Overview of the Constitutional Convention Process

Provisions generally began as Committee Proposals and were then brought to the convention floor for first reading. The majority of debate on the substance of provisions occurred during the first and second readings. There were two third readings; the first on an article-by-article basis and the second reviewing the Constitution as a whole. Following the third readings the entire Constitution was voted on by the delegates. The delegates then created the Notice of Address to the People, summarizing the Constitution on a provision-by-provision basis, which was distributed so that the people could be informed when making their ratification votes.

The convention used ALL CAPS to denote added material and [brackets] to denote removed material.

O'Hara, quoting a ruling last June by the U. S. supreme court growing out of an Ohio case:

We hold that all evidence obtained by searches and seizures in violation of the federal constitution is, by that same authority, inadmissible in a state court.

For the record, I would like to state that this is not a hypothetical case involving hypothetical people by a hypothetical court in a hypothetical newspaper, and if the words quoted sound fairly familiar, you will find them on page 1090 of the July advance sheets of the United States Supreme Court Reports, law edition.

The second reference in which my name was used was by my distinguished friend, colleague, ex jurist, the man whom I have the honor of sitting across the aisle from. (laughter) He told the convention that I was unable to count in reference to a 37,000 to 6,000 vote in Washtenaw county. Well, I was never very good in higher mathematics, fellow delegates, but I have found out one thing: I at least am able to read and understand what I have read. Thank you.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Reports of standing committees.

The gentleman from Isabella, Dr. Anspach.

MR. ANSPACH: I rise to a point of personal privilege for comments.

We had quite a session this afternoon. I think that we can profit, perhaps, by this story of the teacher who, in the fall of the year, went out to a pasture, and she was dirty and tired and weary. She came to a beautiful stream that went down through the pasture. So she thought she would go swimming, but she had no bathing suit. After a while she decided she would go bathing because there was nobody within 2 miles of the place. So she went swimming. After a while she looked up, hearing a noise, and saw some youngsters tying knots in her clothing. She tried to shoo them away and frighten them away, but they wouldn't shoo and frighten. Moving around under water she stubbed her toe on something, reached down and discovered it was a tub. She brought the tub up and placed it in front of her in this fashion [indicating] and advanced on these youngsters, with her eyes blazing. She said, "You know what I think?" One kid said, "Yes. You think there's a bottom in the tub." (laughter)

MR. W. F. HANNA: Mr. President, I move that the committee reports be considered read, referred to the committee of the whole and placed on the general orders in view of the fact that they will be published in the journal. And in view of our great deliberation over hours, I doubt whether we will be able to understand or comprehend the stack that Mr. Chase has before him.

PRESIDENT NISBET: The question is on the motion of Mr. Hanna that the reports be considered read, referred to the committee of the whole and placed on the general orders calendar. Any discussion? Is there objection? If not, all in favor will say aye. Opposed, no.

frankly will be guided by the desires of a majority of the delegates. I think my personal recommendation would be that we plan on adjourning tomorrow at approximately 3:00 o'clock in the afternoon, to accommodate those delegates who had made plans to get away early. It's sort of a compromise between instituting it full force tomorrow and waiting until next week.

PRESIDENT NISBET: Thank you, Mr. Van Dusen. Communications.

SECRETARY CHASE: No communications.

PRESIDENT NISBET: Third reading.

SECRETARY CHASE: Nothing on that calendar for today.

PRESIDENT NISBET: Mr. DeVries.

MR. DEVRIES: Mr. President, if I may, I would like to make an oral report to the convention concerning our financial status, and maybe this will have some bearing on the way we conduct the debate for the next month and a half. Our lease expires May 31. There is no escape clause. We have to be out of here by May 15 in order to restore the civic center. On May 15 we will have $100,000 left on which to operate. There will be no more delegates' salaries, of course. We need about $250,000 to $280,000 to complete the convention business. That's the preparation of the address, the convention record, the restoration, and so on. We have every hope that we will get the supplemental appropriation necessary for this. But, again, I repeat to you, the way we see it now, we've got to be out of here by May 15, and there is no escape clause. I urge you to keep this in mind during the next month and a half.

PRESIDENT NISBET: Thank you, Mr. DeVries.

Motions and resolutions.

SECRETARY CHASE: There are no resolutions on file.

PRESIDENT NISBET: Unfinished business.

SECRETARY CHASE: None.

PRESIDENT NISBET: General orders. Mr. Millard.

MR. MILLARD: Mr. President, I move that the convention resolve itself into committee of the whole for the purpose of taking up matters on the general orders calendar.

PRESIDENT NISBET: The question is on the motion of Mr. Millard. Those in favor will say aye. Opposed, no.

The motion prevails. Mr. Millard.

[Whereupon, Mr. Millard assumed the Chair to preside as chairman of the committee of the whole.]

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The committee will be in order. The secretary will read.

SECRETARY CHASE: Item 11 on the general orders calendar from the committee on executive branch, Committee Proposal 71, a proposal to provide for the election, term and duties of state officers and so forth.

For last previous action by the committee of the whole on Committee Proposal 71, see above, page 1933.

When the committee rose last evening there was pending the section i that had been offered by the committee on executive branch, to which several amendments had been adopted, and for which Messrs. Norris and Nord had offered the following substitute amendment:

1. Amend page 5, following section h, by inserting a new section to read as follows:

"Sec. i. There is hereby created a civil rights commission whose members shall be appointed by the governor to secure the protection of the civil rights guaranteed by law and by this constitution. The legislature shall prescribe the composition of this commission, its duties and powers, and shall provide sufficient moneys therefor."

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Mr. Martin.

MR. MARTIN: Mr. Chairman, since last evening the committee has been working to see whether we could work out something which would be satisfactory to the delegates on both sides of the house, or both the minority and the majority. I think we have made a good deal of headway. We would like a little further time on this, and I therefore move at this time that we pass consideration of the remainder of Committee Proposal 71, and move to the balance of the calendar, starting with Committee Proposals 59 and 60, and so on.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The question is on the motion of Mr. Martin to place Committee Proposal 71 at the foot of the executive branch general orders calendar. All in favor will say aye. Opposed, no.

The motion prevails. The secretary will read.

SECRETARY CHASE: Item 12 on the calendar, from the committee on executive branch, by Mr. Martin, chairman, Committee Proposal 59, A proposal pertaining to vacancies in the office of governor. Amends article VI, section 16.

Following is Committee Proposal 59 as read by the secretary, and the reasons submitted in support thereof:

The committee recommends that the following be included in the constitution:

Sec. a. In case of the impeachment of the governor AND CONVICTION THEREON, his removal from office, death, inability, resignation or absence from the state, the powers and duties of the office shall devolve upon the lieutenant governor for the residue of the term or until the disability ceases. [When the governor shall be out of the state at the head of a military force thereof, he shall continue commander in chief of all military force of the state.]

THE INABILITY OF THE GOVERNOR SHALL BE DETERMINED BY A MAJORITY OF THE SUPREME COURT WHEN SUCH DETERMINATION IS REQUESTED BY THE PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE OF THE SENATE AND THE SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES. SUCH DETERMINATION SHALL, WHEN RENDERED, BE FINAL AND CONCLUSIVE AND THE SUPREME COURT SHALL UPON ITS OWN PETITION DETERMINE IF AND WHEN SUCH INABILITY SHALL CEASE.

In case of the death of the governor elect before taking and subscribing to the constitutional oath of office, or before entering upon the duties of his office, the powers and duties of the office shall devolve upon the lieutenant governor elect on the commencement of his term of office.

Mr. Martin, chairman of the committee on executive branch, submits the following reasons in support of Committee Proposal 59:

The language of the first paragraph of this section has been retained except that the words "AND CONVICTION THEREON" have been added after "impeachment of the governor" in the first line. This change was suggested by Delegate Stevens in his testimony before the committee and was adopted because the committee felt that the present language was subject to abuse in that the impeachment is analogous to indictment and that the governor should be allowed to continue in office until convicted of the charges. This problem was considered by the 1907 convention, but it was their desire to not allow the governor to hold his office between time of impeachment and conviction or acquittal. Although the problem has not come up in Michigan, impeachment charges were voted against Governor Harrison Reed of Florida in 1868. The impeachment by the house had the effect of automatically suspending him from office under the terms of the Florida constitution, which is similar to the present Michigan constitution, but the senate failed to complete his trial within the prescribed time limit and he was eventually reinstated in office.

The committee was of the opinion that the second sentence of the first paragraph of section a regarding the governor's status while at the head of a military force outside the state was of no value and therefore deleted it in its entirety.

The new language, "THE INABILITY OF THE GOVERNOR SHALL BE DETERMINED BY A MAJORITY OF THE SUPREME COURT WHEN SUCH DETERMINATION IS REQUESTED BY THE PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE OF THE SENATE AND THE SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES. SUCH DETERMINATION SHALL, WHEN RENDERED, BE FINAL AND CONCLUSIVE AND THE SUPREME COURT SHALL, UPON ITS OWN PETITION, DETERMINE IF AND WHEN SUCH INABILITY SHALL CEASE," was felt necessary in order to provide a method of determining the disability or inability of the governor. Only one of the 50 states has solved this problem to a satisfactory degree, although the problem has presented itself many times.

The committee felt that by having the request for determination originate with the 2 highest officers of the legislative branch and the final determination made by the highest court of the judicial branch that adequate safeguards against abuse are devised which will still provide a workable solution to the problem.

No change was thought necessary or desirable to the last sentence in the present section 16.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Is it the desire of the chairman to consider this section paragraph by paragraph?

MR. MARTIN: I think we could consider this section in its entirety.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The secretary will read.

SECRETARY CHASE: Line 12,

[Paragraphs 2 and 3 of section a were read by the secretary. For text, see above, page 1954.]

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The Chair will recognize the chairman of the committee, the gentleman from Grand Rapids, Mr. Martin.

MR. MARTIN: Mr. Chairman, for the purpose of explaining the details of this proposal, I will yield to Mr. King.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The Chair will recognize the gentleman from Pontiac, Delegate King.

MR. KING: Mr. Chairman, fellow members of the committee, this proposal, we think, is a very significant proposal, one which changes substantially the present constitution. We hope that there will be no disagreement in principle. What we have tried to do here—well, why don't I read from the journal at page 420, so that we will all have before us the reasons for the changes we have made?

The section starts off, "In case of the impeachment of the governor," and we have added the words, "and conviction thereon." This is in line with the discussion we had on the floor the other day in committee of the whole, wherein it was generally felt that although the matter at present is not clear in the present constitution, nor have we ever had any occasion to give force and effect to the present language, it has been felt by many that merely by instituting impeachment proceedings we could thereby suspend the governor from operation. It was felt that this, while it might be desirable in the case of judicial offices, could be subject to political abuse and was not advisable in the opinion of the committee. We therefore have stated that in the event of impeachment and conviction thereon, the governor shall be replaced.

... his removal from office, death, inability, resignation or absence from the state, the powers and duties of the office shall devolve upon the lieutenant governor for the residue of the term or until the disability ceases.

So as far as that language is concerned, the only change is the addition of the words "and conviction thereon."

I think it might be advisable to divide the question in that manner, Mr. Chairman, for the sake of clarity and simplicity. If we could approve that first change, the words "and conviction thereon," I think that that perhaps would be the best way to handle the matter.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Are there any amendments then to the first paragraph?

Explanation—Matter within [] is stricken, matter in capitals is new.

SECRETARY CHASE: There are none on file, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: If not, we will proceed, Mr. King.
MR. KING: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. The next sentence we have deleted. It has in the past read, "When the governor shall be out of the state at the head of a military force thereof, he shall continue commander in chief of all military force of the state." It was the opinion of the committee that the governor is not at all likely to be placed in a position where he will have to lead an army out of the state of Michigan. We felt that this wording was superfluous, and for that reason the committee deleted that sentence. I suggest that perhaps we might act upon the deletion of that sentence at this time.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The chairman of the committee said we were considering this as a whole. Will you proceed.

MR. KING: I see. Thank you. The next part of the language is of course new, wherein we state:

This language was felt necessary in order to provide a method of determining the disability or inability of the governor. In the opinion of the committee, only 1 of 50 states has solved this problem in a satisfactory manner, and we feel that we have improved upon their solution.

The problem has, of course, presented itself many times in many states, and as I started to point out the other day, here in committee of the whole, the problem has presented itself on the national scene. During President Wilson's term of office, there was a considerable period of time when the president was under a serious physical disability. At that time, and today, there is no means at the federal level to provide for a determination of such disability or inability—and I use those 2 words interchangeably. When the Michigan constitution says "inability," it generally means what we consider to be a suitable definition of the word "disability."

During President Eisenhower's term of office, on 3 different occasions there was some serious question as to how and who would succeed to the powers and duties of the office of president of the United States. Again, congress was not able to come up with a solution to the problem, although many tentative drafts were drawn at that time. You will recall that there was a mutual agreement between the president and the vice president at that time as to an orderly transfer of the functions of the office, but actually there is not even today a suitable solution to this problem.

We feel that we on the committee on executive branch have come up with a solution. Basically, it provides that the president pro tem of the senate and the speaker of the house, jointly, acting together, may request of the supreme court a determination of the governor's inability. The supreme court, on its own petition, may determine when that inability ceases. During the time, of course, that the governor is unable to perform the duties and functions of the office of governor, those duties and functions shall devolve upon the lieutenant governor or the next officer in line of succession.

It's my understanding, Mr. Chairman, that we want to cover the whole section?

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: That was the committee chairman's decision, Mr. King.

MR. KING: In that event, I shall say no more at this time, unless there are questions, and I will go on to the remaining wording in the section which does come from the present constitution.

This, of course, is merely a proviso to take care of that unlikely situation when the candidate for governor who has been elected but who has not yet commenced his term should for some reason be unable to take on the duties of the office come inauguration day, and this merely provides that rather than holding a separate election, the lieutenant governor elect shall step forward and take over the duties of that office. That concludes the presentation at this time of Committee Proposal 59, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Mr. Martin?

MR. MARTIN: I have nothing further, Mr. Chairman. I yield the floor.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The Chair will recognize Judge Dehnke.

MR. DEHNKE: Mr. Chairman and fellow delegates, I have a question relating to line 16, the word "petition."

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: To whom do you direct your question, Judge?

MR. DEHNKE: Mr. King, I think, can take care of it.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: If Mr. King desires to answer.

MR. DEHNKE: I imagine this is a stenographic mistake. The word "petition" should be "initiative," perhaps? "... the supreme court shall upon its own initiative determine if and when such inability shall cease." It's hardly conceivable to ask the court to address a petition to itself.

MR. KING: Mr. Chairman, I would not object to the substitution of the word "initiative" for the word "petition."

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Well, is there an amendment to that effect?

MR. KING: Judge Dehnke, do you so move?

MR. DEHNKE: Yes.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Judge Dehnke, will you make your motion so that the secretary will get it down?

MR. DEHNKE: Mr. Chairman, I move that the word "petition" be stricken out and the word "initiative" be substituted.

SECRETARY CHASE: Mr. Dehnke offers the following amendment:

1. Amend page 1, line 16, after "own" by striking out "petition" and inserting "initiative".

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Do you wish to be heard, Mr. King?

MR. KING: I would only say, Mr. Chairman, that I would support the amendment.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The question is on the Dehnke amendment. All in favor will say aye. Opposed, no.

The amendment is adopted. The Chair will recognize Mr. Faxon.

MR. FAXON: Mr. Chairman, are we discussing the entire proposal, or any section of it? I just want to get this clear.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The whole section a has been offered for adoption.

MR. FAXON: Then I would like to just get something clear. May I direct a question to Mr. King through the Chair?

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Mr. King, if you would care to answer.

