or their views are so superior to the slowly agreed majority view that they warrant this extraordinary procedure which, to me, is utterly destructive in its result of trying to throw together a shadow constitution or at least shadow articles in place of the carefully mature articles of this proposed constitution? I say, Mr. President, that this tactic — obviously partisan and nonpublic in nature — is unworthy of any delegate and, in my opinion, deserves condemnation on this floor. (applause)

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Mr. Van Dusen.

MR. DOWNS: I rise to a point of personal privilege —

MR. VAN DUSEN: Mr. President.

MR. DOWNS: — Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: You may state it, Mr. Downs.

MR. DOWNS: I believe that the former speaker — and I am not going to question his motives — did attack my motives, did attack me personally, and as such, I have the right to respond.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: You may proceed.

MR. DOWNS: All right. I wish to apprise the convention that this is the first time I have, to my memory, risen on a matter of personal privilege on the floor of the convention. To my knowledge, I have never knowingly attacked any individual on the floor of this convention, nor have I questioned any delegate's motives. I may have disagreed with the judgment or conclusion and I have always, I hope, respected the right of other delegates to question my judgment and my conclusion; and I hope have shown no bitterness or malice when any individual delegate, for his reasons, has seen necessary to vote contrary to what I have wished or expressed.

I wish to say that when I campaigned for this office there were several very clear points I went to the constituents in my district on and offered myself as a candidate. One was that I did not want to see any backward steps in this constitution that's being developed. I specifically refer to civil service, and will touch on that when we get into it. On the apportionment matter, I simply say that this does not represent one man, one vote in either house. I campaigned, and I can show clippings and speeches ad nauseam where I campaigned on the concept of one man, one vote. Whether or not that is right or wrong is not the issue before this convention. The issue is that as a delegate, as a candidate I campaigned on that. I said I would fight for that. I have fought for that. And if I am defeated on this, I feel no moral obligation to support something that is less than that on which I campaigned. If, on the other hand, I were to compromise basic principles—and I'm not talking about modifications of day to day operations—I would feel that that was not justifiable. How other delegates answer to themselves is their prerogative and their business and I do not intend to answer that on this floor. I do hope, as we mature and develop here, we'll have a chance to review this more thoroughly and compare item by item.

I'm a little surprised at all those points that I've won in debate. I enjoyed the conversation and fellowship but I think it would take a rather small adding machine to suggest the number of significant suggestions I've made that the convention has adopted. And I express no resentment or bitterness at the convention for having seen fit to adopt suggestions other than mine. I hope I have shown no rancor; I have felt no rancor. I apologize for taking this time of the convention this late at night. I want the delegates to know that I came here in a spirit of friendship. I feel that has been increased and I hope we do nothing or say things which we individually would later wish had been left unsaid. Thank you for your patience. (applause)

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Mr. Van Dusen.

MR. VAN DUSEN: Mr. President, we do seem to be straying from the point. I would move that further debate on this article of the constitution terminate at 12:00 midnight.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: It being now 11:58, Mr. Van Dusen moves to terminate debate at 12:00 o'clock midnight. All those in—

MR. MADAR: Mr. President, I'd like to amend that so that they could speak. There have been several delegates that have tried to get recognition.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: There are 4.

MR. MADAR: That's right. Approximately that. And I move that we give them 10 minutes.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Each one?

MR. MADAR: No, sir, 10 minutes for the 4.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Mr. Madar moves that debate be terminated in 10 minutes. All those in favor will say aye. Opposed no.

The motion does not prevail.

DELEGATES: Division.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: All right. A division is called for upon that. Is the demand for a division supported?

SECRETARY CHASE: Eleven.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: The demand is supported. All those in favor of limiting debate at 12:10 will vote aye. Those opposed will vote no. Have you all voted? If so, the secretary will lock the machine and record the total.

SECRETARY CHASE: On the motion to limit debate to 10 minutes, the yeas are 63; the nays are 48.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: The motion prevails.

MR. A. G. ELLIOTT: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Mr. Elliott.

MR. A. G. ELLIOTT: Is a motion necessary to require that this time be divided equally between those that wish to speak? If so, I move.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Between those who wish to speak?

MR. A. G. ELLIOTT: Yes.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: There are 4 and the Chair will request the 4 speakers to limit themselves to not more than 2½ minutes each. Mr. Wanger is next recognized.

MR. WANGER: Mr. President, fellow delegates, very briefly I'd like to comment on what Delegate Downs has urged the delegates at this convention to do. He has urged every delegate here to vote no on this article, in other words, to vote for nothing. He has offered no substitute, nothing to present to the people by way of any improvement whatsoever in this area of our constitution. And it seems to me very, very clear that such a vote is the most apparent and the grossest kind of irresponsible action for any delegate to take at this state of a constitutional convention.

I am not going to observe upon the motives of any delegate except to say this: I think that for those few delegates at the convention who have already publicly made expressions that they intend to fight the adoption of any revised constitution which we propose, that no observation on their motives is necessary because their vote on the board speaks for itself.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Dr. Hannah.

MR. J. A. HANNAH: Mr. President, ladies and gentlemen, Mr. Downs has recommended that you vote no on this article primarily because of the apportionment provisions. I would remind you that you have had 21 able persons on this committee who worked long and diligently. They have come up with recommendations which you have approved on first and second reading which the formula—you know what it is—I am only going to, for the record, make it perfectly clear that the recommendations as they appear here apportion the senate seats 80 per cent on population, 20 per cent on area.

Mr. Downs takes the extreme, the very large district in the upper peninsula that will have small population and the 3 most populous districts in Oakland county for his comparison. In the house of representatives he has taken the extreme because in grouping the counties that are not entitled to a single representative, you are left with Allegan and Van Buren counties that are thrown together and then when we come to apportion the difference in the number of seats between those counties that have one or more, and 110, it happens that they get the second seat. This is the extreme. Actually, the house of representatives, as you well know, is as near as you can come to exact population with the exception of a single representative. You could just change one and it comes as close as you can—it's as close as you can come up with a workable formula.

I should dislike, this late at night when you're all tired, any of you to feel that the statement that Mr. Downs has made, that neither house of the legislature reflects population, is correct. We have done very well indeed. I've said before I am very proud of what our committee has come up with and what you are about to approve. We need no apologies for the apportionment portion of the article before you and I urge you to approve it.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Mr. Marshall.

MR. MARSHALL: Mr. President and fellow delegates, I was going to answer Delegate Pollock but it seems to me that Delegate Downs took care of that rather well himself. I only wish that Delegate Pollock had been as consistent on this question as Delegate Downs has been. He had some very unkind things to say about the provision himself. He equated it as 19 acres equaling 1 man, among other statements, and I can dig them out. This is not a one man, one vote principle. It does not meet the equality—

I do not think we should question the motives of those delegates. We have our own opinions, our own desires. We try to reflect the viewpoints of the people we represent. I urge a no vote on the article, too.

I've heard Dr. Hannah, on several occasions on the floor of this convention, over and over again, talk about how we do not have to apologize to any one for the provision that has come out of this convention. Let me tell you that if I voted for the provision I would have to apologize to the 680,000 people in my senatorial district that has only one senator. I think that we should understand, as Delegate Downs pointed out, that neither house of the legislature is going to be on a straight population basis. And there were alternatives. I think Dr. Pollock said we were taking a negative approach. We did all of the giving and no taking. And there were offers to accept proposals in the committee. Dr. Pollock himself offered one which we agreed to accept as a compromise proposal. Dr. Pollock himself, for reasons best known to him, a day or two later decided to revise his proposal. Then it was no longer acceptable to the minority on that committee. And we could go on and on and point out the facts here, and I'm willing to let the people of the state of Michigan decide whether or not they've got an equitable apportionment.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Mr. Nord.

MR. NORD: Mr. President, how much time is left for the debate? Am I the last speaker?

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: You are.

MR. NORD: How much time is left, sir?

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: It looks like 2 minutes to the Chair.

MR. NORD: That is fine. Thank you. I rose earlier. I asked for recognition because I didn't think that Mr. Downs would have an opportunity to reply to the attack on him. Since that has been covered, I will simply attempt to close the debate.

I would like to point out that as to Dr. Pollock's remarks relating to whether or not this is a satisfactory legislature, that when Dr. Pollock appeared before the committee on legislative organization, he started out by saying—and I applauded him and I told him that I would join with him—he said the legislature is so bad that we must start from scratch; we cannot have a patched job. He appeared later before us with a specific proposal. At that point I was not satisfied with it. I asked him, "Dr. Pollock, is this starting from scratch, or is it a patched job?" He said, "It's a patched job." We didn't approve of it. Nevertheless, we were forced to accept it at the end because, of all of the proposals we would find that were put in by the Republicans, that was the best; even though it was a patched job, we tried to accept it. He has retreated from that position. Then he attacked the proposal that you had before you and broke it down so that was worthless. Now he has rebuilt it so that it looks good.

I intend to vote against this. I think everyone understands I intend to vote against this section. I would vote against the entire constitution on the basis of either this section or the one I spoke on before. Both of these, I believe, are unconstitutional. The one about search and seizure, I believe, is clearly unconstitutional. And this one about the senate apportionment is certainly unconstitutional as to the next 10 years, and beyond that my opinion is that it is unconstitutional as well. But even if it were not unconstitutional, it is unjust. There is no reason for me to support it; there is every reason for me not to support it. And with that view, I can't see how anyone can quarrel with my doing what my conscience dictates. And I explained my conscience for 4 hours on the floor. There is no secret why I will vote against this. And when I vote against these 2 sections that have to do with apportionment, they are the heart of the entire constitution to me.

Either you have an effective democratic legislature or you have nothing. You have no state government. We have virtually no state government now in this state. We wanted to cure it. If you vote no on this, we will come back with other proposals. We've been putting in proposal after proposal; we will not quit. Just try it. If you don't believe us, vote no on this and see whether that means that there is no constitution. Vote no and we will stay here until kingdom come until we get something that is agreeable. You're not left with no alternative. Just because you put something on the ballot doesn't mean that anyone is obligated to vote for it and it doesn't mean that anyone here must support it.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Time for debate has expired. The question is upon the passage of article IV. All those in favor of article IV will vote aye. Those opposed will vote no. Have you all voted? If so, the secretary will lock the machine and record the vote.

SECRETARY CHASE: On the passage of article IV, as amended, the yeas are 83; the nays are 37.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: A majority of the delegates elect having voted in favor thereof, article IV, as amended, is passed.

For sections 1, 2, 3, 5, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, and 19 through 53 of article IV as passed, see above, page 3051.

Following is section 4 of article IV, as amended and passed:

Sec. 4. In counties having more than one representative or senatorial district, the territory in the same county annexed to or merged with a city between apportionments shall become a part of a contiguous representative or senatorial district in the city with which it is combined upon the effective date of the annexation or merger if provided by ordinance of the city. The districts with which the territory shall be combined shall be determined by said ordinance certified to the secretary of state.

No such change in the boundaries of a representative or senatorial district shall have the effect of removing a legislator from office during his term.

Following is section 6 of article IV, as amended and passed:

Sec. 6. A commission on legislative apportionment is hereby established consisting of eight persons, four of whom shall be selected by the state organizations of each of the two political parties whose candidates for governor received the highest vote at the last general election at which a governor was elected preceding each apportionment. If a candidate for governor of a third political party has received at such election more than 25 percent of such gubernatorial vote, the commission shall consist of 12 members, four of whom shall be selected by the state organization of the third political party. One member of the commission shall be selected by each political party organization from each of the following four regions: (1) The upper peninsula; (2) The northern part of the lower peninsula, north of a line drawn along the northern boundaries of the counties of Bay, Midland, Isabella, Mecosta, Newaygo and Oceana; (3) Southwestern Michigan, those counties south of region (2) and west of a line drawn along the western boundaries of the counties of Bay, Saginaw, Shiawassee, Ingham, Jackson and Hillsdale; (4) Southeastern Michigan, the remaining counties of the state.

No officers or employees of the federal, state or local governments, excepting notaries public and members of the armed forces reserve, shall be eligible for membership on the commission. Members of the commission shall not

We, the people of the State of Michigan, grateful to Almighty God for the blessings of freedom, and earnestly desiring to secure these blessings undiminished to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this constitution.

Sec. 2. The legislature may by law exclude persons from voting because of mental incompetence or commitment to a jail or penal institution.

Sec. 3. For purposes of voting in the election for president and vice-president of the United States only, the legislature may by law establish lesser residence requirements for citizens who have resided in this state for less than six months and may waive residence requirements for former citizens of this state who have removed herefrom. The legislature shall not permit voting by any person who meets the voting residence requirements of the state to which he has removed.