MR. FAXON: Mr. King, I understood you to make reference to the fact that the word "inability" in line 6 and the word "disability" in line 8 could be used interchangeably. Does this mean that you are thinking of them as meaning the same thing?

MR. KING: That is correct.

MR. FAXON: Mr. King, there has been some confusion between the actual meaning of the 2 words. Do you think it might be more consistent, since in line 12 again you use the word "inability," to put the word "inability" in line 8, so that you don't introduce the word "disability"?

MR. KING: Mr. Faxon, Mr. Chairman, I would have no serious objection to that. This is the language in the present constitution, and it has been interpreted by the courts. Research prepared a paper on the meaning of these 2 words for the committee, and we were satisfied that court interpretation had laid the matter to rest. For that reason, we made no change in the existing language. But I don't think that anyone on the committee would object to it, either.

MR. FAXON: Well, if that's the case, Mr. Chairman, to be consistent, I would move that on line 8, instead of the word "disability," we use the word "inability." And I can give some historical evidence to that.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Is that offered as an amendment?

MR. FAXON: Yes.

SECRETARY CHASE: Mr. Faxon offers the following amendment:

1. Amend page 1, line 8, after "until the" by striking out "disability" and inserting "inability".

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: All in favor of the Faxon amendment will say aye. Opposed, no.

The amendment is not adopted.

MR. FAXON: Mr. Chairman, I wanted a chance to explain this a little further.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Are you asking for a division?

MR. FAXON: Well, yes.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Division has been called for. Is there support? There is a sufficient number up.

MR. LEIBRAND: Will you read the amendment, Mr. Chairman.

SECRETARY CHASE: Mr. Faxon has offered the following amendment:

1. Amend page 1, line 8, after "until the" by striking out "disability" and inserting "inability".

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: All those in favor of the Faxon amendment will vote aye, and those opposed will vote nay. Have you all voted? If so, the machine will be locked and the secretary will tally the vote.

SECRETARY CHASE: On the adoption of the amendment offered by Mr. Faxon, the yeas are 42; the nays are 48.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The amendment is not adopted.

MR. KING: Mr. Chairman, I should point out something that was brought to my attention which I had not been aware of. Mr. Kirk points out that the word "disability" in line 8 probably refers to, in line 6, not only "inability," but also in lines 6 and 7 "absence from the state," so for that reason I think there is good reason for leaving the word "disability" in.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Well, it's in.

MR. KING: I know it is. I merely wanted to set at ease the mind of my friend, Mr. Faxon.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: That has been passed on. The secretary will read.

SECRETARY CHASE: Mr. Faxon offers the following amendment:

1. Amend page 1, line 12, after "by a" by inserting "2/3"; so the language will now read, "The inability of the governor shall be determined by a 2/3 majority of the supreme court when such determination is requested. . . ."

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The Chair recognizes Mr. Faxon.

MR. FAXON: Mr. Chairman and fellow delegates, I was not completely aware of the fact that we were going to hit this section this morning, and you will have to forgive me if I'm a little bit spotty in my presentation, because I had hoped to have an opportunity to have reviewed my material on this a little better. But, essentially, we do provide in the constitution for 2/3 to remove judges, and this really doesn't represent anything more than just one more vote, but it is an unusual occurrence where you do remove a governor. It's something where there should be considerable thought. And I'm sure that would be given, but at the same time, since we do have a 2/3 majority provided in the case of removal of judges, I don't think that in the case of the governor there ought to be a distinction made.

I appreciate Delegate King's remarks regarding the question on the federal level. Really, this problem of the inability or the disability of the president to discharge his office has created a series of problems, starting with the death in 1841 of President Harrison, in the succession of Tyler and following on to the other 6 vice presidents that succeeded. There has been a problem as to what this means when we deal with the problems of inability or disability; and I think we have seen what happened where there was a lingering death of the president before Teddy Roosevelt succeeded, and there was of course the famous Evett case which occurred in 1920 with President Wilson.

I think we should understand that this is fertile ground. Where we spell this out in the constitution, we are really dealing with something that hasn't been spelled out before. As the section dealing with this originally came out by agreement of the convention in 1787 it said, "In the case of his removal, death, absence, resignation or inability to discharge the powers and duties of his office, the vice president shall exercise those powers;" and then they changed it a little bit. But the idea is that this was never really spelled out as to who was going to determine the inability or disability. As a result, where there has been a lingering illness or where there has been a stroke or where the president has been incapacitated or unable to perform the duties of office, as long as the president remained alive he was still able to maintain, in name at least, the office itself.

Now, the reason for inserting the 2/3 here is because this is consistent with other removal powers, because it is unusual; and then we ought to remember also that this is a new item, this is not an area where we have any real substantial precedent to go by in the removal of a governor. And this is a rare occasion. But, yet, when these occasions occur there is need for a clear and concise way of handling them. It's for this reason that I feel that a 2/3 here, even though it represents just another vote, should be consistent with other parts of the constitution, and we should treat this whole idea of removing the governor as something which is an unusual occurrence and does require more considered deliberation.

So these are some of the reasons. I would be able to give some more, but I don't want to take too much time on this question. It simply raises the number and keeps it consistent with other removal powers; 2/3 has been the traditional number that we have used, and I would hope that the delegates here would see fit to be consistent on this point.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The Chair will recognize Mr. King.

MR. KING: Mr. Chairman, fellow delegates, I don't think that Mr. Faxon's amendment is necessary. I'm not concerned about abuse of this power, especially in view of 3 things: 1, it requires the petition of the president pro tem of the senate; 2, it requires the petition, jointly with the president pro tem of the senate, of the speaker of the house; and 3, under this proposed constitution as of right now, it calls for the election of the lieutenant governor and the governor on the same ticket of the same political party. So I don't really think this will be subject to political abuse.

On the other hand, I have no strong objection to the Faxon amendment, and I would be happy, and I think the members of the subcommittee and the committee would be happy, to leave this matter up to the committee of the whole. Whatever in their good judgment they decide we ought to insert here is certainly all right with us.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The question is on the Faxon amendment. The secretary will read it so we will all know what it is.

SECRETARY CHASE: Mr. Faxon's present amendment is:

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The question is on the Faxon amendment. All those in favor will say aye. Opposed, no. The amendment is not adopted. The secretary will read.

SECRETARY CHASE: Mr. Faxon offers the following amendment:

1. Amend page 1, line 15, after "when rendered," by inserting "be in writing and shall contain a statement of the facts and reasons for such determination,"; so that that sentence will read:

Such determination shall, when rendered, be in writing and shall contain a statement of the facts and reasons for such determination, be final and conclusive and the supreme court shall upon its own initiative determine if and when such inability shall cease.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The Chair will recognize Mr. Faxon.

MR. FAXON: Mr. Chairman and fellow delegates, this insertion here is consistent with the language we adopted with regard to the decisions of the supreme court. We made the same statement that where they give a decision, it should be in writing. Now, this is not, in a sense, a decision; it is a determination. And to be perfectly clear on this and to be consistent, the same procedure ought to be followed. That is, where the supreme court makes a determination, then such a determination should be in writing, and should contain a statement of the facts and reasons for such determination.

I realize that there are some delegates here who feel that this shouldn't be so discussed and that we don't have time for it, but this is something new. This whole little section is a new item, and it is something which has not really been carried forth in the past with any clarity. There has been much litigation over it. And so the insertion of this is simply a protection. We have 3 separate branches of government, and we've got to maintain these distinctions and maintain these checks and balances and these powers. And where we are putting in something new, we ought to provide safeguards that these powers, where they are now given, should not be abused.

Now, up until this time the supreme court has had nothing to do with the determination of the inability of the governor. And this is true on the federal level, too; the supreme court is not brought into it. This is the first time that we are bringing the supreme court into this determination, and where we are giving the supreme court this check upon the executive branch we ought to be very clear in spelling out exactly how they are going to make these determinations. For this reason I think we ought to support this and give it consideration, because this is something new. We can't go back to any precedent here. There has been no occasion in the past where the supreme court in this state has had this power. And where we are giving it to it, we ought to spell it out a little more clearly and keep it in line with the other supreme court decisions. Therefore, I would urge that you look at this and realize that this is a new area, this is something that we ought to be a little clear and a little cautious about, where we are granting this new authority to the supreme court with regard to the discharging of the office of governor.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Mr. King.

MR. KING: Mr. Chairman, fellow delegates, I do not seriously object to this amendment. I would be concerned about the possibility of seriously harming the reputation of the governor in the event the supreme court should find it necessary to go into a lot of detail about his mental capacity. This probably would not arise, but in Louisiana I think there was some question about the late Governor Long's mental capacity. I certainly don't object to the principle of the thing. I just would hope that the supreme court would not find it necessary to seriously damage the reputation of the governor and his family for many years to come. I would yield to Mr. Faxon at this point to see if he would comment on that aspect of it.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Are you asking Mr. Faxon a question?

MR. KING: Yes. Has he considered this possibility?

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Mr. Faxon, do you care to answer?

MR. FAXON: Mr. King, the amendment leaves out the word "detailed" for that very reason. But I do believe the people of the state ought to know the facts necessary for the decision that would be involving the removal of a governor, and so the word "detailed" is left out. It simply says that there shall be a statement of the facts, with the reasons for the determination, not to bring any embarrassment to anyone; but the people who have elected a governor ought to know why the governor is being removed.

Now, I don't know that this is necessarily going to really occur, and sometimes we discuss things where there is only a probability. But where we are vesting in the supreme court the power to remove an elected governor, which is a very important and all inclusive office, then at least we ought to be able to know the reasons for such removal. Anything could happen as far as who will sit here and who will sit there. And I think that we need a protection, and this doesn't say "detailed." This says "a statement of the facts," because there has to be some reason for removal, and this simply requires that the reason be given. We have to do this to protect the people, to protect the governor, and to maintain our separate system of balances here.

Now I would yield to Mr. King for any further comments, but I did leave out the word "detailed" for the very reason he has brought forth.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Mr. King, any further questions?

MR. KING: No further questions.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Do you have any comments?

MR. KING: As in the other situation, I will leave this to the good judgment of the committee of the whole, and I will yield to Mr. Martin.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Mr. Martin.

MR. MARTIN: Mr. Chairman, Mr. King has stated the view of the committee, I think, accurately. I think that we could go even a little further and say that this was the intention of the committee; that it was expected that an opinion would be in writing, and there would be a statement of facts and reasons. So I think there is no objection, and this is perhaps an improvement on our proposal.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The question is on the Faxon amendment. The secretary will read.

SECRETARY CHASE: Mr. Faxon's amendment is,

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The question is on the Faxon amendment. All those in favor will say aye. Opposed, no. The Chair is in doubt. All those in favor will vote aye. Those opposed will vote nay. Have you all voted? If so, the machine will be locked and the secretary will tally the vote.

SECRETARY CHASE: On the adoption of the amendment offered by Mr. Faxon, the yeas are 46; the nays are 49.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The amendment is not adopted. The secretary will read.

SECRETARY CHASE: Messrs. Mahinske and Marshall offer the following amendment:

1. Amend page 1, line 12, by striking out all of paragraph 2, lines 12 through 17.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The Chair recognizes a proponent of the amendment, the delegate from Detroit, Mr. Mahinske.

MR. MAHINSKE: Mr. Marshall and I put this amendment in primarily because we are hitting new ground here. There have been no concrete examples of why we should have this in the state of Michigan. There has only been allusions as to why this would be desirable on the federal level. I submit that these are not new reasons why this would be desirable on the federal level; this has been talked about close to 200 years now and nothing has ever been done about it.

Further, I think we are hitting a dangerous area here where we can have the supreme court, which is primarily a court of review, acting as a court of inquisition in this proposition here. The supreme court is not made up of psychiatrists and I think that this is basically what we are talking about—a mental inability on the part of the governor. The supreme court would have to call in outside people and actually follow their determination. And I don't think that this is desirable for the further reason that in the second sentence the supreme court does not have to raise this inability of the governor until they see fit to do so. They are not compelled to raise the inability that they have placed on the governor even if these outside sources inform them that this inability has been removed.

Also, I think we have found out, by the experience in Louisiana with Earl Long, that this is near impossible to do to begin with. Who is going to arrest the governor? Who is going to detain him until he can be examined? Who is going to restrain him from exercising his office, and so forth? Short of impeachment you just can't do it. I think that we are asking for a dangerous potential thing here, and I don't think that this would really ever be able to be put into operation.

For these reasons, and for many other reasons, such as separation of the division of powers, and so forth, I would be opposed to putting this provision in the constitution as it is now written, and I can't conceive of any way that you could write this to make it operative. You have the basic problems of how you are going to detain the governor. Obviously, some determination has to be made before the supreme court even has this before them, properly or improperly. So what you are calling for here is the president pro tem of the senate and the speaker of the house, 2 laymen—not psychiatrists, not doctors of any type—who are the sole movers, the prime movers, in this area here; then we have 9 other legal people taking over.

Frankly, I just think that this would turn into a circus if it were ever attempted to be put into operation, and I don't think we have ever had the experience in our past where this would have been brought into play, and I fail to see or I can't conceive of a situation in the future where we would have this. For these reasons, I would move the striking of the entire second paragraph in Committee Proposal 59.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Does the other proponent, Mr. Marshall, desire to be heard?

MR. MARSHALL: Mr. Chairman and fellow delegates, I think Delegate Mahinske covered the amendment rather well. I would point out that there has been no occasion in past history that I know of, nor has anyone pointed out where it was necessary to have this type of language.

This is one of the reasons that we are behind in schedule and are now adopting night sessions and speedups. Because all throughout the convention we have been putting new language in, changing provisions, where there was no real reason to change them, or no suggestions that they be changed. We just feel that this is an unnecessary provision, and there is no past history of its necessity. Delegate Mahinske pointed out the problem in Louisiana when they tried to remove Governor Earl Long, and they sent the troopers down to pick him up. I don't have to tell you what he told the troopers. I can't tell you here in the convention. But they never succeeded there, and I think we know the condition he was in. I just think it is language that is unnecessary in the constitution, and Delegate Mahinske explained it rather well.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The proponents of the amendment then yield the floor?

MR. MARSHALL: Yes.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The Chair recognizes Delegate King.

MR. KING: Mr. Chairman, fellow delegates, I never anticipated that the Long case would be used as an argument against the inclusion of this sort of language. We have, it's true, been fortunate in Michigan that this problem has not arisen. In many other states it has arisen and, as I pointed out, it has become a problem at the federal level. I could go into detail as to when and where and how the problem has arisen, and would be glad to do so if that's the desire of the committee. I have an unpublished manuscript, to be published by a University of Michigan professor. Dr. McHargue brought this to my attention, and I'm sorry I'm not able to give the name of the professor who wrote it. I asked Dr. Pollock, and he is unable to help me out in this area. But this is not opinion; these are facts. So I'm sure any historian can justify and confirm these to be true cases.

First of all, at the presidential level, presidential disability crises of serious proportions have arisen in 3 different administrations. The first of these was brought about by the assassination of President Garfield in 1881. After being shot on July 2, he lingered in a more or less critical and incapacitated condition until his death on September 20, some 80 days later. The congress was not in session at the time, but his inability came at a critical time when his new administration was just getting underway. The second crisis occurred during the last year and a half of President Wilson's second administration. Wilson collapsed on September 26, 1919, while in the midst of a cross country tour to carry his fight for ratification of the Versailles treaty to the people. Shortly thereafter, on October 2, he suffered a stroke which completely incapacitated him for several weeks. He eventually made a partial recovery, but did not resume meetings with his cabinet until April 13, 1920, and never regained his full vigor during the remainder of his term. A third disability crisis, or series of crises—and this, of course, is more closely related to our own personal recollections—came during President Eisenhower's tenure. On September 24, 1955, over a year before the end of his first term, he suffered what his physicians described as a moderate coronary thrombosis while vacationing in Colorado. His recovery from this attack came gradually, and after some 20 weeks of convalescence, part time activity and physical checkups, he was pronounced fully recovered. In February of 1956 he announced his willingness to be a candidate for the presidency again; but in June of that year he was forced to undergo a serious abdominal operation for ileitis. His recovery from this illness was sufficiently rapid to permit him to accept his party's renomination in August and he went on to win reelection by a large majority. Again, in November of 1957, he was temporarily incapacitated by a minor cerebral hemorrhage, but he was able to attend a conference of NATO heads of government in Paris some 2 weeks after his seizure.

In none of these cases of presidential inability did the vice president concerned actually move to assume the powers and duties of the presidential office. Doubts regarding the location of authority to decide the question of the president's incapacity, as well as uncertainty regarding the effect of a vice president's assumption of presidential powers upon the status of the disabled president and his right to resume those powers after his recovery, proved to be insurmountable barriers to action. And on it goes. I don't want to belabor the point. But there have been, of course, as we can all recall and recognize, serious questions at the federal level. Now, this problem also has arisen in a number of the states, and I could go through, state by state, and point out the problems.

One of the reasons why we are here, it seems to me, writing a constitution, is to improve upon the present document. Now, Delegate Marshall indicates that this is not something we should be trying to do. I could not disagree more strongly with that contention. I think here the committee has provided an adequate and proper solution to an extremely difficult problem which has plagued many, many states, and the good fortune of Michigan to not be included in those many, many states is hardly sufficient reason for not anticipating a very, very likely possibility, something which could cripple our state administration at any time. Incapacity can strike any of us. If the governor dies, then there's no problem; we know what happens, and it's very clear. But if his mental or physical capacity is curtailed to the extent that he cannot perform the functions of the office in a manner prescribed by law, then a great problem arises as to who does perform those functions, if indeed they are to be performed at all. We feel that our solution to this problem is forthright, and we feel that it is an adequate solution to a previously unsolved problem.

Now, Tennessee does have a constitutional provision, but it does not provide nearly the safeguards that we have written into this one. The determination is made by the supreme court there upon petition of the secretary of state, who oddly enough is next in line of succession, or is very close to being next in line of succession. I can't remember; there may be a lieutenant governor between him and the governor. This we felt had serious disadvantages. We have provided that the heads of both houses of the legislature jointly present the problem to the supreme court, and I think we all recognize that the supreme court would have no reason and is not likely to abuse this rather significant power. So, based on that, I very strongly oppose the Mahinske-Marshall amendment to strike out what I consider to be an excellent provision which this committee has seen fit to put into the section.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Mr. Mahinske.

MR. MAHINSKE: I would like to admit that all the statements that Mr. King has made on the federal level are true, but at the same time point out that nothing serious has ever been attempted or even suggested as to the remedy of this situation. Now, we have our own remedies right here, in the first paragraph of section a. In the event that there is inability to act, the lieutenant governor shall take over. And when we go back to Committee Proposal 60, in the event that the lieutenant governor takes over and in the event there is an inability on the part of the lieutenant governor, then we have a long line of people who shall act here. This is an automatic thing. This is self executing.

Now I would like to bring out a point that I didn't feel had to be brought out before, but which I will bring out now. Under this proposal I'm at a loss to determine just what is the line of succession if the supreme court shall act. Does this cut off the line of succession at lieutenant governor, or will it still be an automatic, self executing thing in the event that the lieutenant governor acquires one of these disabilities or incapacities, or just when would this come into play?

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Is this a question, Mr. Mahinske?

MR. MAHINSKE: I direct the question, through the Chair, to Mr. King.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: If Mr. King cares to answer.

MR. KING: Mr. Chairman, it seems clear that this does not cut off the line of succession. Certainly, if anything happened to the lieutenant governor, the same procedures would be followed right through.

MR. MAHINSKE: Well, then, I would submit that under the other existing sections that we have already adopted, frankly this thing becomes less and less necessary. We have a lieutenant governor who shall take over, and a long line of people who will take over after the lieutenant governor as each of these people become unable to act or disabled to act; and then when the governor is able to act again he shall automatically, without any determination on the part of the supreme court or any other body, assume the powers of his office again.

Now, if this provision ever came into play, the governor, even though he would have all kinds of outside testimony, medical and otherwise, as to his ability to act and assume the powers of his office, could not assume the powers of his office until the supreme court had acted. And in this case we would have—at least, medically speaking—a governor in the state who could act and assume his office and powers, but who could not do this because of the inaction or just plain outright lack of movement on the part of the supreme court itself.

I think that we have many other safeguards in Committee Proposals 59 and 60 that take care of this situation that you are talking about, and these are automatic safeguards that come into action as they are needed, and they are at the same time set aside as the incapacities are removed, without any action from a body outside of the executive department itself.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The Chair recognizes Judge Dehnke.

MR. DEHNKE: Mr. Chairman, I didn't want to take the floor away from Mr. King. What Mr. Mahinske has just said seems to skirt around the real question: who is to determine whether the governor is disqualified and whether the lieutenant governor's actions, if he stepped in, would be justified or legal? And all the way down the line the very core of the difficulty is the lack of some authority to pass upon the question of when it's proper for the lieutenant governor to step into the governor's shoes, or for the next in line to step into the lieutenant governor's shoes.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The Chair recognizes Mr. Faxon.

MR. FAXON: Mr. Chairman, in answer to what Mr. Mahinske has said, I think we should understand that where this has occurred in the past, the idea that the vice president, let's say, would step in and assume the office of president never did occur. This is the very reason we have the problem. Because there was a hesitancy to act in the face of the fact that the president was still alive. Now, whether that condition of being alive was a condition of being a responsible or responsive person is something else.

I think that this is a necessary thing to put in, because what this leaves and what you get is where you have a governor who becomes incapacitated, let's say he is unconscious, in a coma, who is then to make the decisions for the executive office? Well, in the past, where the president has assumed the office and has become ill, there has been some coterie around the president, or there could be some coterie around the governor, people we can't even identify, people who may not even be elected, who say, "The governor is still alive, you can see him, but the decisions will be coming out of the governor's office." We don't know where the responsibility is.

Now, it's necessary for someone to make this judgment, and then the lieutenant governor might assume the powers and duties of the office. It is still the governor's office. He is still the lieutenant governor. But he may assume the powers and duties until such disability ceases, and this determination has to be made by someone who is not inextricably involved in the executive office. I think the idea of a petition for a determination by the president pro tempore of the senate and the speaker of the house, and then the decision by a majority of the supreme court—and of course I prefer to see a definite majority of the court and a definite statement of reasons—is a valid one. We want to maintain an effective check, and we want to maintain an effective governor or acting governor, and we have to be able to know whether this person is able to function or not to function; and if not, then the duties fall upon the lieutenant governor; and if the governor is able to go on, then he goes on.

I can't go along with the idea that this has worked out well. It hasn't worked out well. It has created nothing but confusion over the past 150 years. The people who framed the constitution themselves weren't able to figure this one out. I think we have something here which is new, but at the same time does offer some sort of a check where there hasn't been any in the past. So I want to support the committee proposal, hoping that my later amendments might be secured, because they did make it a little more qualifying.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Mr. King.

MR. KING: Mr. Chairman, Mr. Faxon and Judge Dehnke have presented very well the arguments that I would have presented. There are many ways to transfer executive power. If you read the headlines in this morning's paper, you will find out how they do it in South America. What we are providing for is an orderly transfer by means of law. I don't see how anybody could object to it. I hope this amendment by Messrs. Marshall and Mahinske will be defeated.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The Chair will recognize the gentleman from Adrian, Mr. Durst.

MR. DURST: Mr. Chairman, members of the committee, I wish to subscribe completely to the very excellent observation of Judge Dehnke and most of what Delegate Faxon has said. I would just like to add this one comment. Mr. Marshall and Mr. Mahinske have both pointed out to us in detail that we have never had the problem in Michigan, so we don't have to worry about it. But we should realize that we are increasing our exposure approximately double. We are increasing our terms to 4 years; and as Delegate Hutchinson, I think, pointed out some time ago, the longest term for any governor of this state, prior to Governor Williams, was 6 years for Governor Groesbeck. It appears quite likely at this time that if we keep this provision, many governors will serve at least 8 years in this state, thus making the time in office much longer than it has been in the past. I think the proposal is a good one.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Mr. Mahinske.

MR. MAHINSKE: In closing, I would just like to repeat, simply, that I feel this is surplus; that we have the other provisions of section a and all the provisions of Committee Proposal 60 that cover this area. I think that we are adopting a cumbersome method here. There is some question, and I think serious question, as to just when this would come into play. For these reasons I would propose that we strike paragraph 2 of the committee proposal.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The question is on the Mahinske amendment. The secretary will read, so we'll know what it is.

SECRETARY CHASE: The amendment offered by Messrs. Mahinske and Marshall is:

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The question is on the Mahinske amendment. All in favor will say aye. Opposed, no.

The amendment is not adopted. The secretary will read.

SECRETARY CHASE: There are no further amendments on the desk, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: All right. If there are no further amendments, the Chair will recognize the delegate from Fennville, Mr. Hutchinson, on the committee proposal, section a.

MR. HUTCHINSON: Mr. Chairman, I simply want to ask a question for the guidance of the committee on style and drafting. I refer to the third paragraph of the proposal, which I take to be the language of the present constitution. "In case of the death of the governor elect," the present language says, "... the powers and duties of the office shall devolve upon the lieutenant governor elect on the commencement of his term of office." Would there be objection if the style and drafting committee should say that the lieutenant governor elect shall become governor upon the commencement of his term of office? I understand that there is some nice distinction between the powers and duties devolving and the office itself being vested. I think that when you don't have a governor at all, due to the death of the governor, that regardless of what has been in the past, we should make sure that the lieutenant governor at that time would become governor.

My other question—and I point these questions to Mr. King or to Mr. Martin, simply to get a reaction, I think, to anything that we might suggest up in style and drafting—is with regard to this taking and subscribing to the constitutional oath of office. If we should have it read, "In case of the death of the governor elect before entering upon the duties of his office," would we not cover every instance? And doesn't this "taking and subscribing to the constitutional oath of office" language unnecessarily encumber the thought there?

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Are you directing a question, Mr. Hutchinson?

MR. HUTCHINSON: I am directing a question, Mr. Chairman, if they care to respond, either to Mr. King or Mr. Martin.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Which one do you want?

MR. HUTCHINSON: Well, I would ask Mr. King.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Mr. King, do you care to answer?

MR. KING: Mr. Chairman and fellow delegates, Senator Hutchinson, I would not object to this change. I think it is a proper function of the committee on style and drafting. I think much is to be said for unencumbering the language of the constitution with some of these phrases. I would at this point yield to Mr. Martin for further reply, if he might care to do so.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Do you want Mr. Martin to reply?

MR. HUTCHINSON: Yes.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: All right.

MR. MARTIN: Mr. Chairman and Mr. Hutchinson, I think Mr. Hutchinson has raised a point which is of some importance. I think the feeling of the committee is that where the office of governor is filled by the lieutenant governor or other person in line of succession by reason of the fact that the governor is out of the picture completely and totally—that is, he is dead, he has resigned, or he has been removed from office—that there he should be viewed as not just simply acting as governor, but that he then becomes governor. I think this is the philosophy behind our thinking. So that if style and drafting wishes to take that into account, the committee would not object.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The Chair recognizes Mr. Mahinske.

MR. MAHINSKE: I'm not sure, but was the direction of Mr. Hutchinson by Mr. Martin that they could make this change, deleting the phrase "the powers and duties of the office" in paragraph 3?

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Are you asking a question?

MR. MAHINSKE: Yes.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: From whom?

MR. MAHINSKE: For the Chair. Was it Mr. Martin's statement that style and drafting could change this phrase in paragraph 3 which recites "powers and duties of the office" to connote the thought that the lieutenant governor would become governor in the event of death?

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Mr. Martin, do you care to answer that?

MR. MARTIN: Mr. Chairman, I don't think I really answered that question.

MR. MAHINSKE: Perhaps I could clear this up. I appeared in front of the executive committee on a delegate proposal that stated just exactly that; that I didn't think that the powers and duties of the office of governor made a person the governor himself, because of some events that happened during the time that the governor died in 1939, when the lieutenant governor became governor—so called, at least. Now, it is my thought that there is a difference between being the governor or assuming the office of the governor or assuming the powers and duties of the office, and I was wondering if this would be a substantive change that style and drafting could take into consideration, or whether Mr. Martin had directed them that they could do this.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Mr. Martin, do you want to answer that?

MR. MARTIN: Mr. Chairman, I think the point Mr. Hutchinson has raised is a valid one, and I don't think that the committee will object if that is modified to follow the thinking which he expressed.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The Chair thinks Mr. Mahinske's question to you, Mr. Martin, is whether it should be done by amendment or whether you should leave it up to style and drafting.

MR. MARTIN: I don't think that we would regard it as a substantive change, or at least we would not object to it.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Does that answer your question?

MR. MAHINSKE: That answers my question.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Are there any further amendments, Mr. Secretary?

SECRETARY CHASE: There are none on the desk, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: If there are no further amendments—Mr. Hoxie, do you want to be heard?

MR. HOXIE: I have an amendment I would like to have read.

SECRETARY CHASE: Mr. Hoxie offers the following amendment:

1. Amend page 1, by striking out all of line 14 and "representatives.", in line 15 and inserting "adoption of a joint resolution by a majority vote of the legislature."; so that the language will then read, "... when such determination is requested by the adoption of a joint resolution by a majority vote of the legislature."

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The Chair recognizes the gentleman from St. Louis, Delegate Hoxie.

MR. HOXIE: Would you read that again, please, Mr. Chase?

SECRETARY CHASE: I believe that the amendment is to strike out line 14 and the word "representatives" in line 15, and insert in lieu thereof "adoption of a joint resolution by a majority vote of the legislature."

MR. HOXIE: Will you read it now as it would read with the amendment?

SECRETARY CHASE: So that the language will then read:

The inability of the governor shall be determined by a majority of the supreme court when such determination is requested by the adoption of a joint resolution by a majority vote of the legislature.

MR. HOXIE: I think it is self evident what this proposed amendment would do. I seriously feel we would be making a mistake to leave it completely in the hands of 2 individuals, the president pro tem of the senate and the speaker of the house, to make such a request of the supreme court. I think it would be much wiser to provide that any action of this kind taken against the chief executive of the state should be by a majority vote of the legislature. I submit that for your consideration.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Mr. Mahinske.

MR. MAHINSKE: Frankly, this would answer just about all of the objections I had to this paragraph. My main objection was that we were lodging this power within the discretion of 2 people, the president pro tem of the senate and the speaker of the house. Now I think that we are offered a provision here that will at least guarantee that there will be some type of deliberative action taken before a step like this will be arrived at, or even before the supreme court will be requested to act in this case. I think that this is the least we can do—to make sure that there is some type of deliberative action taken before this machinery is put into motion. I would be in favor of the amendment.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Mr. King.

MR. KING: Mr. Chairman, fellow delegates, I would be opposed to this amendment. At first blush this appears as though it were an additional safeguard. But I think, if you will think about it, you will realize that this is a possible way of injecting political questions right back into the issue. Now the speaker of the house and the president pro tem of the senate, when they are faced with this grave responsibility, I think, will realize the gravity of the responsibility and will act with a great degree of statesmanship. I'm confident of that. But if, all of a sudden, the governor incurs the displeasure of the legislature, which can happen when the majority of the legislature are of the opposite party to the governor, it may be very easy to find yourself one vote or one voice of many, moving along with the crowd, in an obvious attempt to perhaps embarrass the governor.