Sec. 4. The legislature shall enact laws to regulate the time, place and manner of all nominations and elections, except as otherwise provided in this constitution or in the constitution and laws of the United States. The legislature shall enact laws to preserve the purity of elections, to preserve the secrecy of the ballot, to guard against abuses of the elective franchise, and to provide for a system of voter registration and absentee voting. No law shall be enacted which permits a candidate in any partisan primary or partisan election to have a ballot designation except when required for identification of candidates for the same office who have the same or similar surnames.

Sec. 5. Except for special elections to fill vacancies, or as otherwise provided in this constitution, all elections for national, state, county and township offices shall be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November in each even-numbered year or on such other date as members of the congress of the United States are regularly elected.

Sec. 6. Whenever any question is required to be submitted by a political subdivision to the electors which involves the increase of any ad valorem tax rate limitation for a period of more than five years, or the issue of bonds, only electors in, and who have property assessed for any ad valorem taxes in, any part of the district or territory to be affected by the result of such election or electors who are the lawful husbands or wives of such persons shall be entitled to vote thereon. All electors in the district or territory affected may vote on all other questions.

Sec. 8. Laws shall be enacted to provide for the recall of all elective officers except judges of courts of record upon petition of electors equal in number to 25 percent of the number of persons voting in the last preceding election for the office of governor in the electoral district of the officer sought to be recalled. The sufficiency of any statement of reasons or grounds procedurally required shall be a political rather than a judicial question.

Sec. 9. The people reserve to themselves the power to propose laws and to enact and reject laws, called the initiative, and the power to approve or reject laws enacted by the legislature, called the referendum. The power of initiative extends only to laws which the legislature may enact under this constitution. The power of referendum does not extend to acts making appropriations for state institutions or to meet deficiencies in state funds and must be invoked in the manner prescribed by law within 90 days following the final adjournment of the legislative session at which the law was enacted. To invoke the initiative or referendum, petitions signed by a number of registered electors, not less than eight percent for initiative and five percent for referendum of the total vote cast for all candidates for governor at the last preceding general election at which a governor was elected shall be required.

No law as to which the power of referendum properly has been invoked shall be effective thereafter unless approved by a majority of the electors voting thereon at the next general election.

If any law proposed by such petition shall be enacted by the legislature it shall be subject to referendum, as hereinafter provided.

If the law so proposed is not enacted by the legislature within the 40 days, the state officer authorized by law shall submit such proposed law to the people for approval or rejection at the next general election. The legislature may reject any measure so proposed by initiative petition and propose a different measure upon the same subject by a yea and nay vote upon separate roll calls, and in such event both measures shall be submitted by such state officer to the electors for approval or rejection at the next general election.

Any law submitted to the people by either initiative or referendum petition and approved by a majority of the votes cast thereon at any election shall take effect 10 days after the date of the official declaration of the vote. No law initiated or adopted by the people shall be subject to the veto power of the governor, and no law adopted by the people at the polls under the initiative provisions of this section shall be amended or repealed, except by a vote of the electors or three-fourths of the members elected to and serving in each house of the legislature. Laws approved by the people under the referendum provision of this section may be amended by the legislature at any subsequent session thereof. If two or more measures approved by the electors at the same election conflict, that receiving the highest affirmative vote shall prevail.

The legislature shall implement the provisions of this section.

Article III

General Government

Sec. 1. The seat of government shall be at Lansing.

Sec. 2. The powers of government are divided into three branches: legislative, executive and judicial. No person exercising powers of one branch shall exercise powers properly belonging to another branch except as expressly provided in this constitution.

Sec. 3. There shall be a great seal of the State of Michigan and its use shall be provided by law.

Sec. 4. The militia shall be organized, equipped and disciplined as provided by law.

Sec. 5. Subject to provisions of general law, this state or any political subdivision, any governmental authority or any combination thereof may enter into agreements for the performance, financing or execution of their respective functions, with any one or more of the other states, the United States, the Dominion of Canada, or any political subdivision thereof unless otherwise provided in this constitution. Any other provision of this constitution notwithstanding, an officer or employee of the state or of any such unit of government or subdivision or agency thereof may serve on or with any governmental body established for the purposes set forth in this section and shall not be required to relinquish his office or employment by reason of such service. The legislature may impose such restrictions, limitations or conditions on such service as it may deem appropriate.

Sec. 6. The state shall not be a party to, nor be financially interested in, any work of internal improvement, nor engage in carrying on any such work, except for public internal improvements provided by law.

Sec. 7. The common law and the statute laws now in force, not repugnant to this constitution, shall remain in force until they expire by their own limitations, or are changed, amended or repealed.

Sec. 8. Either house of the legislature or the governor may request the opinion of the supreme court on important questions of law upon solemn occasions as to the constitutionality of legislation after it has been enacted into law but before its effective date.

Article IV Legislative Branch

Sec. 1. The legislative power of the State of Michigan is vested in a senate and a house of representatives.

Sec. 2. The senate shall consist of 38 members to be elected from single member districts at the same election as the governor for four-year terms concurrent with the term of office of the governor.

In districting the state for the purpose of electing senators after the official publication of the total population count of each federal decennial census, each county shall be assigned an apportionment factor equal to the sum of its percentage of the state's population as shown by the last regular federal decennial census computed to the nearest one-one hundredth of one percent multiplied by four and its percentage of the state's land area computed to the nearest one-one hundredth of one percent.

In arranging the state into senatorial districts, the apportionment commission shall be governed by the following rules:

(1) Counties with 13 or more apportionment factors shall be entitled as a class to senators in the proportion that the total apportionment factors of such counties bear to the total apportionment factors of the state computed to the nearest whole number. After each such county has been allocated one senator, the remaining senators to which this class of counties is entitled shall be distributed among such counties by the method of equal proportions applied to the apportionment factors.

(2) Counties having less than 13 apportionment factors shall be entitled as a class to senators in the proportion that the total apportionment factors of such counties bear to the total apportionment factors of the state computed to the nearest whole number. Such counties shall thereafter be arranged into senatorial districts that are compact, convenient, and contiguous by land, as rectangular in shape as possible, and having as nearly as possible 13 apportionment factors, but in no event less than 10 or more than 16. Insofar as possible, existing senatorial districts at the time of reapportionment shall not be altered unless there is a failure to comply with the above standards.

(3) Counties entitled to two or more senate districts shall be divided into single member districts. The population of such districts shall be as nearly equal as possible but shall not be less than 75 percent nor more than 125 percent of a number determined by dividing the population of the county by the number of senators to which it is entitled. Each such district shall follow incorporated city or township boundary lines to the extent possible and shall be compact, contiguous, and as nearly uniform in shape as possible.

Sec. 3. The house of representatives shall consist of 110 members elected for two-year terms from single member districts apportioned on a basis of population as provided in this article. The districts shall consist of compact and convenient territory contiguous by land.

Each county which has a population of not less than seven-tenths of one percent of the population of the state shall constitute a separate representative area. Each county having less than seven-tenths of one percent of the population of the state shall be combined with another county or counties to form a representative area of not less than seven-tenths of one percent of the population of the state. Any county which is isolated under the initial allocation as provided in this section shall be joined with that contiguous representative area having the smallest percentage of the state's population. Each such representative area shall be entitled initially to one representative.

After the assignment of one representative to each of the representative areas, the remaining house seats shall be apportioned among the representative areas on the basis of population by the method of equal proportions.

Any county comprising a representative area entitled to two or more representatives shall be divided into single member representative districts as follows:

(1) The population of such districts shall be as nearly equal as possible but shall not be less than 75 percent nor more than 125 percent of a number determined by dividing the population of the representative area by the number of representatives to which it is entitled.

(2) Such single member districts shall follow city and township boundaries where applicable and shall be composed of compact and contiguous territory as nearly square in shape as possible.

Any representative area consisting of more than one county, entitled to more than one representative, shall be divided into single member districts as equal as possible in population adhering to county lines.

Sec. 4. In counties having more than one representative or senatorial district, the territory in the same county annexed to or merged with a city between apportionments shall become a part of a contiguous representative or senatorial district in the city with which it is combined, if provided by ordinance of the city. The district or districts with which the territory shall be combined shall be determined by such ordinance certified to the secretary of state. No such change in the boundaries of a representative or senatorial district shall have the effect of removing a legislator from office during his term.

Sec. 5. Island areas are considered to be contiguous by land to the county of which they are a part.

Sec. 6. A commission on legislative apportionment is hereby established consisting of eight persons, four of whom shall be selected by the state organizations of each of the two political parties whose candidates for governor received the highest vote at the last general election at which a governor was elected preceding each apportionment. If a candidate for governor of a third political party has received at such election more than 25 percent of such gubernatorial vote, the commission shall consist of 12 members, four of whom shall be selected by the state organization of the third political party. One member of the commission shall be selected by each political party organization from each of the following four regions: (1) The upper peninsula; (2) The northern part of the lower peninsula, north of a line drawn along the northern boundaries of the counties of Bay, Midland, Isabella, Mecosta, Newaygo and Oceana; (3) Southwestern Michigan, those counties south of region (2) and west of a line drawn along the western boundaries of the counties of Bay, Saginaw, Shiawassee, Ingham, Jackson and Hillsdale; (4) Southeastern Michigan, the remaining counties of the state.

No officers or employees of the federal, state or local governments, excepting notaries public and members of the armed forces reserve, shall be eligible for membership on the commission. Members of the commission shall not be eligible for election to the legislature until two years after the apportionment in which they participated becomes effective.

The commission shall be appointed immediately after the adoption of this constitution and whenever apportionment or districting of the legislature is required by the provisions of this constitution. Members of the commission shall hold office until each apportionment or districting plan becomes effective. Vacancies shall be filled in the same manner as for original appointment.

The secretary of state shall be secretary of the commission without vote, and in that capacity shall furnish, under the direction of the commission, all necessary technical services. The commission shall elect its own chairman, shall make its own rules of procedure, and shall receive compensation provided by law. The legislature shall appropriate funds to enable the commission to carry out its activities.

Within 30 days after the adoption of this constitution, and after the official total population count of each federal decennial census of the state and its political subdivisions is available, the secretary of state shall issue a call convening the commission not less than 30 nor more than 45 days thereafter. The commission shall complete its work within 180 days after all necessary census information is available. The commission shall proceed to district and apportion the senate and house of representatives according to the provisions of this constitution. All final decisions shall require the concurrence of a majority of the members of the commission. The commission shall hold public hearings as may be provided by law.

Each final apportionment and districting plan shall be published as provided by law within 30 days from the date of its adoption and shall become law 60 days after publication. The secretary of state shall keep a public record of all the proceedings of the commission and shall be responsible for the publication and distribution of each plan.

If a majority of the commission cannot agree on a plan, each member of the commission, individually or jointly with other members, may submit a proposed plan to the supreme court. The supreme court shall determine which plan complies most accurately with the constitutional requirements and shall direct that it be adopted by the commission and published as provided in this section.

Upon the application of any elector filed not later than 60 days after final publication of the plan, the supreme court, in the exercise of original jurisdiction, shall direct the secretary of state or the apportionment commission to perform their duties, may review any final plan adopted by the commission, and shall remand such plan to the commission for further action if it fails to comply with the requirements of this constitution.

Sec. 7. Each senator and representative must be a citizen of the United States, at least 21 years of age, and an elector of the district he represents. The removal of his domicile from the district shall be deemed a vacation of the office. No person who has been convicted of subversion or who has within the preceding 20 years been convicted of a felony involving a breach of public trust shall be eligible for either house of the legislature.

Sec. 8. No person holding any office under the United States or this state or a political subdivision thereof, except notaries public and officers of the armed forces reserve, may be a member of either house of the legislature.

Sec. 9. No person elected to the legislature shall receive any civil appointment within this

1 state from the governor, except notaries public,
2 from the legislature, or from any other state
3 authority, during the term for which he is elected.

4 Sec. 10. No member of the legislature nor any 5 state officer shall be interested directly or in-
6 directly in any contract with the state or any 7 political subdivision thereof which shall cause a
8 substantial conflict of interest. The legislature
9 shall further implement this provision by appro-
10 priate legislation.

11 Sec. 11. Senators and representatives shall be 12 privileged from civil arrest and civil process dur-
13 ing sessions of the legislature and for five days
14 next before the commencement and after the 15 termination thereof. They shall not be ques-
16 tioned in any other place for any speech in either
17 house.