I don't view this as a safeguard at all. I think that it is far better to put this responsibility upon 2 individuals, one in each house of our legislature, who have been elected by their members as being people of leadership qualifications and who feel the full weight of this awesome responsibility individually. I think this is the way it ought to be. I don't at all view this as an additional safeguard. I view it as a possible way—and I'm sure it wasn't intended so by the sponsors or the supporters—of injecting political questions into this area.

Perhaps we might question the mental capacity of the governor at times in a joking manner of speaking, and perhaps in the heat of partisan battle it would be possible to get a majority of the elected representatives of our state to go along with this. I hope not. But conceivably it could happen. I think it is far better to pinpoint this responsibility right upon these 2 leaders and let them personally and singly assume and accept this grave responsibility. I think in that manner it would be subject to far less abuse. I therefore oppose the Hoxie amendment.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Mr. Faxon.

MR. FAXON: I would like to ask Mr. Hoxie a question.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: If Mr. Hoxie cares to answer.

MR. FAXON: Mr. Chairman, Mr. Hoxie, what happens if the legislature isn't in session and the governor can't perform the duty of calling the legislature into special session?

MR. HOXIE: Well, perhaps that would be something that would be necessary for consideration. However, I can conceive where, if the governor was incapacitated to that extent, perhaps the lieutenant governor, being next in line, might have that authority. But at least it would be some safeguard against this action being taken against the governor by 2 individuals. That is my primary objection.

The question is, of course, that it might delay it for a few months, because we all know that the legislature meets every year—in fact, they are only out of session for about 6 months from the termination of one session to the beginning of another, from sine die to the beginning of the next session. So there would be perhaps a little delay, but I think it would guarantee that any action taken by the legislature to remove the chief executive in another branch of our government would be some protection against 2 individuals who might have some other reasons, other than the fact that the governor might be really incapacitated to the extent that he should be removed.

MR. FAXON: Mr. Chairman and Mr. Hoxie, one more question. Would you not then feel that if this were going to be used—since in the case of judges we require 2/3 for a joint resolution—wouldn't it be advisable, under the circumstances, if you want to take it out of strictly political considerations, instead of requiring a majority, to require 2/3?

MR. HOXIE: Mr. Faxon, I think you would have plenty of safeguards with a majority vote of the legislature. I think they would consider this very seriously. I don't think you would get into party considerations. I don't think a resolution would ever be introduced unless the governor was in serious condition, either physically or mentally, where he couldn't perform his services. I don't think the legislature would ever take that action otherwise. I do feel that with the adoption of this amendment this particular section does have some merit. Without it I certainly cannot support this particular paragraph.

MR. FAXON: Mr. Chairman, Mr. Hoxie, is it your feeling that the lieutenant governor could call the legislature into special session in the event of the disability of the governor?

MR. HOXIE: That, Mr. Faxon, I imagine would depend upon the condition of the governor. If the governor were out of the state of Michigan, or perhaps was confined to a mental institution, for instance, in such a case as existed in another state, I think yes, he could call them into session.

MR. FAXON: That's all.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Grand Rapids, Mr. Tubbs.

MR. TUBBS: Mr. Chairman, Delegate Faxon has asked the question I intended to ask, but I have 2 footnotes to his suggestion. First, if the incapacitated governor did call the legislature into session and they responded, would they not be admitting that he was not incapacitated? Second, if there was claim that the governor was incapacitated, would he be apt to call the legislature into session?

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The Chair recognizes Mr. Martin.

MR. MARTIN: Mr. Chairman, this is a problem, as you can see, that is a very troublesome one; and the committee considered these very questions which we are considering now. The committee reached its conclusion to propose it in this way because we felt that if the initiation of the matter were to require a joint resolution of the legislature, you would never get any action at all. Because this would involve, in effect, a sort of trial or hearing before the legislature before you could get any intelligent action from them and if you were going to do that, you would be going through all the same motions, only with a completely cumbersome body of 140 people, which you are trying to go through with the supreme court in getting it to make a determination.

We felt there should be some point of initiation of this question, and that it shouldn't be in the executive branch, and that it couldn't be in the court which was going to hear the matter, and therefore we placed it in these 2 leaders of the house and senate who are both elected leaders, and then in turn elected by their own members. Obviously they are not going to take such an action without consultation with their fellows. But we didn't want to make it necessary to have a formal vote of the body, because that would necessitate the very thing that we want to avoid; what we want is some expeditious way of getting the matter considered by a body such as the supreme court. For this reason I oppose Mr. Hoxie's amendment. The purpose is good, but the result, I'm sure, would be to vitiate the objective that we are trying to achieve here.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Stanton, Mr. Brake.

MR. BRAKE: Mr. Chairman, ladies and gentlemen of the committee, my angle on this is a little different than that of Mr. Martin. Mr. King's argument was certainly sound, but I don't think he has gone far enough. I don't always rush to the defense of a governor, but look what you do to a governor if you attempt this thing. You can't get this as a joint resolution—I take it that it would be a concurrent resolution—you can't get that through the legislature unless you have a debate. And in a debate you have to state facts, or alleged facts. Suppose there is no partisanship in it at all, no party action, but you go on that floor and for days perhaps you debate whether or not the governor is in his right mind, and you cite instances which you think show that he is not in his right mind, that he is disabled, that there's something wrong with him; and then your concurrent resolution fails, you don't get it through. What have you done to your governor? I think that's something that requires a little consideration. This doesn't want publicity. If there is something wrong with him, it ought to be determined with the least possible publicity, until you're sure that you're right and that he is not capable.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Mr. Mahinske.

MR. MAHINSKE: In answer to the arguments given by Delegates Brake and Martin, I would say that when a situation is so serious that you're going to have to call the house and senate and discuss this thing, you're going to have publicity whether you like it or not. Because, obviously, the governor is going to be so bad off that it is becoming apparent, and he is obviously refusing to step aside and let the lieutenant governor take over until such time as he determines himself that he can take over. Frankly, you are going to have the publicity whether you want it or not. And I don't think that rushing through this thing, with 2 men getting their heads together and making a decision without a trial and without a review, like Mr. Martin states, is the answer to this proposition.

I think we need these safeguards, and the additional safeguard of getting the house and senate together to deliberate on this thing. And if it is serious, I don't think they will debate for days and days. I think they will act fast and expeditiously and get the remedy started if—and only if—the majority of the representatives of the people decide that the remedy should be put into action.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Mr. Hoxie.

MR. HOXIE: Mr. Chairman, I ask Mr. Chase to correct that amendment. Mr. Brake is correct. It should be "concurrent" instead of "joint."

But I would like to call attention to this. On the argument of whether or not there would be undue publicity which would in any way embarrass the governor as a result of such concurrent resolution, I would like to state this. If at any time the 2 individuals named should make such a request of the supreme court, don't think you aren't going to have plenty of publicity, without any reasons stated why this action is taken.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Mr. King.

MR. KING: Mr. Chairman, fellow delegates I think both sides of the argument have been ably presented. It seems to me that this thing is subject to 2 definite abuses. One hypothetical situation is where the governor is of the same party as are the majority of the legislators. I think Mr. Martin touched upon that. In that case it may be politically expedient not to in any way embarrass the governor and to feel that we have our own people surrounding the governor and they will be able to act in his stead, and no one will ever know the difference. The other obvious situation is where the majority of the legislators are of the opposite party of the governor, where it may be politically expedient to try to embarrass the governor.

I think by putting this awesome responsibility upon 2 well recognized leaders of state government, that you prevent this sort of situation from arising, and that you thereby insure the safeguards that I'm sure each and every one of us feel are so vitally necessary in this kind of action.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The question is on the revised amendment of Mr. Hoxie. The secretary will read. It is not on the board, so you'd better read it.

SECRETARY CHASE: Mr. Hoxie's revised amendment reads as follows:

1. Amend page 1, by striking out all of line 14 and "representatives," in line 15 and inserting "adoption of a concurrent resolution by a majority vote of the legislature."; so that the first sentence in the paragraph will read:

The inability of the governor shall be determined by a majority of the supreme court when such determination is requested by the adoption of a concurrent resolution by a majority vote of the legislature.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The question is on the Hoxie amendment. All those in favor will say aye. Opposed, no. The amendment is not adopted. Are there any further amendments to Committee Proposal 59?

SECRETARY CHASE: That's all the amendments on the desk, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: If there are no further amendments, it will pass.

Committee Proposal 59, as amended, is passed. The secretary will read.

SECRETARY CHASE: Item 13 on the calendar, from the committee on executive branch, by Mr. Martin, chairman, Committee Proposal 60, A proposal pertaining to succession to the governorship. Amends article VI, section 17.

Following is Committee Proposal 60 as read by the secretary, and the reasons submitted in support thereof:

The committee recommends that the following be included in the constitution:

Sec. a. After the lieutenant governor the line of succession and order of precedence of state officers who shall act as governor, shall be [secretary of state, attorney general, state treasurer and auditor general] PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE OF THE SENATE, SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES AND THEREAFTER AS PROVIDED BY LAW; [and]

IF during a vacancy in the office of governor, [if] the lieutenant governor or any state officer or officers in this line of succession die, resign, be impeached AND CONVICTED THEREON, displaced, be incapable of performing the duties of office or be absent from the state, leaving no state officer prior in the line of succession to fill the office of governor, the state officer next in line of succession shall act as governor during the residue of his term or until the absence or disability giving rise to the succession ceases.

In case of the death of the lieutenant governor elect or any state officer or officer elect in this line of succession before taking and subscribing to the constitutional oath of office, or before entering upon the duties of office, leaving no state officer elect prior in line of succession to fill the office of governor, the powers and duties of the office of governor shall devolve upon the state officer elect next in line on the commencement of his term of office.

Mr. Martin, chairman of the committee on executive branch, submits the following reasons in support of Committee Proposal 60:

The only major change made by the committee in this section is to provide that the line of succession and order of precedence after the lieutenant governor shall be "PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE OF THE SENATE, SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES AND THEREAFTER AS PROVIDED BY LAW." This change was made to conform with the decision of the committee on executive branch to appoint all presently elected state officers except the governor and lieutenant governor and to conform with the desire that, to the extent possible, those in line of succession should be elected officials.

In the second paragraph of section a after the word "impeached," the committee added the words, "AND CONVICTED THEREON," to be consistent with and for the reasons given in the report concerning Committee Proposal 59.

No other change in this section was thought to be necessary or desirable.

[Paragraph 1 of section a was read by the secretary. For text, see above.]

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The Chair will recognize the chairman of the committee, Mr. Martin.

MR. MARTIN: Mr. Chairman, I will yield the floor to Mr. King to explain the details of this proposal.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The Chair will recognize Mr. King.

MR. KING: Mr. Chairman, I suggest that we act upon the first paragraph. There is a committee amendment which reflects the changes made by the committee of the whole in other proposals, specifically, Committee Proposal 71 of the committee on executive branch, and I would ask that the secretary now read that committee amendment.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Do I understand that we are taking this proposal up by paragraph?

MR. KING: That would be my preference.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: If there is no objection, we will take it up by paragraph. Is there an amendment to the first paragraph?

SECRETARY CHASE: Mr. King, on behalf of the committee on executive branch, offers the following amendment:

1. Amend page 1, line 7, by reinserting "secretary of state, attorney general,"; and in line 9, after "law," by inserting "For the purpose of this paragraph, the senate and house of representatives shall be deemed to be continuing bodies and the president pro tempore and speaker, respectively, to continue in office until a successor shall have been elected in either case."

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The Chair recognizes Mr. King, speaking to the committee amendment.

MR. KING: Mr. Chairman, fellow delegates, as you know, contrary to the proposal submitted by the committee on executive branch, we have decided that we will continue to have an elected secretary of state and an elected attorney general. Inasmuch as these 2 state officers are directly elected by the people of the state of Michigan, it seems to follow that they ought to be in the line of succession immediately behind the lieutenant governor. This is the way the present constitution reads. The second part of the amendment merely provides for a continuity of the offices of speaker of the house and president pro tem of the senate so that at no time will we be without these additional 2 state offices in line of succession in the event that we ever need to continue down the line of succession to that point.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The question is on the adoption of the committee amendment to paragraph 1 of Committee Proposal 60. Mr. Mahinske.

MR. MAHINSKE: Can we divide the question as to the additions, and so forth?

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: How do you want it divided?

MR. MAHINSKE: After you add the 2 elected administrative board officers.

SECRETARY CHASE: Mr. Mahinske requests that the amendment be divided so that the first consideration shall be:

1. Amend page 1, line 7, by reinserting "secretary of state, attorney general,".

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Mr. Mahinske, do you wish to be recognized?

MR. MAHINSKE: No. I just wanted to request a division here.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The question then is upon the first part of the committee amendment. Do you all understand? Those in favor will say aye. Opposed, no.

The amendment is adopted. The second part of the amendment. Mr. Faxon.

MR. FAXON: Mr. Chairman, in the second part, are we voting upon the president pro tempore of the senate and the speaker of the house, in addition to this sentence?

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The secretary will read.

SECRETARY CHASE: The second part of the amendment offered by Mr. King is:

1. Amend page 1, line 9, after "law," by inserting "For the purpose of this paragraph, the senate and house of representatives shall be deemed to be continuing bodies and the president pro tempore and speaker, respectively, to continue in office until a successor shall have been elected in either case."

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The Chair recognizes Mr. Faxon.

MR. FAXON: Does this take care of the consideration that when the senate and the house are not in session, there's no speaker of the house or president pro tempore of the senate?

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Are you directing a question to someone?

MR. FAXON: Yes, please.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: To whom, please?

MR. FAXON: Mr. Martin.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Mr. Martin, do you care to answer?

MR. MARTIN: Mr. Chairman and Mr. Faxon, there is a speaker and a president pro tem as long as the body is in existence, I believe. But there can be a period at least when there might not be anybody in existence, the old body having expired at the end of the year and the new body not having met and elected a new president pro tem and speaker. For that reason we wanted to make sure that no question could arise but what one of these persons could be available. That is the sole purpose of this amendment, simply to make sure that the question can't be raised that there is no person of that kind or no office of that kind filled, you see. It's a very remote contingency, but we desired to take care of it.

MR. FAXON: Mr. Chairman, Mr. Martin, one other question. The 1908 constitution did not spell out the succession to include the speaker and the president pro tempore. Now, with the addition of 2 other officers, which are the secretary of state and attorney general, to the original committee proposal, do you think it is necessary to further spell out the line of succession, or do you think that you might be able to just say "or thereafter as provided by law," leaving the rest to the legislature to spell out?

MR. MARTIN: Mr. Chairman, Mr. Faxon, we thought that in these rather perilous times, when numbers of people might be snuffed out at once, that it was desirable to have some additional persons in the line of succession. And since these 2 persons are not only elected by the people, but elected by their fellows to the positions of responsibility which they hold, it was felt that it was desirable to include them in the line of succession, as I believe is done in the federal picture at the present time. In any event, we have provided that beyond that the legislature could provide by law as to who should succeed.

MR. FAXON: My only point, Mr. Chairman, was that under the original committee proposal they provided for the governor, lieutenant governor, and then president pro tempore and speaker of the house, and thereafter as provided by law, so they were taking care of 4. Now, with the amended committee proposal, it becomes governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state and attorney general; so you still have 4 and your numbers aren't changing.

My only point here was that to go on beyond 4 may be a little presumptive, since we have already taken care of the first 4 in the line of succession to the office, and then we could just put "and thereafter as provided by law." That is what I had reference to.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Mr. Mahinske.

MR. MAHINSKE: Mr. Faxon has made the basic point that I wanted to make. In the original proposal we set up 4 alternates. Now, by adding secretary of state and attorney general, we still have 4. Frankly, I can't conceive of a situation where we would run through these 4 people and then have to go through the speaker of the house and president pro tempore, and then go on further to whoever shall be provided for by law. I would oppose the additional language considered herein, because I think we have all the safeguards and all the substitutes that we will ever need at any one time.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Mr. Hutchinson.

MR. HUTCHINSON: Mr. Chairman, my own position on this matter is that I think that a better solution to this would be for us not to adopt the language now before us, and that we strike from this proposal "president pro tempore of the senate" and "speaker of the house," and I will invite your attention to this further argument in behalf of this position.

While I note that you say only for the purposes of this paragraph the senate and the house shall be deemed to be continuing bodies and that the president pro tem and the speaker of the house shall be deemed to continue in office until a successor has been elected, I would like to suggest some complications that will arise with that language in the constitution. Let us suppose now that the speaker of the house doesn't run for reelection as a state representative. His term expires on December 31, but then you say that for the purposes of this particular paragraph he would be deemed to continue in office until the middle of January, the second Wednesday in January. Well, I suppose then that he could properly contend that he was still the speaker of the house, and was entitled to pay—for the first half of January, at least. All right; there is the first problem.

The next problem—and maybe this isn't of any great importance to the state of Michigan—but, nevertheless, the way the house of representatives organizes itself is that even when you've got a speaker who is expected to be reelected, he is not the speaker of the house of representatives when the house is originally called to order. The clerk of the house of representatives calls the house to order and acts as speaker until the speaker is elected. Under this arrangement, presumably, the house of representatives would find that a retiring speaker would show up on the scene to call the house to order and to organize the house. And maybe he is not even a representative in that term.

So I submit to you that this language here raises some unnecessary complications, and that we will be better off if we vote down this amendment and then support an amendment to strike out of the proposal reference to president pro tempore of the senate and speaker of the house of representatives.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The question is on the second part of the committee amendment. Mr. Marshall.

MR. MARSHALL: Mr. Chairman and delegates, Delegates Mahinske, Faxon and I have an amendment on the desk that would cover the remarks made by Senator Hutchinson, and we agree with Senator Hutchinson completely in the remarks that he made. Therefore, I would urge the defeat of the committee amendment at this time.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The question is on the committee amendment. Mr. King.

MR. KING: Mr. Chairman, fellow delegates, I take no strong position in this matter. This language was suggested because of an obvious problem which could arise between the first of January and January 15, or thereabouts. I would point out that the old constitution did have 6 officers named in the line of succession, and it has been pointed out that the committee proposal only provided for 4 prior to this amendment. In all honesty, I would admit that there were members of the committee on executive branch who suspected that we might not have a completely appointed ad board, and we conducted ourselves accordingly.

I think that Mr. Martin makes an excellent point when he indicates that these are perilous times, and that perhaps a longer line of succession or an equally long line of succession makes good sense in this day and age, rather than a shorter line of succession being named in the constitution. Senator Hutchinson's remarks are well taken, but I don't think that they really raise that kind of a problem, specifically, because we provide in the amendment that this wording is only for the purposes of this paragraph. So it seems to me that the points he raises are not only remote, but not realistic, in addition.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Muskegon, Mr. Danhof.

MR. DANHOF: Mr. Chairman, members of the committee, I rise to support the remarks made by Vice President Hutchinson, with this observation. You will recall that at one time during the debate on the judicial article we had an amendment to allow the circuit judge to appoint the friend of the court and his court reporter. Now, you are freezing into the constitution, indirectly, 2 offices which are now provided by the rules of the legislative bodies.

When Mr. King states that there was a line of 6 in succession, this may be true, but they were all constitutional officers. Now we are providing for the 4 constitutional officers here. I am in complete sympathy that the line of succession should be the president pro tem and the speaker of the house; I agree with this, but I don't think we should freeze them into the constitution. What if they change their names? These 2 officers are not constitutional officers. They are provided either by the rules or the statutes, and they can be changed.

I think that we can have a succession statute that will follow the 4 that we have lined up. I think it best that we stick with the constitutional officers that we have provided to be elected, and then let the legislature handle it after the 4. And while I subscribe to the idea behind it, I think that it's best that we leave it to the 4 that we have set out, which Mr. King does by inserting the secretary of state and attorney general, as we have provided. Therefore, I would at this time feel constrained to support Senator Hutchinson in this regard.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Mr. King.

MR. KING: Mr. Chairman and fellow delegates, as I say, I have no strong position in favor of this language, but I would point out to the distinguished delegate from Muskegon that if he wishes to keep the names of the president pro tem of the senate and the speaker of the house of representatives out of the constitution, he arises one proposal too late.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The question is on the balance of the committee amendment. All in favor will say aye. Opposed, no.

The amendment is not adopted. The secretary will read.

SECRETARY CHASE: Messrs. Hutchinson, Danhof and Faxon offer the following amendment:

1. Amend page 1, line 8, by striking out "president pro tempore of the senate, speaker of the house of representatives"; so that the language will then read:

After the lieutenant governor the line of succession and order of precedence of state officers who shall act as governor, shall be secretary of state, attorney general, and thereafter as provided by law.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The Chair will recognize the delegate from Fennville, Mr. Hutchinson.

MR. HUTCHINSON: Mr. Chairman, this amendment simply is offered at the end of the debate. We have already debated this matter.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Mr. Martin.

MR. MARTIN: Mr. Chairman, since the committee has not gone along with this amendment on the wall here, Mr. Hutchinson's amendment should be adopted.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The question is on the Hutchinson-Danhof—and Mr. Faxon wants to get in there, too—amendment. (laughter) All in favor will say aye. Opposed, no.

The amendment is adopted. The secretary will read.

SECRETARY CHASE: Mr. Sharpe offers the following—

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Mr. Martin.

MR. MARTIN: Mr. Chairman, we are past 11:30; we need a little time for lunch. I move the committee do now rise.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The question is on the motion of Mr. Martin that the committee do now rise. All in favor will say aye. Opposed, no.

The motion prevails.

[Whereupon, the committee of the whole having risen, President Nisbet resumed the Chair.]

PRESIDENT NISBET: The Chair recognizes Mr. Millard.

MR. MILLARD: Mr. President, the committee of the whole has had under consideration certain committee proposals of which the secretary will give a detailed report.

SECRETARY CHASE: Mr. President, the committee of the whole has had under consideration Committee Proposal 59, A proposal pertaining to vacancies in the office of governor. It reports this proposal back to the convention with one amendment, recommending the amendment be agreed to, and that the committee proposal as thus amended do pass.

Following is the amendment:

1. Amend page 1, line 16, after "own" by striking out "petition" and inserting "initiative"; so that the language will then read:

Such determination shall, when rendered, be final and conclusive and the supreme court shall upon its own initiative determine if and when such inability shall cease.

PRESIDENT NISBET: The question is upon concurring in the amendment. Those in favor will say aye. Opposed, no. The amendment is adopted.

SECRETARY CHASE: Mr. Faxon offers the following amendment to Committee Proposal 59:

1. Amend page 1, line 15, after "when rendered," by inserting "be in writing and shall contain a statement of the facts and reasons for such determination,"; so that the language would then read:

Such determination shall, when rendered, be in writing and shall contain a statement of the facts and reasons for such determination, be final and conclusive and the supreme court shall upon its own initiative determine if and when such inability shall cease.

PRESIDENT NISBET: The question is on the Faxon amendment. Mr. Faxon.

MR. FAXON: Mr. President, when this amendment was introduced in committee of the whole, less than 100 delegates voted on it, and it missed by only 2 votes. The committee on executive branch did not oppose it, and they felt that it clarified the proposal. I would yield to Mr. Martin for a statement to that effect.

PRESIDENT NISBET: Mr. Martin.

MR. MARTIN: That's correct, Mr. President. We don't oppose it. We think it would improve the committee proposal. And if the delegates wish to—

I'm sorry, Mr. President, there's a little confusion. Mr. Faxon asked me if I would support his amendment. The amendment, as I understand it, was turned down, so this is not a pending amendment, is it? If he wishes to have it considered, he will have to move to reconsider, won't he?

PRESIDENT NISBET: The Chair understands that Mr. Faxon offered this amendment in committee of the whole, and now he is offering it in the convention.

MR. MARTIN: Oh, I understand. All right, it is pending then. I simply repeat the fact that we think this will improve the wording of the committee proposal.

PRESIDENT NISBET: The question is on the Faxon amendment. Those in favor will say aye. Opposed, no. The Chair is in doubt. Those in favor of the Faxon amendment will vote aye. Those opposed will vote no. Have you all voted? If so, the secretary will lock the machine and tally the vote.

SECRETARY CHASE: On the adoption of the amendment offered by Mr. Faxon, the yeas are 55; the nays are 59.

PRESIDENT NISBET: The amendment is not adopted.

SECRETARY CHASE: Messrs. Mahinske and Marshall offer the following amendment to Committee Proposal 59:

1. Amend page 1, line 12, by striking out all of paragraph 2, lines 12 through 17.

PRESIDENT NISBET: Mr. Mahinske.

MR. MAHINSKE: This is a resubmission of the amendment that we had offered before. I think that everybody has given their arguments on this, and I won't burden you any longer with it.

PRESIDENT NISBET: The question is on the amendment of Mr. Mahinske. Mr. Martin.

MR. MARTIN: Mr. President, the committee hopes you will oppose the amendment.

MR. MARSHALL: Can we have the yeas and nays, Mr. President?

PRESIDENT NISBET: The yeas and nays are demanded. Is the demand seconded? There is a sufficient number up. Those in favor of the Mahinske amendment will vote aye. Those opposed will vote no.

MR. YEAGER: Would the secretary restate it, please.

PRESIDENT NISBET: Mr. Chase, would you read the amendment.

SECRETARY CHASE: The amendment is:

PRESIDENT NISBET: Have you all voted? If so, the secretary will lock the machine and record the vote.

The roll was called and the delegates voted as follows:

SECRETARY CHASE: On the adoption of the amendment offered by Messrs. Mahinske and Marshall, the yeas are 32; the nays are 80.

PRESIDENT NISBET: The amendment is not adopted. Mr. Hoxie.

MR. HOXIE: Mr. President, just a request for a statement. It appears in our weekly delegate report of March 23 that we have an invitation to a party on April 4 contingent upon completing our work in committee of the whole. The question, Mr. President, is: does the target date of completing our committee of the whole work still stand, or has the date been changed for the party?

PRESIDENT NISBET: Will you hold that for just a moment until we have completed the report of the committee of the whole please?

SECRETARY CHASE: There are no further amendments to Committee Proposal 59, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT NISBET: Committee Proposal 59, as amended, is referred to the committee on style and drafting.

Following is Committee Proposal 59 as amended and referred to the committee on style and drafting:

The committee recommends that the following be included in the constitution:

Sec. a. In case of the impeachment of the governor and conviction thereon, his removal from office, death, inability, resignation or absence from the state, the powers and duties of the office shall devolve upon the lieutenant governor for the residue of the term or until the disability ceases.

The inability of the governor shall be determined by a majority of the supreme court when such determination is requested by the president pro tempore of the senate and the speaker of the house of representatives. Such determination shall, when rendered, be final and conclusive and the supreme court shall upon its own initiative determine if and when such inability shall cease.

In case of the death of the governor elect before taking and subscribing to the constitutional oath of office, or before entering upon the duties of his office, the powers and duties of the office shall devolve upon the lieutenant governor elect on the commencement of his term of office.

SECRETARY CHASE: Mr. President, the committee of the whole has also had under consideration Committee Proposal 60, A proposal pertaining to succession to the governorship; and has come to no final resolution thereon.

The committee of the whole also had under consideration Committee Proposal 71, and placed it at the foot of the general orders calendar of the committee on executive branch. This completes the report of the committee of the whole, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT NISBET: Mr. White, can you answer Delegate Hoxie's question?

MR. WHITE: Mr. President, Mr. Hoxie, that party referred to has been temporarily postponed.

PRESIDENT NISBET: The Chair recognizes Mr. Hubbs.

MR. HUBBS: Mr. President, I rise to a point of privilege of the convention.

PRESIDENT NISBET: Will you please state it.

MR. HUBBS: I would like to refer to Mason's rules, section 221, privilege of the house, with regard to an inaccurate statement in one of the daily newspapers.

PRESIDENT NISBET: You may proceed.

MR. HUBBS: Mr. President, delegates to the constitutional convention, interested citizens present and members of the press, on Thursday, March 29, 1962, the Detroit Free Press published an editorial entitled, Miring Roads With Politics. As a delegate to the constitutional convention sincerely concerned with producing an improved constitution for the whole state of Michigan, I am distressed by the misinformation and misrepresentations of this editorial. I arise at this time to protest the irresponsibility of the editorial writer.

On my brief stays at home on weekends I have been discouraged by the attitude of a good many people toward the work of the constitutional convention. I am absolutely certain that every delegate to this convention is convinced that even at this unfinished stage of our work many constructive and beneficial changes have been incorporated into the proposed constitution. The publishing of an editorial which I am certain —

MR. MAHINSKE: Point of order, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT NISBET: State your point.

MR. MAHINSKE: As I understand Mason's Rules of Legislative Procedure, a personal privilege due to a newspaper article is not permissible unless, if you assume all of the facts stated in the article are true, you would then be disqualified from assuming the office that you are assuming. I would like a ruling from the Chair on this. He asked for a privilege of the house, or a point of personal privilege.

PRESIDENT NISBET: Mr. Hubbs, what was that paragraph?

MR. HUBBS: Section 221 of Mason's rules. I did not ask

SECRETARY CHASE: When the committee of the whole rose this morning, there was under immediate consideration Committee Proposal 60, A proposal pertaining to succession to the governorship. The first paragraph has been read, and 2 amendments thereto had been adopted.

Mr. Sharpe offers the following amendment to paragraph 1 of section a:

1. Amend page 1, line 6, after "precedence of" by inserting "elected"; so that the language will then read:

After the lieutenant governor the line of succession and order of precedence of elected state officers who shall act as governor, shall be secretary of state, attorney general, and thereafter as provided by law.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The Chair will recognize the proponent of this amendment, Mr. Sharpe.

MR. SHARPE: Mr. Chairman, members of the committee, this is self explanatory, I believe. In view of the increasing interest in the appointive system of our administrative board, there is a possibility in the next 25 years or so that we may have more appointed officials than we are planning for at this time. Because of this fact, I believe that we all would admit to ourselves that we would not want a man to fall in succession to the governorship who was appointed. By adding this word "elected" I think it will take care of the situation, and I urge your support of this amendment.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The Chair recognizes Mr. King.

MR. KING: Mr. Chairman and fellow delegates, I should like to address a question through the Chair to Mr. Sharpe.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: If the gentleman cares to answer.

MR. KING: Delegate Sharpe, is it your feeling that the president pro tem of the senate and the speaker of the house are both elected officials?

MR. SHARPE: Mr. Chairman, Mr. King, weren't they elected to their respective posts in the senate and the house of representatives?

MR. KING: They were elected as senators and representatives by the people of their districts, and they were elected to the leadership in their respective legislative chambers by their fellow members of the chamber.

MR. SHARPE: I would consider these gentlemen elected to their posts.

MR. KING: Thank you, Delegate Sharpe. Mr. Chairman, I have no objection to this amendment, other than it seems to me that in these perilous times — and I know that the governor and all other state officials have already secretly nominated those who would succeed them in the event of a national disaster — it seems to me that we might be putting an undue restriction in the constitution. It would be my hope that we would always have a line of succession wherever possible that would include only elected officials. But in the event that this is not possible as a result of a great calamity or national emergency, I wonder if perhaps we are not writing in an unnecessary restriction which would unduly hamstring the operation of state government.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The question is on the Sharpe amendment. All in favor will say aye. Opposed, no. The Chair is in doubt. All those in favor of the Sharpe amendment will vote aye. Those opposed will vote nay. Have you all voted? If so, the machine will be locked and the secretary will tally the vote.