18 Sec. 12. The compensation and expense al-
19 lowances of the members of the legislature shall 20 be determined by law. Changes in compensation
21 or expense allowances shall become effective only
22 when legislators commence their terms of office
23 after a general election.

24 Sec. 13. The legislature shall meet at the seat
25 of government on the second Wednesday in Janu-
26 ary of each year at twelve o'clock noon. Each
27 regular session shall adjourn without day, on a
28 day determined by concurrent resolution, at 29 twelve o'clock noon. Any business, bill or joint 30 resolution pending at the final adjournment of 31 a regular session held in an odd numbered year
32 shall carry over with the same status to the 33 next regular session.

34 Sec. 14. A majority of the members elected
35 to and serving in each house shall constitute a 36 quorum to do business. A smaller number in 37 each house may adjourn from day to day, and 38 may compel the attendance of absent members in 39 the manner and with penalties as each house may 40 prescribe.

41 Sec. 15. There shall be a bi-partisan legisla-
42 tive council consisting of legislators appointed in 43 the manner prescribed by law. The legislature
44 shall appropriate funds for the council's opera-
45 tions and provide for its staff which shall main-
46 tain bill drafting, research and other services
47 for the members of the legislature. The council
48 shall periodically examine and recommend to the 49 legislature revision of the various laws of the 50 state.

51 Sec. 16. Each house, except as otherwise pro-
52 vided in this constitution, shall choose its own
53 officers and determine the rules of its proceedings,
54 but shall not adopt any rule that will prevent a
55 majority of the members elected thereto and
56 serving therein from discharging a committee
57 from the further consideration of any measure.
58 Each house shall be the sole judge of the quali-
59 fications, elections and returns of its members,
60 and may, with the concurrence of two-thirds of

1 all the members elected thereto and serving
2 therein, expel a member. The reasons for such 3 expulsion shall be entered in the journal, with 4 the votes and names of the members voting upon
5 the question. No member shall be expelled a
6 second time for the same cause.

7 Sec. 17. Each house of the legislature may 8 establish the committees necessary for the effi-
9 cient conduct of its business and the legislature
10 may create joint committees. Each committee
11 shall by roll call vote record the vote and name
12 of all action on bills and resolutions taken in 13 the committee. Such vote shall be available for 14 public inspection. Notice of all committee hear-
15 ings and a clear statement of all subjects to be 16 considered at each hearing shall be published in 17 the journal in advance of the hearing.

18 Sec. 18. Each house shall keep a journal of 19 its proceedings, and publish the same unless the 20 public security otherwise requires. The record
21 of the vote and name of the members of either
22 house voting on any question shall be entered 23 in the journal at the request of one-fifth of the 24 members present. Any member of either house
25 may dissent from and protest against any act,
26 proceeding or resolution which he deems injuri-
27 ous to any person or the public, and have the 28 reason for his dissent entered in the journal.

29 Sec. 19. All elections in either house or in 30 joint convention and all votes on appointments
31 submitted to the senate for advice and consent
32 shall be published by vote and name in the journal.

33 Sec. 20. The doors of each house shall be open
34 unless the public security otherwise requires.

35 Sec. 21. Neither house shall, without the con-
36 sent of the other, adjourn for more than two 37 intervening calendar days, nor to any place other
38 than where the legislature may then be in session.

39 Sec. 22. All legislation shall be by bill and 40 may originate in either house.

41 Sec. 23. The style of the laws shall be: The 42 People of the State of Michigan enact.

43 Sec. 24. No law shall embrace more than one
44 object, which shall be expressed in its title. No
45 bill shall be altered or amended on its passage
46 through either house so as to change its original
47 purpose as determined by its total content and 48 not alone by its title.

49 Sec. 25. No law shall be revised, altered or 50 amended by reference to its title only. The section
51 or sections of the act altered or amended shall 52 be re-enacted and published at length.

53 Sec. 26. No bill shall be passed or become a 54 law at any regular session of the legislature until 55 it has been printed or reproduced and in the pos-
56 session of each house for at least five days. Every 57 bill shall be read three times in each house be-58 fore the final passage thereof. No bill shall be-
59 come a law without the concurrence of a majority
60 of the members elected to and serving in each house. On the final passage of bills, the votes and names of the members voting thereon shall be entered in the journal.

Sec. 27. No act shall take effect until the expiration of 90 days from the end of the session at which it was passed, but the legislature may give immediate effect to acts by a two-thirds vote of the members elected to and serving in each house.

Sec. 28. When the legislature is convened on extraordinary occasions in special session no bill shall be passed on any subjects other than those expressly stated in the governor's proclamation or submitted by special message.

Sec. 29. The legislature shall pass no local or special act in any case where a general act can be made applicable, and whether a general act can be made applicable shall be a judicial question. No local or special act shall take effect until approved by two-thirds of the members elected to and serving in each house and by a majority of the electors voting thereon in the district affected. Any act repealing local or special acts shall require only a majority of the members elected to and serving in each house and shall not require submission to the electors of such district.

Sec. 30. The assent of two-thirds of the members elected to and serving in each house of the legislature shall be required for the appropriation of public money or property for local or private purposes.

Sec. 31. The general appropriation bills for the succeeding fiscal period covering items set forth in the budget shall be passed or rejected in either house of the legislature before that house passes any appropriation bill for items not in the budget except bills supplementing appropriations for the current fiscal year's operation. Any bill requiring an appropriation to carry out its purpose shall be considered an appropriation bill. One of the general appropriation bills as passed by the legislature shall contain an itemized statement of estimated revenue by major source in each operating fund for the ensuing fiscal period, the total of which shall not be less than the total of all appropriations made from each fund in the general appropriation bills as passed.

Sec. 32. Every law which imposes, continues or revives a tax shall distinctly state the tax.

Sec. 33. Every bill passed by the legislature shall be presented to the governor before it becomes law, and the governor shall have 14 days measured in hours and minutes from the time of presentation in which to consider it. If he approves, he shall within that time sign and file it with the secretary of state and it shall become law. If he does not approve, and the legislature has within that time finally adjourned the session at which the bill was passed, it shall not become law. If he does not approve, and the legislature continues the session at which the bill was passed, he shall return it within such 14-day period with his objections, to the house in which it originated. That house shall enter such objections in full in its journal and reconsider the bill. If two-thirds of the members elected to and serving in that house pass the bill notwithstanding the objections of the governor, it shall be sent with the objections to the other house for reconsideration. The bill shall become law if passed by two-thirds of the members elected to and serving in that house. The vote of each house shall be entered in the journal with the votes and names of the members voting thereon. If any bill is not returned by the governor within such 14-day period, the legislature continuing in session, it shall become law as if he had signed it.

Sec. 34. Any bill passed by the legislature and approved by the governor, except a bill appropriating money, may provide that it will not become law unless approved by a majority of the electors voting thereon.

Sec. 35. All laws enacted at any session of the legislature shall be published in book form within 60 days after final adjournment of the session, and shall be distributed in the manner provided by law. The prompt publication of judicial decisions shall be provided by law. All laws and judicial decisions shall be free for publication by any person.

Sec. 36. No general revision of the laws shall be made. The legislature may provide for a compilation of the laws in force, arranged without alteration, under appropriate heads and titles.

Sec. 37. The legislature may by concurrent resolution empower a joint committee of the legislature acting between sessions to suspend until the end of the next regular legislative session any rule or regulation of an administrative agency promulgated when the legislature is not in regular session.

Sec. 38. The legislature may provide by law the cases in which any office shall be vacant and the manner of filling vacancies where no provision is made in this constitution.

Sec. 39. In order to insure continuity of state and local governmental operations in periods of emergency only, resulting from disasters occurring in this state caused by enemy attack on the United States, the legislature may provide by law for prompt and temporary succession to the powers and duties of public offices, of whatever nature and whether filled by election or appointment, the incumbents of which may become unavailable for carrying on the powers and duties of such offices; and enact other laws necessary and proper for insuring the continuity of governmental operations. Notwithstanding the power conferred by this section, elections shall always be called as soon as possible to fill any vacancies in elective offices temporarily occupied by operation of any legislation enacted pursuant to the provisions of this section.

Sec. 40. The legislature may by law establish a liquor control commission which, subject to statutory limitations, shall exercise complete control of the alcoholic beverage traffic within this state, including the retail sales thereof. The legislature may provide for an excise tax on such sales. Neither the legislature nor the commission may authorize the manufacture or sale of alcoholic beverages in any county in which a majority of the electors voting thereon shall prohibit the same.

Sec. 41. The legislature shall not authorize any lottery nor permit the sale of lottery tickets.

Sec. 42. The legislature may provide for the incorporation of ports and port districts, and confer power and authority upon them to engage in work of internal improvements in connection therewith.

Sec. 43. No general law providing for the incorporation of trust companies or corporations for banking purposes, or regulating the business thereof, shall be enacted, amended or repealed except by a vote of two-thirds of the members elected to and serving in each house.

Sec. 44. The legislature may authorize a trial by a jury of less than 12 jurors in civil cases.

Sec. 45. The legislature may provide for indeterminate sentences as punishment for crime and for the detention and release of persons imprisoned or detained under such sentences.

Sec. 46. No law shall be enacted providing for the penalty of death.

Sec. 47. The legislature may authorize the employment of chaplains in state institutions of detention or confinement.

Sec. 48. The legislature may enact laws providing for the resolution of disputes concerning public employees, except those in the state classified civil service.

Sec. 49. The legislature may enact laws relative to the hours and conditions of employment.

Sec. 50. The legislature may provide safety measures and regulate the use of atomic energy and forms of energy developed in the future, having in view the general welfare of the people of this state.

Sec. 51. The public health and general welfare of the people of the state are hereby declared to be matters of primary public concern. The legislature shall pass suitable laws for the protection and promotion of the public health.

Sec. 52. The conservation and development of the natural resources of the state are hereby declared to be of paramount public concern in the interest of the health, safety and general welfare of the people. The legislature shall provide for the protection of the air, water and other natural resources of the state from pollution, impairment and destruction.

Sec. 53. The legislature by a majority vote of the members elected to and serving in each house, shall appoint an auditor general, who shall be a certified public accountant licensed to practice in this state, to serve for a term of eight years. He shall be ineligible for appointment or election to any other public office in this state from which compensation is derived while serving as auditor general and for two years following the termination of his service. He may be removed for cause at any time by a two-thirds vote of the members elected to and serving in each house. The auditor general, his deputy and one other member of his staff shall be exempt from classified civil service. All other members of his staff shall have classified civil service status.

Article V

Executive Branch

Sec. 1. The executive power is vested in the governor.

Sec. 2. All executive and administrative offices, agencies and instrumentalities of the executive branch of state government and their respective functions, powers and duties, except for the office of governor and lieutenant governor and the governing bodies of institutions of higher education provided for in this constitution, shall be allocated by law among and within not more than 20 principal departments. They shall be grouped as far as practicable according to major purposes.

Subsequent to the initial allocation, the governor may make changes in the organization of the executive branch or in the assignment of functions among its units which he considers necessary for efficient administration. Where these changes require the force of law, they shall be set forth in executive orders and submitted to the legislature. Thereafter the legislature shall have 60 calendar days of a regular session, or a full session if of shorter duration, to disapprove each executive order. Unless disapproved in both houses by a resolution concurred in by a majority of the members elected to and serving in each house, each order shall become effective at a date thereafter to be designated by the governor.

Sec. 3. The head of each principal department shall be a single executive unless otherwise provided in this constitution or by law. The single executives heading principal departments shall include a secretary of state, a state treasurer and an attorney general. When a single executive is the head of a principal department, unless elected or appointed as otherwise provided in this constitution, he shall be appointed by the governor by and with the advice and consent of the senate and he shall serve at the pleasure of the governor.

When a board or commission is at the head of a principal department, unless elected or appointed as otherwise provided in this constitution, the members thereof shall be appointed by the governor by and with the advice and consent of the senate. The term of office and procedure for removal of such members shall be as prescribed in this constitution or by law.

Terms of office of any board or commission created or enlarged after the effective date of this constitution shall not exceed four years except as otherwise authorized in this constitution. The terms of office of existing boards and commissions which are longer than four years shall not be further extended except as provided in this constitution.

Sec. 4. Temporary commissions or agencies for special purposes with a life of no more than two years may be established by law and need not be allocated within a principal department.

Sec. 5. At no time shall an examining or licensing board of a profession include less than a majority of members of that profession.

Sec. 6. Appointment by and with the advice and consent of the senate when used in this constitution or laws in effect or hereafter enacted means appointment subject to disapproval by a majority vote of the members elected to and serving in the senate if such action is taken within 60 session days after the date of such appointment. Any appointment not disapproved within such period shall stand confirmed.