SECRETARY CHASE: On the adoption of the amendment offered by Mr. Sharpe, the yeas are 58; the nays are 47.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The amendment is adopted. The secretary will read.

SECRETARY CHASE: There are no further pending amendments to the first paragraph, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The Chair will recognize the chairman of the committee, Mr. Martin.

MR. MARTIN: Mr. Chairman, I yield to Mr. King on that.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The Chair will recognize Mr. King.

MR. KING: Mr. Chairman, fellow delegates, we have made no change in this area, with the exception of the inclusion of the words "and convicted thereon" after the words "be impeached." It is our feeling that the governor should retain the office of governor until actually convicted. The impeachment process, again, is similar to an indictment. It by no means indicates guilt or innocence. That is the only change we have made.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Are there any amendments to the second paragraph, Mr. Secretary?

SECRETARY CHASE: There are none on file, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The secretary will read.

SECRETARY CHASE: Paragraph 3 reads as follows:

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Mr. Martin.

MR. MARTIN: I yield to Mr. King, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Mr. King.

MR. KING: Mr. Chairman, fellow delegates, we have made no change in this paragraph. The remarks that were made in the preceding section for the benefit of the style and drafting committee I presume would apply here, too. If there is any way that this wording can be clarified and simplified, we would certainly be happy to have the style and drafting committee take a look at it. But, basically, this is exactly the same language which is in the present constitution.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Are there any amendments to this third paragraph?

SECRETARY CHASE: Mr. Upton offers the following amendment to section a:

1. Amend page 1, by striking out all of paragraph 3.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The Chair will recognize the proponent of the amendment, Mr. Upton.

MR. UPTON: Mr. Chairman, ladies and gentlemen of the committee, I feel that this paragraph, as well as the one just passed, is irrelevant to the constitution. Now we put in the succession of the officers as provided by law in the first paragraph. I also meant to strike out the second paragraph, but we went over that too quickly. I was wondering whether the delegates are looking at this. All this verbiage that we have here I think can be taken care of very well by the law and, as we have provided in the first paragraph, handle the whole line of succession. Therefore, I would recommend that we, as delegates, consider this very seriously as to whether or not this paragraph is needed to outline the line of succession. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Mr. King.

MR. KING: Mr. Chairman, fellow delegates, this is not a case of unnecessary verbiage. This paragraph provides for a contingency which perhaps is not likely to happen, but might happen, and that of course is in the event of the death of the lieutenant governor elect or other officers in line prior to their commencing their term of office. This provides for that contingency wherein the elected officer dies between the date of the election and January 1, when these officers would assume their term of duty. And for that reason it is very necessary. There is no way in which we can avoid this. Without this sort of a paragraph, I suppose you would have to have a general election, and in the meantime I don't know what would happen until you had the election. I guess you would be without any governor. So for that reason I would oppose the amendment.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Mr. Upton, do you wish to be recognized?

MR. UPTON: Yes, sir. When reviewing the citizens research council book, they state that Michigan is one of the few states that has this type of language in its constitution. Now, I think we have an opportunity here to eliminate this and to allow us to set up the procedure by law, as we have already stated in the first paragraph.

MR. KING: Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Mr. King.

MR. KING: The first paragraph does not cover this particular contingency. If I could direct a question through the Chair to Mr. Upton, what would happen if the governor and lieutenant governor elect die after their date of election, but prior to January 1, when they would assume their office?

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: If Mr. Upton cares to answer.

MR. UPTON: I believe this could be handled by law, Mr. King. And the first paragraph doesn't say anything about being the governor. I mean, it could be set up as provided by law, and could be statutory, as it evidently is in most of the states of our country at the present time.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Does that answer your question?

MR. KING: Yes. Mr. Chairman and fellow delegates, I would submit that perhaps this matter could be taken care of by statute, but I frankly see no advantage to it. It would leave a degree of uncertainty in a basic section of our constitutional law which I think would not be advisable. I see nothing wrong with this language. It says very clearly and very briefly what is to happen in the event both the governor and lieutenant governor and other officers should die prior to the commencement of their term. For that reason I would oppose the amendment.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The Chair recognizes Delegate Stevens.

MR. STEVENS: Mr. Chairman and members of the committee, Delegate King, I think, is right. I call the attention of the members of the committee to the fact that similar provision is made in the federal constitution, the twentieth amendment, to take care of a very similar situation which might result in the case of the death of the president and/or vice president elect. I think some of this comes from the rather careless use of these terms officers elect and officers elected. These officers have not been elected. They have not taken the oath of office. They aren't anything, except that they are on the way. So I think it is at least desirable, if not necessary, that the constitution should take care of it.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The question is on the Upton amendment. All those in favor will say aye. Opposed, no.

The amendment is not adopted. The secretary will read.

SECRETARY CHASE: There are no other pending amendments on the desk, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Are there any amendments to the body of the section or the proposal? If not, it will pass.

Committee Proposal 60, as amended, is passed. The secretary will read.

SECRETARY CHASE: Item 5 on the calendar, from the committee on executive branch, by Mr. Martin, chairman, Committee Proposal 72, A proposal to provide for compensation of acting governor.

For last previous action by the committee of the whole on Committee Proposal 72, see above, page 1721.

An amendment to strike the entire section, submitted by Mr. Yeager, is pending. This will be taken up after all other amendments have been disposed of.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The Chair will recognize the chairman of the committee, Mr. Martin.

MR. MARTIN: Mr. Chairman, this matter was considered earlier and was put at the end of the calendar. I will yield to Mr. King on this.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Mr. King.

MR. KING: Mr. Chairman, fellow delegates, this is the language which is in the present constitution. Senator Hutchinson raised an objection to this language. He has shown me the wording which he would prefer, and I frankly am in disagreement with this wording. So I have suggested that he move it as a substitute, and leave the decision then up to the committee of the whole as to which they prefer. I frankly would like to speak in defense of the present language. So at this time I would yield to Senator Hutchinson so that he could move his substitute, if he would like to.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: We have an amendment on the desk here. Is this Senator Hutchinson's amendment?

MR. KING: I don't know.

SECRETARY CHASE: Mr. J. Burton Richards has filed the following amendment:

1. Amend page 1, line 6, after "succession," by striking out "while performing the duties" and inserting "upon succeeding to the office"; so that the language will read:

The lieutenant governor or other state officer in the line of succession, upon succeeding to the office of governor, shall receive the same compensation as the governor.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: The Chair will recognize the proponent of this amendment, Mr. J. Burton Richards.

MR. J. B. RICHARDS: Mr. Chairman, it seemed to me after the discussion the other day that this was the language that would clear up the section so that it would read as the legislature now acts.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Mr. King.

MR. KING: Mr. Chairman, fellow delegates, it seems to me here that we are faced with a question as to whether or not the lieutenant governor ought to be entitled to receive the pay of governor when he is performing the functions of the governor. Now, it is my considered opinion that we do not overpay the lieutenant governor. It seems that certainly when a man has the responsibility and the authority of governor, that he is entitled to the pay of governor.

There are attorney general opinions which I would call to your attention. In Opinion 849, issued back in 1948, the attorney general states his case as follows:

We are of the opinion, therefore, that whenever the governor is beyond the confines of the state, he is absent from the state, and he cannot perform the duties of his office during such absence, the functions of the office are vested in the lieutenant governor. . . .

He goes on to say:

Like an invisible baton, the democratic scepter known as chief executive power is passed by force of article VI from governor to lieutenant governor at the instant of gubernatorial exit, and the governor is not eligible to its relay until he recrosses the line.

The chief executive power is not, as is supposed in some quarters, the governor's personal property. It belongs to and in his state, and it cannot be flown nor carried elsewhere, there to be executed by the proxy of delegated authority. The moment a governor passes beyond the borders of his state, the constitution automatically vests that power in the lieutenant governor and holds him exclusively responsible for its faithful execution during the governor's absence from the state. Indeed, and if the rule were otherwise, a confused farrago of conflicting orders and directives, issued within and without the state, would undoubtedly lead to a veritable paralysis of indecision, with every subordinate guessing at his peril which of these directives he should obey. The people by their constitution intended no such confusion and, judicial precedent aside for the moment, made their wishes plain in layman's parlance.

And then of course he quotes the constitution, which in substance is the way the committee has recommended it to you.

It seems to me that if the lieutenant governor is the governor during those times when the governor is absent from the state, then he should receive the pay of the governor. I am given to understand by a delegate who served on the attorney general's staff back in 1938, when the lieutenant governor requested payment at the rate of pay of the governor during a month's absence of the governor, that at that time the attorney general's office was prepared to back him up. Now, I guess the lieutenant governor at that time decided that it would not be politic to proceed to press his case. But it seems to me quite reasonable that if the lieutenant governor has to assume all of the responsibilities and all of the duties of the governor, that at that point in time he should be entitled to the pay of the governor. So I frankly think that the language in the present constitution is correct, and I personally oppose the amendment.

CHAIRMAN MILLARD: Mr. Faxon.

MR. FAXON: Mr. Chairman, Mr. King, if I may ask you a question; if the lieutenant governor is the governor, then who is the lieutenant governor?

MR. KING: Mr. Chairman, Mr. Faxon, the lieutenant governor becomes the governor in the event of the absence, dis-

PRESIDENT NISBET: Mr. Millard.

MR. MILLARD: Mr. President, the committee of the whole has had under consideration certain matters of which the secretary will give a detailed report.

SECRETARY CHASE: Mr. President, the committee of the whole has had under consideration Committee Proposal 60, A proposal pertaining to succession to the governorship; it reports this proposal back to the convention with amendments, recommending the amendments be agreed to, and the committee proposal as thus amended do pass.

Following are the amendments offered to Committee Proposal 60:

1. Amend page 1, line 6, after "precedence of" by inserting "elected"; so that the sentence will read, "After the lieutenant governor the line of succession and order of precedence of elected state officers who shall act as governor, shall be. . ."

PRESIDENT NISBET: The question is on concurring in the amendment. Those in favor will say aye. Opposed, no. The amendment is adopted.

SECRETARY CHASE: Amendment 2:

2. Amend page 1, line 7, by reinserting "secretary of state, attorney general"; so that the language will then read:

After the lieutenant governor the line of succession and order of precedence of elected state officers who shall act as governor, shall be secretary of state, attorney general. . .

PRESIDENT NISBET: The question is on concurring in the amendment. Those in favor will say aye. Opposed, no. The amendment is adopted.

SECRETARY CHASE: Amendment 3:

3. Amend page 1, line 8, by striking out "president pro tempore of the senate, speaker of the house of representatives"; so the language of the section will then read:

After the lieutenant governor the line of succession and order of precedence of elected state officers who shall act as governor, shall be secretary of state, attorney general, and thereafter as provided by law.

PRESIDENT NISBET: The question is on concurring in the amendment. Those in favor will say aye. Opposed, no. The amendment is adopted.

SECRETARY CHASE: That's all of the pending amendments to this committee proposal, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT NISBET: Committee Proposal 60, as amended, is referred to the committee on style and drafting.

Following is Committee Proposal 60 as amended and referred to the committee on style and drafting:

The committee recommends that the following be included in the constitution:

Sec. a. After the lieutenant governor the line of succession and order of precedence of elected state officers who shall act as governor, shall be secretary of state, attorney general, and thereafter as provided by law.

If during a vacancy in the office of governor, the lieutenant governor or any state officer or officers in this line of succession die, resign, be impeached and convicted thereon, displaced, be incapable of performing the duties of office or be absent from the state, leaving no state officer prior in the line of succession to fill the office of governor, the state officer next in line of succession shall act as governor during the residue of his term or until the absence or disability giving rise to the succession ceases.

In case of the death of the lieutenant governor elect or any state officer or officer elect in this line of succession before taking and subscribing to the constitutional oath of office, or before entering upon the duties of office, leaving no state officer elect prior in line of succession to fill the office of governor, the powers and duties of the office of governor shall devolve upon the state officer elect next in line on the commencement of his term of office.

SECRETARY CHASE: The committee of the whole, Mr. President, has also had under consideration Committee Proposal 72, A proposal to provide for compensation of acting governor; and reports the same back to the convention with an amendment, recommending the amendment be agreed to, and the proposal as thus amended do pass.

Following is the amendment:

1. Amend page 1, line 5, after "Sec. a.", by striking out the balance of the section and inserting "The legislature shall increase the salary of any state officer to equal the salary of the governor while such officer is performing the duties of governor."

PRESIDENT NISBET: The question is on concurring in the amendment. Those in favor will say aye. Opposed, no. The amendment is adopted.

SECRETARY CHASE: That's the only amendment to this proposal, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT NISBET: Committee Proposal 72, as amended, is referred to the committee on style and drafting.

Following is Committee Proposal 72 as amended and referred to the committee on style and drafting:

The committee of the whole has also had under consideration Committee Proposal 71, has considered several amendments thereto, and has come to no final resolution thereon. That completes the report of the committee of the whole.

PRESIDENT NISBET: Mr. Downs.

MR. DOWNS: Could I ask, if it is at all possible, Mr. Secretary, to get copies of the amendments pending on Committee Proposal 71 duplicated for our evening session? I make that suggestion only if it's possible. I know they have been working very hard, and if it's not practical I do not make it in the form of a motion.

PRESIDENT NISBET: I think the secretary will make an effort to do it. If he can do it, it will be done.

MR. DOWNS: Thank you.

PRESIDENT NISBET: Announcements.

SECRETARY CHASE: We have no announcements.

Amends article VI, section 16; and Committee Proposal 60, A proposal pertaining to succession to the governorship. Amends article VI, section 17.

Following is Substitute Proposal for Committee Proposals 59 and 60 as reported by the committee on style and drafting and read by the secretary. (For full text as referred to said committee, see above, pages 1966 and 1987.):

Sec. a. IN CASE OF THE CONVICTION OF THE GOVERNOR ON IMPEACHMENT, HIS REMOVAL FROM OFFICE, HIS RESIGNATION, OR THE DEATH OF THE GOVERNOR OR GOVERNOR ELECT, THE POWERS AND DUTIES OF THE OFFICE SHALL VEST, IN THE FOLLOWING ORDER OF PRECEDENCE, IN THE PERSON ELECTED AT THE LAST ELECTION TO THE OFFICE OF LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR, SECRETARY OF STATE, ATTORNEY GENERAL, AND SUCH OTHER PERSONS DESIGNATED BY LAW, WHO SHALL BE GOVERNOR AFTER THE COMMENCEMENT OF THEIR TERM FOR THE RESIDUE OF THE GOVERNOR'S TERM. IF THE GOVERNOR OR THE PERSON IN LINE OF SUCCESSION TO SERVE AS GOVERNOR IS ABSENT FROM THE STATE, OR SUFFERING UNDER AN INABILITY AS DETERMINED HEREIN, THE POWERS AND DUTIES OF THE OFFICE OF GOVERNOR SHALL DEVOLVE IN ORDER OF PRECEDENCE UPON SUCH PERSONS UNTIL THE ABSENCE OR INABILITY GIVING RISE TO THE DEVOLVEMENT OF POWERS CEASES.

THE INABILITY OF THE GOVERNOR, GOVERNOR ELECT OR PERSONS SERVING AS GOVERNOR SHALL BE DETERMINED BY A MAJORITY OF THE SUPREME COURT ON JOINT REQUEST OF THE PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE OF THE SENATE AND THE SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES. SUCH DETERMINATION SHALL BE FINAL AND CONCLUSIVE. THE SUPREME COURT SHALL UPON ITS OWN INITIATIVE DETERMINE IF AND WHEN THE INABILITY CEASES.

PRESIDENT NISBET: The Chair recognizes Mr. Martin.

MR. MARTIN: Mr. President, this language, as you see, is all new. It is a combination of Committee Proposals 59 and 60, on which the committee on style and drafting did a lot of work in conjunction with our committee. We are well satisfied with it. We think it's a good compounding of the language and we hope you will approve of the proposal.

PRESIDENT NISBET: The question is on the substitute—Mr. Faxon.

MR. FAXON: This is on the proposal, is it not?

PRESIDENT NISBET: That is correct.

MR. FAXON: I didn't have a copy of this in my book. The question that I have deals with the second paragraph where the governor has been declared ill or his office vacant and it says, on the initiative of the supreme court they shall determine when the inability ceases. The question that I have is whether or not there shouldn't be some provision there to say that at the initiative of, say, the governor himself the inability should cease. What if the courts aren't meeting, or are not going to be there to do anything? What would happen?

PRESIDENT NISBET: Mr. Martin.

MR. MARTIN: Mr. President, the committee is of the opinion that if a matter of this kind ever arises, it will be of such great importance that the supreme court will be very alert to any change in situation and will, upon its own initiative, determine that the inability has ceased. So we felt that we could not put this decision in the governor who had been declared to be subject to a disability. We had to leave it, we thought, with the court, who had made the initial determination.

MR. FAXON: Mr. President, I'd like to respond to this part of the question. It seems to me that this is vesting in the court a tremendous power. In terms of only on its own initiative, is it going to make a decision that the inability had ceased? I feel the least we could do here is to provide, say, not only on initiative of the court, but by the governor himself or some individuals of state who may call the court and ask them to make a ruling if they feel the inability has ceased. I understand there are times when the court may not be in session. There may be any number of conditions or circumstances that may exist that would make this highly discriminatory to the governor if his inability has ceased and the court seems to be moving slowly in judging it. So to leave this entirely in the hands of the court, entirely in their hands, not even permitting a citizen of the state to bring issue to the court, is to give them a grant of authority and power unlike any court that I've known of in history to make a determination of this sort and then be able to stick to it.

PRESIDENT NISBET: Mr. Marshall.

MR. MARSHALL: Mr. President and fellow delegates, there was considerable discussion, as I recall, in the committee on this subject as to whether or not the governor himself, along with his medical advisors, in the case of a physical disability, would be in a better position to determine this than a supreme court. I don't recall that I have knowledge—there might have been some, but no one, I believe, has pointed it out—of any problem having arisen in this area in the past. I would oppose the proposal. I am not offering an amendment, because of the reasons I gave this morning. It is obvious to me that the proposals are pretty well cut and dried in this particular section. I think the opinions are pretty well set. I do oppose the change. I think it's as true today, though, as it was when the bard of Avon said, lo, those many years ago, "a person convinced against his will is of the same opinion still." But I still oppose the change.

PRESIDENT NISBET: The question is on the Substitute Proposal for Committee Proposals 59 and 60. Those in favor of the substitute will say aye. Opposed, no.

The substitute is adopted. The question now is on the passage of the Substitute Proposal for Committee Proposals 59 and 60. Mr. Faxon has an amendment.

SECRETARY CHASE: Mr. Faxon offers the following amendment to the substitute:

1. Amend page 1, line 17, [paragraph 2] after "initiative" by inserting "or that of the governor"; so that the language will then read, "The supreme court shall upon its own initiative or that of the governor determine if and when the inability ceases."

PRESIDENT NISBET: Mr. Faxon.

MR. FAXON: Well, Mr. President, I don't want to belabor this but I still feel that the way this language reads, "its own initiative" gives the supreme court such a final power here that if the governor felt that he was well and he could perform the duties of his office, he should be able to at least take the initiative in asking the supreme court to make the necessary ruling that the inability has ceased. I think this is the right of any person to at least defend his own case. To make this a completely final thing, that the supreme court shall determine if and when the inability ceases, could permanently leave the governor out if they so desired. I think this is a tremendous grant of power and I think that at least the addition of the language that the governor could take the initiative would give some basic minimum protection to him.

PRESIDENT NISBET: Mr. Van Dusen.

MR. VANDUSEN: Mr. President, I move to limit debate on this amendment to 10 minutes.

PRESIDENT NISBET: The question is on limiting debate to 10 minutes. Those in favor will say aye. Opposed, no.

The motion prevails. The Chair recognizes Mr. Marshall.

MR. MARSHALL: Mr. President, I support the Faxon amendment. While it is not as perfect as I would like to have it, this is one of those proposals where language was added by the delegates to this convention, where no problem had arisen, where there was no request presented for change; but for some reason the delegates to this convention thought, because they were writing a constitution, that they had to change every article, every section, every paragraph. I saw no need for it. I see no need now. However, the Faxon amendment does take a step in the right direction. Who is going to determine? Supposing you have a governor and the supreme court says he isn't of sound mind. Who is going to determine whether the supreme court is of sound mind or not? I would support the Faxon amendment.

PRESIDENT NISBET: The Chair recognizes Judge Dehnke.

MR. DEHNKE: Mr. President and delegates, I don't know why anyone should jump to the conclusion that nobody — the governor or anybody else, the pressure of public opinion — could be brought to the attention of the supreme court unless we put it specifically into this constitution. If we make the inexcusable assumption that the court would be willing to be arbitrary in such a situation, 100 people might bring it to its attention and ask for action and they could still turn it down. I think this is completely unnecessary.

PRESIDENT NISBET: Mr. Martin.

MR. MARTIN: Mr. President, we would oppose this amendment simply because there is nothing here to prevent the governor from bringing this to the attention of the court and asking that some action be taken. It simply allows the court to go ahead whenever it thinks it is desirable to do so, based upon whatever representations are made to it. We oppose the amendment.

PRESIDENT NISBET: Mr. Barthwell.

MR. BARTHWELL: Mr. President and delegates, I would just like to say that Delegate Faxon has reflected his inexperience of not ever having, probably, been around an incapacitated person. (laughter) Because he feels that he is all right, everyone else is incapacitated. (laughter) I think this is a very necessary phrase in this constitution because I can remind the convention of another state that had a situation like this, of the governor — I think it was the state of Louisiana in the not too far past — and there was quite a bit of debate down there as to whether he was sane or insane. So I would urge that you vote against the Faxon amendment.

PRESIDENT NISBET: The question is on the Faxon amendment. Those in favor will say aye. Those opposed, no.

The amendment is not adopted. The question now is on the adoption of the Substitute Proposal for Committee Proposals 59 and 60. Mr. Lesinski.

MR. LESINSKI: Mr. President, I'd like to get an explanation on this wording that refers to "death of . . . governor elect." Then it states "powers and duties of the office shall vest, in the following order of precedence, in the person elected at the last election to the office. . . ." In other words, when a governor elect passes away before he is inaugurated — in other words, it would pass to the previous — is that correct?

PRESIDENT NISBET: Mr. Martin.

MR. MARTIN: Mr. Lesinski, yes. If the governor elect dies, then the person who succeeds him is going to be the lieutenant governor elected at the last election, who becomes governor after commencement of his term. In other words, when the term of the governor elect would begin as governor, and he is dead, he is not there any longer, the lieutenant governor then becomes the governor, or the secretary of state, or whoever it may be.

MR. LESINSKI: Thank you. One more question: the courts will decide whether a governor elect is unable to serve before he takes office?

MR. MARTIN: The court could decide that as to the governor elect if the president pro tem of the senate and speaker have referred the question to the court, and the majority of the court had so decided, yes.

MR. LESINSKI: In other words, the governor elect has not taken his office as yet and he can still be —

MR. MARTIN: It could be determined before he actually took office, yes.

SECRETARY CHASE: Mr. Faxon offers the following amendment:

1. Amend page 1, line 14, [paragraph 2] after "by a" by inserting "2/3"; so the language will read, "The inability of the governor, governor elect or persons serving as governor shall be determined by a 2/3 majority of the supreme court. . . ."

PRESIDENT NISBET: Mr. Faxon.

MR. FAXON: Mr. President, I must admit on the previous amendment that I had read it differently, and after listening to Mr. Barthwell, I realized the point he made. But I do feel that we should understand that this section is new. It is new in the Michigan constitution; it is new, period. It isn't a tried and proven thing that we can look back on and cite cases and show how it works. Where you are giving this new grant of power to the courts, the least bit of protection you can give is to require an unusual majority of the supreme court to make a determination. If there is a question that the governor is not of his right mind, if there is question that he is unable, then the court should make the determination; but it should be pretty unanimous, or at least I would just as soon it be unanimous. But in the event that you don't want it unanimous, at least 2/3 would make it possible for an unusual majority to make the determination. Certainly, there shouldn't be any question in the minds of those who make such a determination that this is necessary for the best interests of the state. And for this reason I think that under these kind of conditions, where we provide 2/3 for the removal of judges, where we provide 2/3 in other cases for removal, the same should hold true for the governor, the chief executive officer of the state. He, too, should come under the same kind of rules we provide for judges and say 2/3 are necessary there too if we are going to remove him from office. I think this is a minimum that we can do to protect this section and to protect the office of governor.

PRESIDENT NISBET: The Chair recognizes Mr. Marshall.

MR. MARSHALL: Mr. President, I rise to support the Faxon amendment, and while I'm on the floor I want to move the previous question before Mr. Van Dusen beats me to it. (applause)

PRESIDENT NISBET: The previous question has been demanded. Is the demand seconded? Sufficient number up. The question is: shall the previous question be put? Those in favor will say aye. Opposed, no.

The previous question is ordered. The question is on the Faxon amendment. Those in favor will say aye. Those opposed no.

The amendment is not adopted. The question now is on the passage of the Substitute Proposal for Committee Proposals 59 and 60. Those in favor will vote aye. Those opposed will vote nay. Have you all voted? If so, the secretary will lock the machine and record the vote.

SECRETARY CHASE: On the passage of the Substitute Proposal for Committee Proposals 59 and 60, the yeas are 105; the nays are 4.

PRESIDENT NISBET: The Substitute Proposal for Committee Proposals 59 and 60 is passed.

Following is explanation of vote submitted by Mr. Faxon:

I voted no on the Substitute Proposal for Committee Proposals 59 and 60.

The content of the second paragraph of this proposal is an entirely new matter; there was absolutely no precedent to follow with regard to the determination of the inability of the governor.

Although I recognize that this is a problem, I do not feel that the committee proposal adequately safeguards the office of governor from political intrusions that may be made by other branches of government.

This proposal would give to the courts a role which has traditionally not been theirs, and would permit them to sit in judgment upon the office of governor if called upon for a determination. Such power vested in so few people could be misused. When treading upon new ground, caution ought to be the byword, and in this case a simple majority of the courts can do great harm to the state. In the case of the removal of judges, unusual majorities are required. In case of the passage of certain legislation, unusual majorities are required, and yet in case of the removal of the highest officer of this state, all that is required in this proposal is that a simple majority of the court makes this determination.

In view of these considerations, I feel that this proposal would have been best if left in the form similar to action taken in previous constitutional conventions of this state, and that no innovations be made on what could become such a crucial and vital issue.

PRESIDENT NISBET (continuing): It is referred to the committee on style and drafting.

For Substitute Proposal for Committee Proposals 59 and 60 as referred to the committee on style and drafting, see above, page 2764.

MR. MARSHALL: Mr. President, may I briefly explain my no vote? I voted no because I was opposed to the last paragraph.

PRESIDENT NISBET: The secretary will read the next proposal.

SECRETARY CHASE: Item 13 on the calendar, Committee Proposal 72, A proposal to provide for compensation of acting governor. Retains section 18 of article VI.

Following is Committee Proposal 72 as reported by the committee on style and drafting and read by the secretary. (For full text as referred to said committee, see above, page 1987.):

Sec. a. The legislature shall PROVIDE THAT [increase] the salary of any state officer PERFORMING THE DUTIES OF GOVERNOR IS EQUAL TO THAT OF THE [to equal the salary of the governor while such officer is performing the duties of] governor.

PRESIDENT NISBET: Mr. Martin.

MR. MARTIN: Mr. President, there are no substantial changes of substance in this. Style and drafting has made some alterations but they are only changes of style. We therefore hope that the committee proposal will be approved as is.

PRESIDENT NISBET: Can the board be cleared? The question is on approval of Committee Proposal 72. Those in favor will vote aye. Those opposed will vote nay. Have you all voted? If so, the secretary will lock the machine and record the vote.

Legislative Branch

Sec. 1. The legislative power of the State of Michigan is vested in a senate and a house of representatives.

Sec. 2. The senate shall consist of 38 members[,] to be elected from single member districts at the same [time] ELECTION as the governor for [4] FOUR-year terms concurrent with the term of office of the governor.

In districting the state for the purpose of electing senators after the official publication of the total population count of each federal decennial census, each county shall be assigned an apportionment factor equal to the sum of its percentage of the state's population as shown by the last regular federal decennial census computed to the nearest [1/100] ONE-ONE HUNDREDTH of one percent multiplied by [4] FOUR and its percentage of the state's land area computed to the nearest [1/100] ONE-ONE HUNDREDTH of one percent.

In arranging the state into senatorial districts, the apportionment commission shall be governed by the following rules:

(1) Counties with 13 or more apportionment factors shall be entitled as a class to senators in the proportion that the total apportionment factors of such counties bear to the total apportionment factors of the state computed to the nearest whole number. After each such county has been allocated one senator, the remaining senators to which this class of counties [are] IS entitled shall be distributed among such counties by the method of equal proportions applied to the apportionment factors.

(2) Counties having less than 13 apportionment factors shall be entitled as a class to senators in the proportion that the total apportionment factors of such counties bear to the total apportionment FACTORS of the state computed to the nearest whole number. Such counties shall thereafter be arranged into senatorial districts that are compact, convenient, and contiguous by land, as rectangular in shape as possible, and having as nearly as possible 13 apportionment factors, but in no event less than 10 or more than 16. Insofar as possible, existing senatorial districts at the time of reapportionment shall not be altered unless there [shall be] IS a failure to comply with the above standards.

(3) Counties entitled to [2] TWO or more senate districts shall be [further sub]divided into single member districts. The population of such districts shall be as nearly equal as possible but shall not be less than 75 percent nor more than 125 percent of a number determined by dividing the population of the county by the number of senators to which it is entitled. Each such district shall follow incorporated city or township boundary lines to the extent possible and shall be compact, contiguous, and as nearly uniform in shape as possible.

Sec. 3. The house of representatives shall consist of 110 members elected for [2] TWO-year terms from single member districts apportioned on a basis of population as [hereinafter] provided IN THIS ARTICLE. The districts shall consist of compact and convenient territory contiguous by land.

Each county which has a population of not less than [7/10] SEVEN-TENTHS of one percent of the population of the state shall constitute a separate representative area. Each county having less than [7/10] SEVEN-TENTHS of one percent of the population of the state shall be combined with another county or counties to form a representative area of not less than [7/10] SEVEN-

Explanation—Matter within [] is stricken, matter in capitals is new.

TENTHS of one percent of the population of the state. Any county which is isolated under the initial allocation as [herein] provided IN THIS SECTION shall be joined with that contiguous representative area having the smallest percentage of the state's population. Each such representative area shall be entitled initially to one representative.

After the assignment of one representative to each of the representative areas, the remaining house seats shall be apportioned among the representative areas on the basis of population by the method of equal proportions.

Any county comprising a representative area entitled to [2] TWO or more representatives shall be divided into single member representative districts as follows:

(1) The population of [each] SUCH districtS shall be as nearly equal as possible but shall not be less than 75 percent nor more than 125 percent of a number determined by dividing the population of the representative area by the number of representatives to which it is entitled.

(2) Such single member districts shall follow city and township boundaries where applicable and shall be composed of compact and contiguous territory as nearly square in shape as possible.