Sec. 7. Vacancies in any office, appointment to which requires advice and consent of the senate, shall be filled by the governor by and with the advice and consent of the senate. A person whose appointment has been disapproved by the senate shall not be eligible for an interim appointment to the same office.

Sec. 8. Each principal department shall be under the supervision of the governor unless otherwise provided by this constitution. The governor shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed. He shall transact all necessary business with the officers of government and may require information in writing from all executive and administrative state officers, elective and appointive, upon any subject relating to the duties of their respective offices.

The governor may initiate court proceedings in the name of the state to enforce compliance with any constitutional or legislative mandate, or to restrain violations of any constitutional or legislative power, duty or right by any officer, department or agency of the state or any of its political subdivisions. This authority shall not be construed to authorize court proceedings against the legislature.

Sec. 9. Single executives heading principal departments and the chief executive officers of principal departments headed by boards or commissions shall keep their offices at the seat of government except as otherwise provided by law, superintend them in person and perform duties prescribed by law.

Sec. 10. The governor shall have power and it shall be his duty to inquire into the condition and administration of any public office and the acts of any public officer, elective or appointive. He may remove or suspend from office for gross neglect of duty or for corrupt conduct in office, or for any other misfeasance or malfeasance therein, any elective or appointive state officer, except legislative or judicial, and shall report the reasons for such removal or suspension to the legislature.

Sec. 11. The governor may make a provisional appointment to fill a vacancy occasioned by the suspension of an appointed or elected officer, other than a legislative or judicial officer, until he is reinstated or until the vacancy is filled in the manner prescribed by law or this constitution.

Sec. 12. The governor shall be commander-in-chief of the armed forces and may call them out to execute the laws, suppress insurrection and repel invasion.

Sec. 13. The governor shall issue writs of election to fill vacancies in the senate or house of representatives. Any such election shall be held in a manner prescribed by law.

Sec. 14. The governor shall have power to grant reprieves, commutations and pardons after convictions for all offenses, except cases of impeachment, upon such conditions and limitations as he may direct, subject to procedures and regulations prescribed by law. He shall inform the legislature annually of each reprieve, commutation and pardon granted, stating reasons therefor.

Sec. 15. The governor may convene the legislature on extraordinary occasions.

Sec. 16. The governor may convene the legislature at some other place when the seat of government becomes dangerous from any cause.

Sec. 17. The governor shall communicate by message to the legislature at the beginning of each session and may at other times present to the legislature information as to the affairs of the state and recommend measures he considers necessary or desirable.

Sec. 18. The governor shall submit to the legislature at a time fixed by law, a budget for the ensuing fiscal period setting forth in detail, for all operating funds, the proposed expenditures and estimated revenue of the state. Proposed expenditures from any fund shall not exceed the estimated revenue thereof. On the same date, the governor shall submit to the legislature general appropriation bills to embody the proposed expenditures and any necessary bill or bills to provide new or additional revenues to meet proposed expenditures. The amount of any surplus created or deficit incurred in any fund during the last preceding fiscal period shall be entered as an item in the budget and in one of the appropriation bills. The governor may submit amendments to appropriation bills to be offered in either house during consideration of the bill by that house, and shall submit any bills to meet deficiencies in current appropriations.

Sec. 19. The governor may disapprove any distinct item or items appropriating moneys in any appropriation bill. The part or parts approved shall become law, and the item or items disapproved shall be void unless re-passed according to the method prescribed for the passage of other bills over the executive veto.

Sec. 20. No appropriation shall be a mandate to spend. The governor, with the approval of the appropriating committees of the house and senate, shall reduce expenditures authorized by appropriations whenever it appears that actual revenues for a fiscal period will fall below the revenue estimates on which appropriations for that period were based. Reductions in expenditures shall be made in accordance with procedures prescribed by law. The governor may not reduce expenditures of the legislative and judicial branches or from funds constitutionally dedicated for specific purposes.

Sec. 21. The governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state and attorney general shall be elected for four-year terms at the general election in each alternate even-numbered year.

The lieutenant governor, secretary of state and attorney general shall be nominated by party conventions in a manner prescribed by law. In the general election one vote shall be cast jointly for the candidates for governor and lieutenant governor nominated by the same party.

Vacancies in the office of the secretary of state and attorney general shall be filled by appointment by the governor.

Sec. 22. To be eligible for the office of governor or lieutenant governor a person must have attained the age of 30 years, and have been a registered elector in this state for four years next preceding his election.

Sec. 23. The governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state and attorney general shall each receive the compensation provided by law in full payment for all services performed and expenses incurred during his term of office. Such compensation shall not be changed during the term of office except as otherwise provided in this constitution.

Sec. 24. An executive residence suitably furnished shall be provided at the seat of government for the use of the governor. He shall receive an allowance for its maintenance as provided by law.

Sec. 25. The lieutenant governor shall be president of the senate, but shall have no vote except in case of equal division. He may perform duties requested of him by the governor, but no power vested in the governor shall be delegated.

Sec. 26. In case of the conviction of the governor on impeachment, his removal from office, his resignation or his death, the lieutenant governor, the elected secretary of state, the elected attorney general and such other persons designated by law shall in that order be governor for the remainder of the governor's term.

In case of the death of the governor-elect, the lieutenant governor-elect, the secretary of state-elect, the attorney general-elect and such other persons designated by law shall become governor in that order at the commencement of the governor-elect's term.

If the governor or the person in line of succession to serve as governor is absent from the state, or suffering under an inability, the powers and duties of the office of governor shall devolve in order of precedence until the absence or inability giving rise to the devolution of powers ceases.

The inability of the governor or person acting as governor shall be determined by a majority of the supreme court on joint request of the president pro tempore of the senate and the speaker of the house of representatives. Such determination shall be final and conclusive. The supreme court shall upon its own initiative determine if and when the inability ceases.

Sec. 27. The legislature shall provide that the salary of any state officer while acting as governor shall be equal to that of the governor.

Sec. 28. There is hereby established a state highway commission, which shall administer the state highway department and have jurisdiction and control over all state trunkline highways and appurtenant facilities, and such other public works of the state, as provided by law.

The state highway commission shall consist of four members, not more than two of whom shall be members of the same political party. They shall be appointed by the governor by and with the advice and consent of the senate for four-year terms, no two of which shall expire in the same year as provided by law.

The state highway commission shall appoint and may remove a state highway director, who shall be a competent highway engineer and administrator. He shall be the principal executive officer of the state highway department and shall be responsible for executing the policy of the state highway commission.

Sec. 29. There is hereby established a civil rights commission which shall consist of eight persons, not more than four of whom shall be members of the same political party, who shall be appointed by the governor, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, for four-year terms not more than two of which shall expire in the same year. It shall be the duty of the commission in a manner which may be prescribed by law to investigate alleged discrimination against any person because of religion, race, color or national origin in the enjoyment of the civil rights guaranteed by law and by this constitution, and to secure the equal protection of such civil rights without such discrimination. The legislature shall provide an annual appropriation for the effective operation of the commission.

The commission shall have power, in accordance with the provisions of this constitution and of general laws governing administrative agencies, to promulgate rules and regulations for its own procedures, to hold hearings, administer oaths, through court authorization to require the attendance of witnesses and the submission of records, to take testimony, and to issue appropriate orders. The commission shall have other powers provided by law to carry out its purposes. Nothing contained in this section shall be construed to diminish the right of any party to direct and immediate legal or equitable remedies in the courts of this state.

Appeals from final orders of the commission, including cease and desist orders and refusals to issue complaints, shall be tried de novo before the circuit court having jurisdiction provided by law.

Article VI Judicial Branch

Sec. 1. The judicial power of the state is vested exclusively in one court of justice which shall be divided into one supreme court, one court of appeals, one trial court of general jurisdiction known as the circuit court, one probate court, and other courts of limited jurisdiction that the legislature may establish by a two-thirds vote of the members elected to and serving in each house.

Sec. 2. The supreme court shall consist of seven justices elected at non-partisan elections as provided by law. The term of office shall be eight years and not more than two terms of office shall expire at the same time. Nominations for justices of the supreme court shall be in the manner prescribed by law. Any incumbent justice whose term is to expire may become a candidate for re-election by filing an affidavit of candidacy, in the form and manner prescribed by law, not less than 180 days prior to the expiration of his term.

Sec. 3. One justice of the supreme court shall be selected by the court as its chief justice as provided by rules of the court. He shall perform other duties required by the court. The supreme court shall appoint an administrator of the courts and other assistants of the supreme court as may be necessary to aid in the administration of the courts of this state. 25 lage, charter county, charter township, charter
26 authority or other authority, the tax limitations
27 of which are provided by charter or by general
28 law.

29 In any school district which extends into two 30 or more counties, property taxes at the highest 31 rate available in the county which contains the 32 greatest part of the area of the district may be 33 imposed and collected for school purposes through-
34 out the district.

35 Sec. 7. No income tax graduated as to rate
36 or base shall be imposed by the state or any of 37 its subdivisions.

43 and use taxes and regulatory fees, imposed di-
44 rectly or indirectly on fuels sold or used
45 to propel motor vehicles upon highways and on 46 registered motor vehicles shall, after the payment
47 of necessary collection expenses, be used exclusi-
48 vely for highway purposes as defined by law.

49 Sec. 10. One-eighth of all taxes imposed on 50 retailers on taxable sales at retail of tangible
51 personal property shall be used exclusively for 52 assistance to townships, cities and villages, on

Payments from this fund shall be made in full on a scheduled basis, as provided by law.

Sec. 12. No evidence of state indebtedness shall be issued except for debts authorized pursuant to this constitution.

Sec. 13. Public bodies corporate shall have power to borrow money and to issue their securities evidencing debt, subject to this constitution and law.

Sec. 14. To meet obligations incurred pursuant to appropriations for any fiscal year, the legislature may by law authorize the state to issue its full faith and credit notes in which case it shall pledge undedicated revenues to be received within the same fiscal year for the repayment thereof. Such indebtedness in any fiscal year shall not exceed 15 percent of undedicated revenues received by the state during the preceding fiscal year and such debts shall be repaid at the time the revenues so pledged are received, but not later than the end of the same fiscal year.

Sec. 15. The state may borrow money for specific purposes in amounts as may be provided by acts of the legislature adopted by a vote of two-thirds of the members elected to and serving in each house, and approved by a majority of the electors voting thereon at any general election. The question submitted to the electors shall state the amount to be borrowed, the specific purpose to which the funds shall be devoted, and the method of repayment.

Sec. 16. The state, in addition to any other borrowing power, may borrow from time to time such amounts as shall be required, pledge its faith and credit and issue its notes or bonds therefor, for the purpose of making loans to school districts as provided in this section.

In that event the state shall lend the excess amount to the school district for the payment of principal and interest. If for any reason any school district will be or is unable to pay the principal and interest on its qualified bonds when due, then the school district shall borrow and the state shall lend to it an amount sufficient to enable the school district to make the payment.

The term "qualified bonds" means general obli-

After a school district has received loans from the state, each year thereafter it shall levy for debt service, exclusive of levies for nonqualified bonds, not less than 13 mills or such lower millage as the legislature may prescribe, until the amount loaned has been repaid, and any tax collections therefrom in any year over and above the minimum requirements for principal and interest on qualified bonds shall be used toward the repayment of state loans. In any year when such levy would produce an amount in excess of the requirements and the amount due to the state, the levy may be reduced by the amount of the excess.

Subject to the foregoing provisions, the legislature shall have the power to prescribe and to limit the procedure, terms and conditions for the qualification of bonds, for obtaining and making state loans, and for the repayment of loans.

The power to tax for the payment of principal and interest on bonds hereafter issued which are the general obligations of any school district, including refunding bonds, and for repayment of any state loans made to school districts, shall be without limitation as to rate or amount.

All rights acquired under Sections 27 and 28 of Article X of the Constitution of 1908, by holders of bonds heretofore issued, and all obligations assumed by the state or any school district under these sections, shall remain unimpaired.

against the secretary of state, by Mr. Van Dusen, chairman, submits the following report:

In accordance with Resolution 96, the committee on action against secretary of state on May 14, 1962, filed with the circuit court for the county of Ingham, a petition for declaration of rights in an action entitled, Stephen S. Nisbet, President of the Michigan Constitutional Convention of 1961-1962 v. James M. Hare, Secretary of State. The relief sought was a declaration that the convention has the right to provide for submission of the proposed new constitution to the electors at the general election to be held November 6, 1962. The summons and petition were served on the secretary of state on the same day.

On May 22, having had no response from the attorney general, petitioner filed a motion for the entry of a decree. On May 25, the secretary of state appeared specially by the attorney general and moved to dismiss the petition on the ground that the case did not present an actual controversy. The trial court heard argument on the attorney general's motion on June 1 and on June 6 rendered an opinion denying the motion to dismiss. An order to that effect was entered on June 11.

Instead of proceeding to file an answer, the attorney general then filed an application to the supreme court for leave to appeal. This application was granted by the supreme court and the attorney general, on July 2, filed a claim of appeal.

The attorney general has not yet filed a brief and he states that he does not intend to do so until after August 7.

It is obvious that no judicial determination of the right of the constitutional convention to require submission of the proposed constitution to the electors on November 6 will be made in time to be useful to the convention. Accordingly, the committee recommends:

1) That section 15 [formerly section 16] of the schedule and temporary provisions of the proposed constitution be amended by striking from the first sentence the words "Tuesday after the first Monday of November, 1962" and inserting "first Monday in April, 1963."

2) That the committee be authorized to discontinue the action entitled, Nisbet v. Hare.

Richard C. Van Dusen, chairman.

MR. VAN DUSEN: Mr. President, I move the adoption of the report.

PRESIDENT NISBET: The question is on the motion of Mr. Van Dusen that the report be adopted. Those in favor will say aye. Opposed, no.

The report is adopted. Mr. Van Dusen.

MR. VAN DUSEN: Mr. President, in compliance with our rules, I think it would now be necessary to take a roll call vote on the amendment to the constitution changing the date.

PRESIDENT NISBET: Mr. Chase will read the amendment.

SECRETARY CHASE: The amendment recommended in the report is as follows:

1. Amend the schedule, section 15 [formerly section 16] (column 2) line 11, after "held on the" by striking out "Tuesday after the first Monday of November, 1962.", and inserting "first Monday in April, 1963."

PRESIDENT NISBET: The secretary will call the roll. Those in favor of the amendment will vote aye as your name is called. Those opposed will vote no.

SECRETARY CHASE: On the adoption of the constitution as amended, the yeas are 98; the nays are 43. (applause)
PRESIDENT NISBET: The constitution is adopted.

For the constitution as adopted, see below, page 3317.

Because of the hour, it being almost noon, the Chair recognizes Mr. Van Dusen.

MR. VANDUSEN: Mr. President, I move that the convention now stand in recess until 2:00 p.m.

PRESIDENT NISBET: The question is on the motion of Mr. Van Dusen that we recess until 2:00 p.m. Those in favor will say aye. Opposed, no.

The motion prevails. We are recessed until 2:00 o'clock.

[Whereupon, at 11:50 o'clock a.m., the convention recessed; and, at 2:00 o'clock p.m., reconvened.]

Will the delegates please take their seats. The convention will please come to order.

SECRETARY CHASE: Mr. President, a quorum of the convention is present.

PRESIDENT NISBET: I think we should recognize the fact that many of our employees are voluntarily back with us today, meeting with the delegates. I'm sure all of us are very happy to have them here. It brings about a happy result to see them and I think we ought to give them a good hand. (applause) Mr. Chase has an announcement.

SECRETARY CHASE: There are 3 announcements that possibly should have been made before we recessed for lunch.

First, there is mail for all of the delegates in the mail room downstairs.

Just prior to the May 11 adjournment, several of the delegates took out, on loan, sets of convention slides which have not been returned. Missing from our files are 12 complete sets of slides. Since we frequently have call from other delegates for the use of these slides, we would appreciate their return as soon as possible. Ink White, chairman of the committee on public information.

I am sure the delegates recall the lady on the civic center staff who took such good care of keeping the windows clean and the place well slicked up, who had to go to the hospital for a very critical operation. A number of the delegates contributed to a fund to help her over her financial difficulties. I have the following card:

It is very difficult to express my appreciation to all the wonderful people of con con. Let me say, with my heart, your kindness and generosity will always be remembered.

Sincerely,
Freda Adams.

PRESIDENT NISBET: Since the adjournment on May 11, we have added 2 new associate members to the delegation: Mrs. Charles Follo and Mrs. Gil Wanger.

I asked Charlie if Mrs. Follo was present so that he might present her, but he said she isn't. We are sorry, Charlie, she couldn't be with us.

Mr. Wanger, is your associate delegate present? Would you present her?

[Whereupon, the delegates accorded Mrs. Wanger a standing ovation.]

At the final session before the long recess the president was authorized to name a reunion committee for the constitutional convention. Accordingly, the president appoints, as members of the reunion committee: Mr. Erickson, Mrs. Koeze, Messrs. Jones, Bowens, Brake, Mrs. Conklin, Mr. Dean Doty, Mrs. Daisy Elliott, Messrs. Faxon, Kelsey, Kuhn, Powell, Sharpe, Wanger, White and Norris.

Without objection, the appointments are approved. You will notice that most of these delegates are within the area of Lansing, Detroit or Grand Rapids for their ease in getting together when they have to meet. Mr. Claud Erickson is chairman of the committee.

Returning to the order of business, approval of address to people. We will take up the report of the committee on public information. Mr. White, chairman.

MR. WHITE: Mr. President, under date of June 26, 1962, each delegate was mailed proof copies of the proposed address to the people. Since that time our committee has received numerous suggestions for corrections, additions, deletions and so on. Our committee has met and gone over these suggestions and they have been, for the most part, agreed to. I might say, parenthetically, the address in its present corrected form represents the writing and editing of upwards of 50 of our delegates.

Under date of July 27, 1962, each of you was mailed a 16 page multilith report which outlined in detail some 108 corrections. This communication also carried the recommendation that we be authorized to correct the text of the constitution as it appears in the address to conform with the style and drafting changes adopted at today's session, and to offer comments accordingly, if necessary. All of this material has been delivered again to each delegate's desk today. Additionally, you have a single white multilith sheet from our committee containing brief addenda to this 16 page report.

It seems to me, Mr. President, the delegates have had ample time to consider these matters, and to expedite our final deliberations, I move that the report of the public information committee, with the recommended addenda, be considered read.

PRESIDENT NISBET: Without objection, it is so ordered.

Following is the report as submitted and considered read:

After careful consideration of suggestions from delegates, your committee on public information recommends the adoption of the following changes in the proof copy of the address to the people:

1. Amend page 2, second full paragraph, line 3, after "that one" by striking out "must" and inserting "should"; to improve phraseology.

2. Amend page 2, third full paragraph, line 1, by striking out "Ordered by popular vote, its delegates selected by the people on the basis of one from each senatorial and representative district, the Constitutional Convention of 1961-62 met in Lansing on October 3, 1961.", and inserting "The convention was ordered by popular vote in April of 1961. There were 144 delegates, representing Michigan's 34 State Senatorial districts and 110 State Representative seats. They were elected in statewide voting on September 12, 1961, and convened at Lansing on October 3, 1961."; to improve awkward sentence construction and correct error by indicating "seats" rather than representative "districts."

3. Amend page 2, fifth full paragraph, line 2, after "overlapped" by striking out "each other"; to improve phraseology.

4. Amend page 2, fifth full paragraph, line 6, after

CONSTITUTION

August 1, 1962

PREAMBLE

We, the people of the State of Michigan, grateful to Almighty God for the blessings of freedom, and earnestly desiring to secure these blessings undiminished to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this constitution.

ARTICLE II

Elections

Sec. 1. Every citizen of the United States who has attained the age of 21 years, who has resided in this state six months, and who meets the requirements of local residence provided by law, shall be an elector and qualified to vote in any election except as otherwise provided in this constitution. The legislature shall define residence for voting purposes.

Sec. 2. The legislature may by law exclude persons from voting because of mental incompetence or commitment to a jail or penal institution.

Sec. 3. For purposes of voting in the election for president and vice-president of the United States only, the legislature may by law establish lesser residence requirements for citizens who have resided in this state for less than six months and may waive residence requirements for former citizens of this state who have removed herefrom. The legislature shall not permit voting by any person who meets the voting residence requirements of the state to which he has removed.

Sec. 4. The legislature shall enact laws to regulate the time, place and manner of all nominations and elections, except as otherwise provided in this constitution or in the constitution and laws of the United States. The legislature shall enact laws to preserve the purity of elections, to preserve the secrecy of the ballot, to guard against abuses of the elective franchise, and to provide for a system of voter registration and absentee voting. No law shall be enacted which permits a candidate in any partisan primary or partisan election to have a ballot designation except when required for identification of candidates for the same office who have the same or similar surnames.

Sec. 5. Except for special elections to fill vacancies, or as otherwise provided in this constitution, all elections for national, state, county and township offices shall be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November in each even-numbered year or on such other date as members of the congress of the United States are regularly elected.

Sec. 6. Whenever any question is required to be submitted by a political subdivision to the electors for the increase of the ad valorem tax rate limitation imposed by Section 6 of Article IX for a period of more than five years, or for the issue of bonds, only electors in, and who have property assessed for any ad valorem taxes in, any part of the district or territory to be affected by the result of such election or electors who are the lawful husbands or wives of such persons shall be entitled to vote thereon. All electors in the district or territory affected may vote on all other questions.

Sec. 7. A board of state canvassers of four members shall be established by law. No candidate for an office to be canvassed nor any inspector of elections shall be eligible to serve as a member of a board of canvassers. A majority of any board of canvassers shall not be composed of members of the same political party.

Sec. 8. Laws shall be enacted to provide for the recall of all elective officers except judges of courts of record upon petition of electors equal in number to 25 percent of the number of persons voting in the last preceding election for the office of governor in the electoral district of the officer sought to be recalled. The sufficiency of any statement of reasons or grounds procedurally required shall be a political rather than a judicial question.

Sec. 9. The people reserve to themselves the power to propose laws and to enact and reject laws, called the initiative, and the power to approve or reject laws enacted by the legislature, called the referendum. The power of initiative extends only to laws which the legislature may enact under this constitution. The power of referendum does not extend to acts making appropriations for state institutions or to meet deficiencies in state funds and must be invoked in the manner prescribed by law within 90 days following the final adjournment of the legislative session at which the law was enacted. To invoke the initiative or referendum, petitions signed by a number of registered electors, not less than eight percent for initiative and five percent for referendum of the total vote cast for all candidates for governor at the last preceding general election at which a governor was elected shall be required.

No law as to which the power of referendum properly has been invoked shall be effective thereafter unless approved by a majority of the electors voting thereon at the next general election.

Any law proposed by initiative petition shall be either enacted or rejected by the legislature without change or amendment within 40 session days from the time such petition is received by the legislature. If any law proposed by such petition shall be enacted by the legislature it shall be subject to referendum, as hereinafter provided.

If the law so proposed is not enacted by the legislature within the 40 days, the state officer authorized by law shall submit such proposed law to the people for approval or rejection at the next general election. The legislature may reject any measure so proposed by initiative petition and propose a different measure upon the same subject by a yea and nay vote upon separate roll calls, and in such event both measures shall be submitted by such state officer to the electors for approval or rejection at the next general election.

Any law submitted to the people by either initiative or referendum petition and approved by a majority of the votes cast thereon at any election shall take effect 10 days after the date of the official declaration of the vote. No law initiated or adopted by the people shall be subject to the veto power of the governor, and no law adopted by the people at the polls under the initiative provisions of this section shall be amended or repealed, except by a vote of the electors unless otherwise provided in the initiative measure or by three-fourths of the members elected to and serving in each house of the legislature. Laws approved by the people under the referendum provision of this section may be amended by the legislature at any subsequent session thereof. If two or more measures approved by the electors at the same election conflict, that receiving the highest affirmative vote shall prevail.

The legislature shall implement the provisions of this section.

ARTICLE III

Any other provision of this constitution notwithstanding, an officer or employee of the state or of any such unit of government or subdivision or agency thereof may serve on or with any governmental body established for the purposes set forth in this section and shall not be required to relinquish his office or employment by reason of such service. The legislature may impose such restrictions, limitations or conditions on such service as it may deem appropriate.

Sec. 8. Either house of the legislature or the governor may request the opinion of the supreme court on important questions of law upon solemn occasions as to the constitutionality of legislation after it has been enacted into law but before its effective date.

ARTICLE IV

Legislative Branch

Sec. 1. The legislative power of the State of Michigan is vested in a senate and a house of representatives.

Sec. 2. The senate shall consist of 38 members to be elected from single member districts at the same election as the governor for four-year terms concurrent with the term of office of the governor.

In districting the state for the purpose of electing senators after the official publication of the total population count of each federal decennial census, each county shall be assigned apportionment factors equal to the sum of its percentage of the state's population as shown by the last regular federal decennial census computed to the nearest one-one hundredth of one percent multiplied by four and its percentage of the state's land area computed to the nearest one-one hundredth of one percent.

In arranging the state into senatorial districts, the apportionment commission shall be governed by the following rules:

(1) Counties with 13 or more apportionment factors shall be entitled as a class to senators in the proportion that the total apportionment factors of such counties bear to the total apportionment factors of the state computed to the nearest whole number. After each such county has been allocated one senator, the remaining senators to which this class of counties is entitled shall be distributed among such counties by the method of equal proportions applied to the apportionment factors.

(2) Counties having less than 13 apportionment factors shall be entitled as a class to senators in the proportion that the total apportionment factors of such counties bear to the total apportionment factors of the state computed to the nearest whole number. Such counties shall thereafter be arranged into senatorial districts that are compact, convenient, and contiguous by land, as rectangular in shape as possible, and having as nearly as possible 13 apportionment factors, but in no event less than 10 or more than 16. Insofar as possible, existing senatorial districts at the time of reapportionment shall not be altered unless there is a failure to comply with the above standards.

(3) Counties entitled to two or more senators shall be divided into single member districts. The population of such districts shall be as nearly equal as possible but shall not be less than 75 percent nor more than 125 percent of a number determined by dividing the population of the county by the number of senators to which it is entitled. Each such district shall follow incorporated city or township boundary lines to the extent possible and shall be compact, contiguous, and as nearly uniform in shape as possible.

Sec. 3. The house of representatives shall consist of 110 members elected for two-year terms from single member districts apportioned on a basis of population as provided in this article. The districts shall consist of compact and convenient territory contiguous by land.

Each county which has a population of not less than seven-tenths of one percent of the population of the state shall constitute a separate representative area. Each county having less than seven-tenths of one percent of the population of the state shall be combined with another county or counties to form a representative area of not less than seven-tenths of one percent of the population of the state. Any county which is isolated under the initial allocation as provided in this section shall be joined with that contiguous representative area having the smallest percentage of the state's population. Each such representative area shall be entitled initially to one representative.

After the assignment of one representative to each of the representative areas, the remaining house seats shall be apportioned among the representative areas on the basis of population by the method of equal proportions.

Any county comprising a representative area entitled to two or more representatives shall be divided into single member representative districts as follows:

(1) The population of such districts shall be as nearly equal as possible but shall not be less than 75 percent nor more than 125 percent of a number determined by dividing the population of the representative area by the number of representatives to which it is entitled.

(2) Such single member districts shall follow city and township boundaries where applicable and shall be composed of compact and contiguous territory as nearly square in shape as possible.

Any representative area consisting of more than one county, entitled to more than one representative, shall be divided into single member districts as equal as possible in population, adhering to county lines.

Sec. 4. In counties having more than one representative or senatorial district, the territory in the same county annexed to or merged with a city between apportionments shall become a part of a contiguous representative or senatorial district in the city with which it is combined, if provided by ordinance of the city. The district or districts with which the territory shall be combined shall be determined by such ordinance certified to the secretary of state. No such change in the boundaries of a representative or senatorial district shall have the effect of removing a legislator from office during his term.

Sec. 5. Island areas are considered to be contiguous by land to the county of which they are a part.

Sec. 6. A commission on legislative apportionment is hereby established consisting of eight electors, four of whom shall be selected by the state organizations of each of the two political parties whose candidates for governor received the highest vote at the last general election at which a governor was elected preceding each apportionment. If a candidate for governor of a third political party has received at such election more than 25 percent of such gubernatorial vote, the commission shall consist of 12 members, four of whom shall be selected by the state organization of the third political party. One resident of each of the following four regions shall be selected by each political party organization: (1) the upper peninsula; (2) the northern part of the lower peninsula, north of a line drawn along the northern boundaries of the counties of Bay, Midland, Isabella, Mecosta, Newaygo and Oceana; (3) southwestern Michigan, those counties south of region (2) and west of a line drawn along the western boundaries of the counties of Bay, Saginaw, Shiawassee, Ingham, Jackson and Hillsdale; (4) southeastern Michigan, the remaining counties of the state.

No officers or employees of the federal, state or local governments, excepting notaries public and members of the armed forces reserve, shall be eligible for membership on the commission. Members of the commission shall not be eligible for election to the legislature until two years after the apportionment in which they participated becomes effective.

The commission shall be appointed immediately after the adoption of this constitution and whenever apportionment or districting of the legislature is required by the provisions of this constitution. Members of the commission shall hold office until each apportionment or districting plan becomes effective. Vacancies shall be filled in the same manner as for original appointment.

The secretary of state shall be secretary of the commission without vote, and in that capacity shall furnish, under the direction of the commission, all necessary technical services. The commission shall elect its own chairman, shall make its own rules of procedure, and shall receive compensation provided by law. The legislature shall appropriate funds to enable the commission to carry out its activities.

Within 30 days after the adoption of this constitution, and after the official total population count of each federal decennial census of the state and its political subdivisions is available, the secretary of state shall issue a call convening the commission not less than 30 nor more than 45 days thereafter. The commission shall complete its work within 180 days after all necessary census information is available. The commission shall proceed to district and apportion the senate and house of representatives according to the provisions of this constitution. All final decisions shall require the concurrence of a majority of the members of the commission. The commission shall hold public hearings as may be provided by law.

Each final apportionment and districting plan shall be published as provided by law within 30 days from the date of its adoption and shall become law 60 days after publication. The secretary of state shall keep a public record of all the proceedings of the commission and shall be responsible for the publication and distribution of each plan.

If a majority of the commission cannot agree on a plan, each member of the commission, individually or jointly with other members, may submit a proposed plan to the supreme court. The supreme court shall determine which plan complies most accurately with the constitutional requirements and shall direct that it be adopted by the commission and published as provided in this section.

Upon the application of any elector filed not later than 60 days after final publication of the plan, the supreme court, in the exercise of original jurisdiction, shall direct the secretary of state or the commission to perform their duties, may review any final plan adopted by the commission, and shall remand such plan to the commission for further action if it fails to comply with the requirements of this constitution.

Sec. 7. Each senator and representative must be a citizen of the United States, at least 21 years of age, and an elector of the district he represents. The removal of his domicile from the district shall be deemed a vacation of the office. No person who has been convicted of subversion or who has within the preceding 20 years been convicted of a felony involving a breach of public trust shall be eligible for either house of the legislature.

Sec. 8. No person holding any office, employment or position under the United States or this state or a political subdivision thereof, except notaries public and members of the armed forces reserve, may be a member of either house of the legislature.

Sec. 9. No person elected to the legislature shall receive any civil appointment within this state from the governor, except notaries public, from the legislature, or from any other state authority, during the term for which he is elected.

Sec. 10. No member of the legislature nor any state officer shall be interested directly or indirectly in any contract with the state or any political subdivision thereof which shall cause a substantial conflict of interest. The legislature shall further implement this provision by appropriate legislation.

Sec. 11. Senators and representatives shall be privileged from civil arrest and civil process during sessions of the legislature and for five days next before the commencement and after the termination thereof. They shall not be questioned in any other place for any speech in either house.

Sec. 12. The compensation and expense allowances of the members of the legislature shall be determined by law. Changes in compensation or expense allowances shall become effective only when legislators commence their terms of office after a general election.

Sec. 13. The legislature shall meet at the seat of government on the second Wednesday in January of each year at twelve o'clock noon. Each regular session shall adjourn without day, on a day determined by concurrent resolution, at twelve o'clock noon. Any business, bill or joint resolution pending at the final adjournment of a regular session held in an odd numbered year shall carry over with the same status to the next regular session.

Sec. 14. A majority of the members elected to and serving in each house shall constitute a quorum to do business. A smaller number in each house may adjourn from day to day, and may compel the attendance of absent members in the manner and with penalties as each house may prescribe.

Sec. 15. There shall be a bi-partisan legislative council consisting of legislators appointed in the manner prescribed by law. The legislature shall appropriate funds for the council's operations and provide for its staff which shall maintain bill drafting, research and other services for the members of the legislature. The council shall periodically examine and recommend to the legislature revision of the various laws of the state.

Sec. 16. Each house, except as otherwise provided in this constitution, shall choose its own officers and determine the rules of its proceedings, but shall not adopt any rule that will prevent a majority of the members elected thereto and serving therein from discharging a committee from the further consideration of any measure. Each house shall be the sole judge of the qualifications, elections and returns of its members, and may, with the concurrence of two-thirds of all the members elected thereto and serving therein, expel a member. The reasons for such expulsion shall be entered in the journal, with the votes and names of the members voting upon the question. No member shall be expelled a second time for the same cause.

Sec. 17. Each house of the legislature may establish the committees necessary for the efficient conduct of its business and the legislature may create joint committees. On all actions on bills and resolutions in each committee, names and votes of members shall be recorded. Such vote shall be available for public inspection. Notice of all committee hearings and a clear statement of all subjects to be considered at each hearing shall be published in the journal in advance of the hearing.

Sec. 18. Each house shall keep a journal of its proceedings, and publish the same unless the public security otherwise requires. The record of the vote and name of the members of either house voting on any question shall be entered in the journal at the request of one-fifth of the members present. Any member of either house may dissent from and protest against any act, proceeding or resolution which he deems injurious to any person or the public, and have the reason for his dissent entered in the journal.

Sec. 19. All elections in either house or in joint convention and all votes on appointments submitted to the senate for advice and consent shall be published by vote and name in the journal.

Sec. 20. The doors of each house shall be open unless the public security otherwise requires.

Sec. 21. Neither house shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than two intervening calendar days, nor to any place other than where the legislature may then be in session.

Sec. 22. All legislation shall be by bill and may originate in either house.

Sec. 23. The style of the laws shall be: The People of the State of Michigan enact.

Sec. 24. No law shall embrace more than one object, which shall be expressed in its title. No bill shall be altered or amended on its passage through either house so as to change its original purpose as determined by its total content and not alone by its title.

Sec. 25. No law shall be revised, altered or amended by reference to its title only. The section or sections of the act altered or amended shall be re-enacted and published at length.

Sec. 26. No bill shall be passed or become a law at any regular session of the legislature until it has been printed or reproduced and in the possession of each house for at least five days. Every bill shall be read three times in each house before the final passage thereof. No bill shall become a law without the concurrence of a majority of the members elected to and serving in each house. On the final passage of bills, the votes and names of the members voting thereon shall be entered in the journal.

Sec. 27. No act shall take effect until the expiration of 90 days from the end of the session at which it was passed, but the legislature may give immediate effect to acts by a two-thirds vote of the members elected to and serving in each house.

Sec. 28. When the legislature is convened on extraordinary occasions in special session no bill shall be passed on any subjects other than those expressly stated in the governor's proclamation or submitted by special message.

Sec. 29. The legislature shall pass no local or special act in any case where a general act can be made applicable, and whether a general act can be made applicable shall be a judicial question. No local or special act shall take effect until approved by two-thirds of the members elected to and serving in each house and by a majority of the electors voting thereon in the district affected. Any act repealing local or special acts shall require only a majority of the members elected to and serving in each house and shall not require submission to the electors of such district.

Sec. 30. The assent of two-thirds of the members elected to and serving in each house of the legislature shall be required for the appropriation of public money or property for local or private purposes.

Sec. 31. The general appropriation bills for the succeeding fiscal period covering items set forth in the budget shall be passed or rejected in either house of the legislature before that house passes any appropriation bill for items not in the budget except bills supplementing appropriations for the current fiscal year's operation. Any bill requiring an appropriation to carry out its purpose shall be considered an appropriation bill. One of the general appropriation bills as passed by the legislature shall contain an itemized statement of estimated revenue by major source in each operating fund for the ensuing fiscal period, the total of which shall not be less than the total of all appropriations made from each fund in the general appropriation bills as passed.

Sec. 32. Every law which imposes, continues or revives a tax shall distinctly state the tax.

Sec. 33. Every bill passed by the legislature shall be presented to the governor before it becomes law, and the governor shall have 14 days measured in hours and minutes from the time of presentation in which to consider it. If he approves, he shall within that time sign and file it with the secretary of state and it shall become law. If he does not approve, and the legislature has within that time finally adjourned the session at which the bill was passed, it shall not become law. If he disapproves, and the legislature continues the session at which the bill was passed, he shall return it within such 14-day period with his objections, to the house in which it originated. That house shall enter such objections in full in its journal and reconsider the bill. If two-thirds of the members elected to and serving in that house pass the bill notwithstanding the objections of the governor, it shall be sent with the objections to the other house for reconsideration. The bill shall become law if passed by two-thirds of the members elected to and serving in that house. The vote of each house shall be entered in the journal with the votes and names of the members voting thereon. If any bill is not returned by the governor within such 14-day period, the legislature continuing in session, it shall become law as if he had signed it.

Sec. 34. Any bill passed by the legislature and approved by the governor, except a bill appropriating money, may provide that it will not become law unless approved by a majority of the electors voting thereon.

Sec. 35. All laws enacted at any session of the legislature shall be published in book form within 60 days after final adjournment of the session, and shall be distributed in the manner provided by law. The prompt publication of judicial decisions shall be provided by law. All laws and judicial decisions shall be free for publication by any person.

Sec. 36. No general revision of the laws shall be made. The legislature may provide for a compilation of the laws in force, arranged without alteration, under appropriate heads and titles.

Sec. 37. The legislature may by concurrent resolution empower a joint committee of the legislature, acting between sessions, to suspend any rule or regulation promulgated by an administrative agency subsequent to the adjournment of the last preceding regular legislative session. Such suspension shall continue no longer than the end of the next regular legislative session.

Sec. 38. The legislature may provide by law the cases in which any office shall be vacant and the manner of filling vacancies where no provision is made in this constitution.

Sec. 39. In order to insure continuity of state and local governmental operations in periods of emergency only, resulting from disasters occurring in this state caused by enemy attack on the United States, the legislature may provide by law for prompt and temporary succession to the powers and duties of public offices, of whatever nature and whether filled by election or appointment, the incumbents of which may become unavailable for carrying on the powers and duties of such offices; and enact other laws necessary and proper for insuring the continuity of governmental operations. Notwithstanding the power conferred by this section, elections shall always be called as soon as possible to fill any vacancies in elective offices temporarily occupied by operation of any legislation enacted pursuant to the provisions of this section.

Sec. 40. The legislature may by law establish a liquor control commission which, subject to statutory limitations, shall exercise complete control of the alcoholic beverage traffic within this state, including the retail sales thereof. The legislature may provide for an excise tax on such sales. Neither the legislature nor the commission may authorize the manufacture or sale of alcoholic beverages in any county in which a majority of the electors voting thereon shall prohibit the same.

Sec. 41. The legislature shall not authorize any lottery nor permit the sale of lottery tickets.

Sec. 42. The legislature may provide for the incorporation of ports and port districts, and confer power and authority upon them to engage in work of internal improvements in connection therewith.

Sec. 43. No general law providing for the incorporation of trust companies or corporations for banking purposes, or regulating the business thereof, shall be enacted, amended or repealed except by a vote of two-thirds of the members elected to and serving in each house.

Sec. 44. The legislature may authorize a trial by a jury of less than 12 jurors in civil cases.

Sec. 45. The legislature may provide for indeterminate sentences as punishment for crime and for the detention and release of persons imprisoned or detained under such sentences.

Sec. 46. No law shall be enacted providing for the penalty of death.

Sec. 47. The legislature may authorize the employment of chaplains in state institutions of detention or confinement.

Sec. 48. The legislature may enact laws providing for the resolution of disputes concerning public employees, except those in the state classified civil service.

Sec. 49. The legislature may enact laws relative to the hours and conditions of employment.

Sec. 50. The legislature may provide safety measures and regulate the use of atomic energy and forms of energy developed in the future, having in view the general welfare of the people of this state.

Sec. 51. The public health and general welfare of the people of the state are hereby declared to be matters of primary public concern. The legislature shall pass suitable laws for the protection and promotion of the public health.

Sec. 52. The conservation and development of the natural resources of the state are hereby declared to be of paramount public concern in the interest of the health, safety and general welfare of the people. The legislature shall provide for the protection of the air, water and other natural resources of the state from pollution, impairment and destruction.

Sec. 53. The legislature by a majority vote of the members elected to and serving in each house, shall appoint an auditor general, who shall be a certified public accountant licensed to practice in this state, to serve for a term of eight years. He shall be ineligible for appointment or election to any other public office in this state from which compensation is derived while serving as auditor general and for two years following the termination of his service. He may be removed for cause at any time by a two-thirds vote of the members elected to and serving in each house. The auditor general, his deputy and one other member of his staff shall be exempt from classified civil service. All other members of his staff shall have classified civil service status.

ARTICLE V

Executive Branch

Sec. 1. The executive power is vested in the governor.

Sec. 2. All executive and administrative offices, agencies and instrumentalities of the executive branch of state government and their respective functions, powers and duties, except for the office of governor and lieutenant governor and the governing bodies of institutions of higher education provided for in this constitution, shall be allocated by law among and within not more than 20 principal departments. They shall be grouped as far as practicable according to major purposes.

Subsequent to the initial allocation, the governor may make changes in the organization of the executive branch or in the assignment of functions among its units which he considers necessary for efficient administration. Where these changes require the force of law, they shall be set forth in executive orders and submitted to the legislature. Thereafter the legislature shall have 60 calendar days of a regular session, or a full regular session if of shorter duration, to disapprove each executive order. Unless disapproved in both houses by a resolution concurred in by a majority of the members elected to and serving in each house, each order shall become effective at a date thereafter to be designated by the governor.

Sec. 3. The head of each principal department shall be a single executive unless otherwise provided in this constitution or by law. The single executives heading principal departments shall include a secretary of state, a state treasurer and an attorney general. When a single executive is the head of a principal department, unless elected or appointed as otherwise provided in this constitution, he shall be appointed by the governor by and with the advice and consent of the senate and he shall serve at the pleasure of the governor.

When a board or commission is at the head of a principal department, unless elected or appointed as otherwise provided in this constitution, the members thereof shall be appointed by the governor by and with the advice and consent of the senate. The term of office and procedure for removal of such members shall be as prescribed in this constitution or by law.

Terms of office of any board or commission created or enlarged after the effective date of this constitution shall not exceed four years except as otherwise authorized in this constitution. The terms of office of existing boards and commissions which are longer than four years shall not be further extended except as provided in this constitution.

Sec. 4. Temporary commissions or agencies for special purposes with a life of no more than two years may be established by law and need not be allocated within a principal department.

Sec. 5. A majority of the members of an appointed examining or licensing board of a profession shall be members of that profession.

Sec. 6. Appointment by and with the advice and consent of the senate when used in this constitution or laws in effect or hereafter enacted means appointment subject to disapproval by a majority vote of the members elected to and serving in the senate if such action is taken within 60 session days after the date of such appointment. Any appointment not disapproved within such period shall stand confirmed.

Sec. 7. Vacancies in any office, appointment to which requires advice and consent of the senate, shall be filled by the governor by and with the advice and consent of the senate. A person whose appointment has been disapproved by the senate shall not be eligible for an interim appointment to the same office.

Sec. 8. Each principal department shall be under the supervision of the governor unless otherwise provided by this constitution. The governor shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed. He shall transact all necessary business with the officers of government and may require information in writing from all executive and administrative state officers, elective and appointive, upon any subject relating to the duties of their respective offices.

The governor may initiate court proceedings in the name of the state to enforce compliance with any constitutional or legislative mandate, or to restrain violations of any constitutional or legislative power, duty or right by any officer, department or agency of the state or any of its political subdivisions. This authority shall not be construed to authorize court proceedings against the legislature.

Sec. 9. Single executives heading principal departments and the chief executive officers of principal departments headed by boards or commissions shall keep their offices at the seat of government except as otherwise provided by law, superintend them in person and perform duties prescribed by law.

Sec. 10. The governor shall have power and it shall be his duty to inquire into the condition and administration of any public office and the acts of any public officer, elective or appointive. He may remove or suspend from office for gross neglect of duty or for corrupt conduct in office, or for any other misfeasance or malfeasance therein, any elective or appointive state officer, except legislative or judicial, and shall report the reasons for such removal or suspension to the legislature.

Sec. 11. The governor may make a provisional appointment to fill a vacancy occasioned by the suspension of an appointed or elected officer, other than a legislative or judicial officer, until he is reinstated or until the vacancy is filled in the manner prescribed by law or this constitution.

Sec. 12. The governor shall be commander-in-chief of the armed forces and may call them out to execute the laws, suppress insurrection and repel invasion.

Sec. 13. The governor shall issue writs of election to fill vacancies in the senate or house of representatives. Any such election shall be held in a manner prescribed by law.

Sec. 14. The governor shall have power to grant reprieves, commutations and pardons after convictions for all offenses, except cases of impeachment, upon such conditions and limitations as he may direct, subject to procedures and regulations prescribed by law. He shall inform the legislature annually of each reprieve, commutation and pardon granted, stating reasons therefor.

Sec. 15. The governor may convene the legislature on extraordinary occasions.

Sec. 16. The governor may convene the legislature at some other place when the seat of government becomes dangerous from any cause.

Sec. 17. The governor shall communicate by message to the legislature at the beginning of each session and may at other times present to the legislature information as to the affairs of the state and recommend measures he considers necessary or desirable.

Sec. 18. The governor shall submit to the legislature at a time fixed by law, a budget for the ensuing fiscal period setting forth in detail, for all operating funds, the proposed expenditures and estimated revenue of the state. Proposed expenditures from any fund shall not exceed the estimated revenue thereof. On the same date, the governor shall submit to the legislature general appropriation bills to embody the proposed expenditures and any necessary bill or bills to provide new or additional revenues to meet proposed expenditures. The amount of any surplus created or deficit incurred in any fund during the last preceding fiscal period shall be entered as an item in the budget and in one of the appropriation bills. The governor may submit amendments to appropriation bills to be offered in either house during consideration of the bill by that house, and shall submit bills to meet deficiencies in current appropriations.

Sec. 19. The governor may disapprove any distinct item or items appropriating moneys in any appropriation bill. The part or parts approved shall become law, and the item or items disapproved shall be void unless re-passed according to the method prescribed for the passage of other bills over the executive veto.

Sec. 20. No appropriation shall be a mandate to spend. The governor, with the approval of the appropriating committees of the house and senate, shall reduce expenditures authorized by appropriations whenever it appears that actual revenues for a fiscal period will fall below the revenue estimates on which appropriations for that period were based. Reductions in expenditures shall be made in accordance with procedures prescribed by law. The governor may not reduce expenditures of the legislative and judicial branches or from funds constitutionally dedicated for specific purposes.

Sec. 21. The governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state and attorney general shall be elected for four-year terms at the general election in each alternate even-numbered year.

The lieutenant governor, secretary of state and attorney general shall be nominated by party conventions in a manner prescribed by law. In the general election one vote shall be cast jointly for the candidates for governor and lieutenant governor nominated by the same party.

Vacancies in the office of the secretary of state and attorney general shall be filled by appointment by the governor.

Sec. 22. To be eligible for the office of governor or lieutenant governor a person must have attained the age of 30 years, and have been a registered elector in this state for four years next preceding his election.

Sec. 23. The governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state and attorney general shall each receive the compensation provided by law in full payment for all services performed and expenses incurred during his term of office. Such compensation shall not be changed during the term of office except as otherwise provided in this constitution.

Sec. 24. An executive residence suitably furnished shall be provided at the seat of government for the use of the governor. He shall receive an allowance for its maintenance as provided by law.

Sec. 25. The lieutenant governor shall be president of the senate, but shall have no vote, unless they be equally divided. He may perform duties requested of him by the governor, but no power vested in the governor shall be delegated.

Sec. 26. In case of the conviction of the governor on impeachment, his removal from office, his resignation or his death, the lieutenant governor, the elected secretary of state, the elected attorney general and such other persons designated by law shall in that order be governor for the remainder of the governor's term.

In case of the death of the governor-elect, the lieutenant governor-elect, the secretary of state-elect, the attorney general-elect and such other persons designated by law shall become governor in that order at the commencement of the governor-elect's term.

If the governor or the person in line of succession to serve as governor is absent from the state, or suffering under an inability, the powers and duties of the office of governor shall devolve in order of precedence until the absence or inability giving rise to the devolution of powers ceases.

The inability of the governor or person acting as governor shall be determined by a majority of the supreme court on joint request of the president pro tempore of the senate and the speaker of the house of representatives. Such determination shall be final and conclusive. The supreme court shall upon its own initiative determine if and when the inability ceases.

Sec. 27. The legislature shall provide that the salary of any state officer while acting as governor shall be equal to that of the governor.

Sec. 28. There is hereby established a state highway commission, which shall administer the state highway department and have jurisdiction and control over all state trunkline highways and appurtenant facilities, and such other public works of the state, as provided by law.

The state highway commission shall consist of four members, not more than two of whom shall be members of the same political party. They shall be appointed by the governor by and with the advice and consent of the senate for four-year terms, no two of which shall expire in the same year, as provided by law.

The state highway commission shall appoint and may remove a state highway director, who shall be a competent highway engineer and administrator. He shall be the principal executive officer of the state highway department and shall be responsible for executing the policy of the state highway commission.

Sec. 29. There is hereby established a civil rights commission which shall consist of eight persons, not more than four of whom shall be members of the same political party, who shall be appointed by the governor, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, for four-year terms not more than two of which shall expire in the same year. It shall be the duty of the commission in a manner which may be prescribed by law to investigate alleged discrimination against any person because of religion, race, color or national origin in the enjoyment of the civil rights guaranteed by law and by this constitution, and to secure the equal protection of such civil rights without such discrimination. The legislature shall provide an annual appropriation for the effective operation of the commission.

The commission shall have power, in accordance with the provisions of this constitution and of general laws governing administrative agencies, to promulgate rules and regulations for its own procedures, to hold hearings, administer oaths, through court authorization to require the attendance of witnesses and the submission of records, to take testimony, and to issue appropriate orders. The commission shall have other powers provided by law to carry out its purposes. Nothing contained in this section shall be construed to diminish the right of any party to direct and immediate legal or equitable remedies in the courts of this state.

Appeals from final orders of the commission, including cease and desist orders and refusals to issue complaints, shall be tried de novo before the circuit court having jurisdiction provided by law.

ARTICLE VI

Judicial Branch

Sec. 1. The judicial power of the state is vested exclusively in one court of justice which shall be divided into one supreme court, one court of appeals, one trial court of general jurisdiction known as the circuit court, one probate court, and courts of limited jurisdiction that the legislature may establish by a two-thirds vote of the members elected to and serving in each house.

Sec. 2. The supreme court shall consist of seven justices elected at non-partisan elections as provided by law. The term of office shall be eight years and not more than two terms of office shall expire at the same time. Nominations for justices of the supreme court shall be in the manner prescribed by law. Any incumbent justice whose term is to expire may become a candidate for re-election by filing an affidavit of candidacy, in the form and manner prescribed by law, not less than 180 days prior to the expiration of his term.

Sec. 2. The power of taxation shall never be surrendered, suspended or contracted away.

Sec. 3. The legislature shall provide for the uniform general ad valorem taxation of real and tangible personal property not exempt by law. Every tax other than the general ad valorem property tax shall be uniform upon the class or classes on which it operates.

Sec. 4. Property owned and occupied by non-profit religious or educational organizations and used exclusively for religious or educational purposes, as defined by law, shall be exempt from real and personal property taxes.

and for the imposition and collection of taxes thereon. Property assessed by the state shall be assessed at the same proportion of its true cash value as the legislature shall specify for property subject to general ad valorem taxation. The rate of taxation on such property shall be the average rate levied upon other property in this state under the general ad valorem tax law, or, if the legislature provides, the rate of tax applicable to the property of each business enterprise assessed by the state shall be the average rate of ad valorem taxation levied upon other property in all counties in which any of such property is situated.

Sec. 6. Except as otherwise provided in this constitution, the total amount of general ad valorem taxes imposed upon real and tangible personal property for all purposes in any one year shall not exceed 15 mills on each dollar of the assessed valuation of property as finally equalized. Under procedures provided by law, which shall guarantee the right of initiative, separate tax limitations for any county and for the townships and for school districts therein, the aggregate of which shall not exceed 18 mills on each dollar of such valuation, may be adopted and thereafter altered by the vote of a majority of the qualified electors of such county voting thereon, in lieu of the limitation hereinbefore established. These limitations may be increased to an aggregate of not to exceed 50 mills on each dollar of valuation, for a period of not to exceed 20 years at any one time, if approved by a majority of the electors, qualified under Section 6 of Article II of this constitution, voting on the question.

The foregoing limitations shall not apply to taxes imposed for the payment of principal and interest on bonds or other evidences of indebtedness or for the payment of assessments or contract obligations in anticipation of which bonds are issued, which taxes may be imposed without limitation as to rate or amount; or to taxes imposed for any other purpose by any city, village, charter county, charter township, charter authority or other authority, the tax limitations of which are provided by charter or by general law.

In any school district which extends into two or more counties, property taxes at the highest rate available in the county which contains the greatest part of the area of the district may be imposed and collected for school purposes throughout the district.

Sec. 7. No income tax graduated as to rate or base shall be imposed by the state or any of its subdivisions.

Sec. 8. The legislature shall not impose a sales tax on retailers at a rate of more than four percent of their gross taxable sales of tangible personal property.

Sec. 9. All specific taxes, except general sales and use taxes and regulatory fees, imposed directly or indirectly on fuels sold or used to propel motor vehicles upon highways and on registered motor vehicles shall, after the payment of necessary collection expenses, be used exclusively for highway purposes as defined by law.

Sec. 10. One-eighth of all taxes imposed on retailers on taxable sales at retail of tangible personal property shall be used exclusively for assistance to townships, cities and villages, on a population basis as provided by law. In determining population the legislature may exclude any portion of the total number of persons who are wards, patients or convicts in any tax supported institution.

Sec. 14. To meet obligations incurred pursuant to appropriations for any fiscal year, the legislature may by law authorize the state to issue its full faith and credit notes in which case it shall pledge undedicated revenues to be received within the same fiscal year for the repayment thereof. Such indebtedness in any fiscal year shall not exceed 15 percent of undedicated revenues received by the state during the preceding fiscal year and such debts shall be repaid at the time the revenues so pledged are received, but not later than the end of the same fiscal year.

Sec. 15. The state may borrow money for specific purposes in amounts as may be provided by acts of the legislature adopted by a vote of two-thirds of the members elected to and serving in each house, and approved by a majority of the electors voting thereon at any general election. The question submitted to the electors shall state the amount to be borrowed, the specific purpose to which the funds shall be devoted, and the method of repayment.

Sec. 16. The state, in addition to any other borrowing power, may borrow from time to time such amounts as shall be required, pledge its faith and credit and issue its notes or bonds therefor, for the purpose of making loans to school districts as provided in this section.

If the minimum amount which would otherwise be necessary for a school district to levy in any year to pay principal and interest on its qualified bonds, including any necessary allowances for estimated tax delinquencies, exceeds 13 mills on each dollar of its assessed valuation as finally equalized, or such lower millage as the legislature may prescribe, then the school district may elect to borrow all or any part of the excess from the state. In that event the state shall lend the excess amount to the school district for the payment of principal and interest. If for any reason any school district will be or is unable to pay the principal and interest on its qualified bonds when due, then the school district shall borrow and the state shall lend to it an amount sufficient to enable the school district to make the payment.

The term "qualified bonds" means general obligation bonds of school districts issued for capital expenditures, including refunding bonds, issued prior to May 4, 1955, or issued thereafter and qualified as provided by law pursuant to Section 27 or Section 28 of Article X of the Constitution of 1908 or pursuant to this section.

After a school district has received loans from the state, each year thereafter it shall levy for debt service, exclusive of levies for nonqualified bonds, not less than 13 mills or such lower millage as the legislature may prescribe, until the amount loaned has been repaid, and any tax collections therefrom in any year over and above the minimum requirements for principal and interest on qualified bonds shall be used toward the repayment of state loans. In any year when such levy would produce an amount in excess of the requirements and the amount due to the state, the levy may be reduced by the amount of the excess.

Subject to the foregoing provisions, the legislature shall have the power to prescribe and to limit the procedure, terms and conditions for the qualification of bonds, for obtaining and making state loans, and for the repayment of loans.

The power to tax for the payment of principal and interest on bonds hereafter issued which are the general obligations of any school district, including refunding bonds, and for repayment of any state loans made to school districts, shall be without limitation as to rate or amount.

All rights acquired under Sections 27 and 28 of Article X of the Constitution of 1908, by holders of bonds heretofore issued, and all obligations assumed by the state or any school district under these sections, shall remain unimpaired.

Sec. 17. No money shall be paid out of the state treasury except in pursuance of appropriations made by law.

Sec. 18. The credit of the state shall not be granted to, nor in aid of any person, association or corporation, public or private, except as authorized in this constitution.

This section shall not be construed to prohibit the investment of public funds until needed for current requirements or the investment of funds accumulated to provide retirement or pension benefits for public officials and employees, as provided by law.

Sec. 19. [ADDRESS TO THE PEOPLE]

What the Proposed
New State Constitution
Means to You

- A report to the people of Michigan by their elected delegates to the Constitutional Convention of 1961-62.

Lansing, Michigan

August 1, 1962

No change from Sec. 39, Article V, of the present constitution except for improvement in phraseology.

Revision of laws; compilation.

Sec. 36. No general revision of the laws shall * be made.  The legislature * may provide for a compilation of the laws in force, arranged without alteration, under appropriate heads and titles. ****

This is a revision of Sec. 40, Article V, of the present constitution to improve phraseology and delete two concluding sentences thereby removing unnecessary detail relative to the compilation of laws. The existing section provides for compilation by commissioners named by the governor who submit their recommendations to the legislature. This revision places the entire matter of a compilation in the hands of the legislature for determination.

Administrative rules; suspension.

Sec. 37. The legislature may by concurrent resolution empower a joint committee of the legislature, acting between sessions, to suspend any rule or regulation promulgated by an administrative agency subsequent to the adjournment of the last preceding regular legislative session. Such suspension shall continue no longer than the end of the next regular legislative session.

This is a new section permitting the legislature to set up a joint committee to act between sessions and to suspend until the end of the next regular legislative session any rule or regulation of an administrative agency promulgated when the legislature is not in regular session.

It provides a legislative check on the rule-making authority of administrative agencies when the legislature is not in regular session.

Filling vacancies.

Sec. 38. The legislature may provide by law the cases in which any office shall be * vacant and the manner of filling vacancies where no provision is made in this constitution.

No change from the first paragraph of Sec. 5, Article XVI, of the present constitution except for improvement in phraseology.

Continuity of government.

Sec. 39. * In order to insure continuity of state and local governmental operations in periods of emergency only, resulting from disasters occurring in this state caused by enemy attack on the United States,  the legislature * may  provide by law for prompt and temporary succession to the powers and duties of public offices, of whatever nature and whether filled by election or appointment, the incumbents of which may become unavailable for carrying on the powers and duties of such offices; and  enact  other laws  necessary and proper for insuring the continuity of governmental operations. Notwithstanding the power conferred by this section, elections shall always be called as soon as possible to fill any * vacancies in * elective offices temporarily occupied by operation of any legislation enacted pursuant to the provisions of this section.

No change from the second paragraph of Sec. 5, Article XVI, of the present constitution except for improvement in phraseology.

Liquor control commission.

Sec. 40. The legislature may by law establish a liquor control commission which, subject to statutory limitations, shall exercise complete control of the alcoholic beverage traffic within this state, including the retail sales thereof.  The legislature may * provide for an excise tax on such sales.  Neither the legislature nor the commission may authorize the manufacture or sale of alcoholic beverages in any county in which a majority of the electors voting thereon shall prohibit the same.

No change from Sec. 11, Article XVI, of the present constitution except for improvement in phraseology.

Lotteries.

Sec. 41. The legislature shall not authorize any lottery nor permit the sale of lottery tickets.

No change from Sec. 33, Article V, of the present constitution.

Ports and port districts.

Sec. 42. The legislature may provide for the incorporation of ports and port districts, and confer power and authority upon them to engage in work of internal improvements in connection therewith.

No change from Sec. 30, Article VIII, of the present constitution.

Banking and trust company laws.

Sec. 43. No general law providing for the incorporation of trust companies or corporations for banking purposes, or regulating the business thereof, shall be enacted, amended or repealed except by a vote of two-thirds of the members elected to and serving in each house. ****

No change from Sec. 9, Article XII, of the present constitution except for the elimination of the concluding sentence: "Such laws shall not authorize the issue of bank notes or paper credit to circulate as money." This restriction is no longer necessary.

The words "and serving" are inserted to comply with the method of computing a majority provided in Sec. 14 of this Article.

Trial by jury.

Sec. 44. The legislature may authorize a trial by a jury of * less * than 12 jurors in civil cases.

This is a revision of Sec. 27, Article V, adding the words "in civil cases" to make it clear that the traditional jury of 12 is maintained in criminal cases. The word "jurors" is substituted for "men" to conform with changes in Article I of this document.

Indeterminate sentences.

Sec. 45. The legislature may provide * for indeterminate sentences * as * punishment for crime  and for the detention and release of persons imprisoned or detained under such sentences.