Any representative area consisting of more than one county, entitled to more than one representative, shall be divided into single member districts as equal as possible in population adhering to county lines.

Sec. 4. In counties having more than one representative or senatorial district, the territory in the same county annexed to or merged with a city between apportionments shall become a part of a contiguous representative or senatorial district in the city with which it is combined upon the effective date of the annexation or merger[.]. THE DISTRICTS WITH WHICH THE TERRITORY SHALL BE COMBINED SHALL BE [as] determined by ordinance of the city certified to the secretary of state.

[No legislator shall be deemed to have vacated his office by virtue of the above section.] NO SUCH CHANGE IN THE BOUNDARIES OF A REPRESENTATIVE OR SENATORIAL DISTRICT SHALL HAVE THE EFFECT OF REMOVING A LEGISLATOR FROM OFFICE DURING HIS TERM.

Sec. 5. ISLAND AREAS ARE CONSIDERED TO BE CONTIGUOUS BY LAND TO THE COUNTY OF WHICH THEY ARE A PART.

Sec. 6. A commission on legislative apportionment is hereby established consisting of [8] EIGHT persons, [4] FOUR of whom shall be selected by the state organizations of each of the [2] TWO political parties whose candidates for governor received the highest vote at the last general election AT WHICH A GOVERNOR WAS ELECTED preceding each apportionment. If a candidate for governor of a third political party has received at such election more than 25 percent of such gubernatorial vote, the commission shall consist of 12 members, [4] FOUR of whom shall be selected by the state organization of the third political party. One member of the commission shall be selected by each political party organization from each of the following [4] FOUR regions: (1) The upper peninsula; (2) The northern part of the lower peninsula, north of a line drawn along the northern boundaries of the counties of Bay, Midland, Isabella, Mecosta, Newaygo and Oceana; (3) Southwestern Michigan, those counties south of region (2) and west of a line drawn along the western boundaries of the counties of Bay, Saginaw, Shiawassee, Ingham, Jackson and Hillsdale; (4) Southeastern Michigan, the remaining counties of the state.

The supreme court shall determine which plan complies most accurately with the constitutional requirements and shall direct that it be adopted BY THE COMMISSION and published as provided in this section.

The invocation today will be delivered by Dr. Ralph J. Danhof, executive secretary and stated clerk of the Christian Reformed Church. Dr. Danhof is from Grand Rapids and is an uncle of Delegate Robert J. Danhof.

REVEREND DANHOF: Let us unite our hearts in prayer. We thank Thee, heavenly Father, that we may call upon Thee. We thank Thee that Thou hast given us a state in which we may live and also exercise the gifts of freedom. We pray that Thou wilt preserve these freedoms for us not only as the state of Michigan but as the United States of America.

We pray, Lord our God, that Thou wilt bless this constitutional convention. Bless these delegates in all of their efforts and grant that they may truly be servants of Thine, for therein lieth our greatness, when we may serve Thee and our fellow men. We beseech Thee that Thou wilt cause Thy favor to rest upon each and every delegate. Use them mightily to promote the cause of justice and freedom for men.

Pardon graciously our sins and favor us as a nation among the nations of the world and cause us to be a good example unto all of them. Pardon all that we do contrary to Thy heavenly will, and may Thy law serve as the guide of true worship; to love Thee above all else and our fellow men as ourselves. In Christ's name we ask it. VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Referred to the committee on rules and resolutions.

SECRETARY CHASE: That is all the resolutions on file, Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Third reading.

SECRETARY CHASE: On the third reading calendar this morning, article V, the executive branch, of the third reading document.

[Article V, sections 1 through 28, was read by the secretary. For text, see above, page 3057.]

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: The article has been read a third time.

SECRETARY CHASE: Mr. Cudlip, on behalf of the committee on style and drafting, requests that the following corrections be made in article V of the proposed revision of the constitution:

sec-	col-	tion	umn	line	Corrections
			3	1	47	After "senate [" change period to a comma.
			7	2	40	After "governor" insert "[,]".
			25	1	24	After "vest" insert a comma.
			25	1	29	After "[" insert a comma before "who"]".
			25	1	33	After "IN" strike out "THE".
			25	1	35	After "ELECT," insert "THE".
			25	1	36	After the first "ELECT," insert "THE".
			25	1	38-9	After "SHALL" strike out "IN THAT ORDER BECOME GOVERNOR" and insert "BECOME GOVERNOR IN THAT ORDER".

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Without objection, it is so ordered. [Corrections made above.] The secretary has an amendment on the desk, which he will read.

SECRETARY CHASE: Mrs. Cushman offers the following amendment:

1. Amend article V, section 9 (column 1, line 14) after "and" by inserting "shall"; so, beginning at line 10, the language will read: He may remove or suspend from office for gross neglect of duty or for corrupt conduct in office, or for any other misfeasance or malfeasance therein, any elective or appointive state officer, except legislative or judicial, and shall report the reasons for such removal or suspension to the legislature.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Mrs. Cushman.

MRS. CUSHMAN: Mr. President and fellow delegates, this, I believe, is in the nature of a perfecting amendment. I checked with Mr. Martin and he had no objection to it.

We noticed that up in line 10 it says, "He may remove," and I do believe the intent was, if he did remove, that he should report the reasons for the removal and if we do not put in the "shall" here, then that report goes back to "may;" so you would say that he may remove and he may report. I think the intent of the convention was that if he does remove he shall report the reasons for such removal.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: All in favor of the amendment will say aye. Opposed will say no.

The amendment is adopted. The secretary will read the next amendment.

SECRETARY CHASE: Mr. Higgs offers the following amendment:

1. Amend article V, section 28 (second column, following line 57) by adding a new paragraph to read as follows:

"Appeals from final orders of the commission, including cease and desist orders and refusals to issue complaints, shall be tried de novo before the circuit court of the state having jurisdiction provided by law."

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Mr. Higgs.

MR. HIGGS: Mr. President and fellow delegates, this particular sentence is proposed to be added to the civil rights commission article but in no way is to be substituted for or to change the wording of the provision as it is now approved by this convention.

The background of this particular sentence is actually a digest of MSA section 17.458 (8), a part of the Michigan state fair employment practices act. What is involved here is to provide an orderly method or an orderly procedure for appealing from orders of the commission. I think, in view of the experience that the state has had — which to my understanding has been satisfactory and approved by the people working with this commission — that this practice has been satisfactory and that this, in effect, will give greater significance and meaning to this particular article.

Explanation—Matter within [] is stricken, matter in capitals is new.

Now, of course, in view of the fact that we are actually writing into the constitution a commission, I think it is most significant that we pay as much attention to details as possible, and this is what led me to read and examine the Michigan fair employment practices act. This involves about 8 pages of statutory detail. I think that, actually, the commission that we have provided for in the constitution is as fairly complete as possible in constitutional language. There is a great deal that must be involved by way of implementation by the legislature. I would like, however, to give further direction and significance to this particular method of procedure, inasmuch as I think we have not provided or shown the way.

So that you will all understand just what is meant by the words in this sentence, this actually is a digest of about 3 or 4 times the language that appears in the section cited. The words "de novo," of course, mean a new trial. It means that a person who is really aggrieved has the opportunity to re-present his evidence before a court of law. However, this appeal procedure involves an appeal from the final order of the commission.

I think that, actually, according to my information, there are many matters that come before these commissions that do not involve a great deal by way of money. They do not involve a great deal by way of case or controversy in the ordinary sense, and probably the bulk of matters that will come before this commission will be handled by the commission satisfactorily to all parties. Now, in those instances where a party feels aggrieved, I think that his opportunity should be in the courts of the state.

It was my understanding that — before I offered this amendment I had made an effort to communicate as broadly as possible with interested persons in this convention and it seemed to me that there is substantial support here for this procedure, for these words, for this provision. I would like to yield the floor to those interested persons who would like to speak upon it.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Mr. Garvin.

MR. GARVIN: Mr. President and delegates, of course you know I have been interested in this particular section, section 28. I was somewhat concerned and still am about the last sentence in that section. However, it seems that over the 2 readings — and this is the third reading — the delegation is determined to keep it in.

In line with that, I believe that the amendment of Delegate Higgs is rather in line with the general intent to give the person aggrieved, whether he be plaintiff or defendant, the right to have a new trial before a court. "De novo" means "anew," which means that they shall try the case from the beginning, before the circuit court. I can have no objection to that addition to this particular section and I will not oppose it.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: The question is upon the amendment. Mr. Martin.

MR. MARTIN: Mr. President, Mr. Higgs' amendment has had a good deal of discussion. Mr. Garvin and a good many others have looked at it. It seems to be a reasonable addition and it does provide the same provisions, precisely, as the fair employment practices act on this matter. It requires a trial de novo on any matter that is appealed to the courts. I think it is probably a desirable amendment and I think the committee would favor it.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: The question is upon the amendment. Mr. Barthwell.

MR. BARTHWELL: Mr. President and fellow delegates, this puts the nonlawyer in a pretty bad position here. These big words "de novo" and all this stuff is kind of confusing. I have been trying to find out exactly what the lawyers are talking about, but to me this seems like a desirable amendment so I want to urge the delegates to vote yes for the amendment, please.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: The question is upon the amendment. All those in favor will say aye. Opposed will say no.

The amendment is adopted.

SECRETARY CHASE: Mr. Martin offers the following amendment:

1. Amend article V, section 20, (column 2, line 54) after "governor" by changing the period to a comma and inserting "with the advice and consent of the senate and from the same

SECRETARY CHASE: On the adoption of the amendment offered by Mr. Donald Doty, the yeas are 61; the nays are 72.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: The amendment is not adopted.

SECRETARY CHASE: Mr. Powell offers the following amendment:

1. Amend article V, section 28 (column 2, line 30) after "governor," by inserting "by and"; so the language will then read:

There is hereby established a civil rights commission which shall consist of eight persons, not more than four of whom shall be members of the same political party, who shall be appointed by the governor, by and with the advice and consent of the senate. . . .

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Is Mr. Powell in the room? Mr. Powell.

MR. POWELL: Mr. President and fellow delegates, I am sure this is not a substantive change. It does not make an iota of difference whether we add these words in there or not, but in our committee on style and drafting we were trying to standardize this phraseology and in this place, apparently, these 2 words were overlooked.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: The question is upon the amendment offered by Mr. Powell. Mr. Martin.

MR. MARTIN: No objection to that, Mr. President, to that change.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: All those in favor will say aye. Opposed will say no.

The amendment is adopted. That is all of the amendments, is it? Are there any further amendments?

SECRETARY CHASE: That is all.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: The question is upon the passage of article V —

MR. MARSHALL: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Mr. Marshall.

MR. MARSHALL: Mr. President and fellow delegates, it is with a great deal of reluctance that I feel compelled to have to speak against the adoption of this article and to urge a no vote. This is brought about, of course, by the refusal of the majority of the delegates in this convention to divide the questions where we could separate the rotten apples from the good ones, so we would have an opportunity to vote on those that we were in accord on and to vote against those that we were not in accord on; but, by the fact that this action was taken, many objectionable features are being crammed down the throats of the minority delegates to this convention.

I would like to take up a few words of the very esteemed and world renowned political scientist from Ann Arbor. He made the statement last night that it was incomprehensible — I think in debate on the floor last night — that it was incomprehensible to him how Delegate Downs or the minority could arrive at a decision to vote no after we had had the deliberative process of give and take in free debate. I want to say to this convention and for the record that precisely what we have not had is free debate in this deliberative body. You heard on the floor here a moment ago by Mr. Brake, Mr. Martin and others, discussion about the compromise, the agreement, the accommodation, the deal — call it what you may — that this was a part of it, and urging the delegates to stick to the deal that was worked out by the majority party. I can say to this convention —

MR. WALKER: Mr. President, a point of order, please.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: State the point.

MR. WALKER: I think it is bad enough that the delegates sell out their principles and convictions with a deal and a compromise, or what have you, but to have the floor of this convention sullied and the record of it sullied by further talk of such a deal is not right. (laughter)

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: You may proceed, Mr. Marshall.

MR. MARSHALL: Well, as I was saying when I was so rudely interrupted — call it what you may and, whether you have it in the record or you don't have it in the record, I think the people of the state are aware of what has taken place and I refer to it as an accommodation rather than a deal or an agreement.

There are features in this article that we were in accord on, many of them, the executive reorganization, the term of office for the governor, for the ad board people, the governor and the lieutenant governor running as a team. But on this question of the selection of the ad board, where we have 5 different ways of selecting our state officials as a result of the package deal that was worked out off the floor of this convention, it makes no sense to me whatsoever and I don't know of any precedent anywhere else in the country for this type of a hodgepodge that we have created here. I do not think that the delegates can justify the establishment of this so called highway commission, for one.

As I stated earlier in this convention, I am opposed to any further erosion of our democratic processes and I think the people of this state, the electorate, are intelligent enough to make their own selections at the ballot box when it comes time for selecting those who will serve them in government. I think we are making a grave mistake — a very serious and grave mistake — because there was no great demand on the part of the people of this state prior to the calling of this constitutional convention, or since, to do away with or to take away the right of the people to elect their state highway commissioner and other state officers. I think that this article — and this is why I am speaking against it and urging a no vote — makes a mockery of democracy, and I think if the delegates who are opposed to what was done, in particular as it relates to the highway commission, should vote no on this also, then we would have a chance to correct it and to take the necessary steps to correct these evils.

I can't agree with Dr. Pollock on the statement that he made. If we had had free debate on the floor of this convention on this question then I could go along with him, but I cannot go along with the statement, I cannot go along with what has been done, and the very fact — I know one of the delegates in this convention said to me when I asked him the question: why do we have to buy all of these rotten apples? Why can't we separate those we are in accord on and then debate only on those that are objectionable and those that we have violent disagreement on? I think the statement was that, obviously, the Republican party has come to the conclusion that the only way they can retain control is through the constitution because they don't think the people will accept their philosophy at the polls. Thank you.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: The secretary informs the Chair that there is one additional amendment, which is on the secretary's desk, which the secretary will now report.

SECRETARY CHASE: Mr. Wanger offers the following amendment to article V:

1. Amend article V, section 27 (second column, line 9) after "state" by striking out the comma; so the language will then read, ". . . and such other public works of the state as provided by law."

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Mr. Wanger.

MR. WANGER: Briefly, Mr. President and fellow delegates, this is a technical amendment. It is designed to perfect this last line and to remove that comma which could cause interpretation difficulties later on. It is felt that this is a section where we certainly should make it entirely clear and set it out with the clear intent that the phrase "as provided by law" merely modifies "and such other public works of the state." I yield at this time to Mr. Martin.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Mr. Martin.

MR. MARTIN: Mr. President, we have no objection to this amendment.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: The question is upon the amendment offered by Mr. Wanger. Mr. Staiger.

MR. STAIGER: I would ask a question of Mr. Wanger, if I could, through the Chair.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: If the gentleman cares to respond.

MR. STAIGER: Mr. Wanger, it seems to me that by leaving that comma in there, "as provided by law" would then modify "state trunkline highways and appurtenant facilities." Now for what reason do you want to just make that modify the last clause? I think we need flexibility in all 3 of these terms.

MR. WANGER: Well, it could be interpreted as going much farther than the words "state trunkline highways and appurtenant facilities." It could be interpreted as modifying the entire paragraph, since the entire paragraph is just one sentence and that is put on at the end. And that, of course, was clearly not the intent at any time. We have no inconvenience arising—even if it would not modify "state trunkline highways and appurtenant facilities"—because of the flexibility which is given here to "such other public works of the state."

MR. STAIGER: Well, it just seems to me that there is no harm done in letting that phrase modify that whole first clause and I would suggest that we leave it that way.

MR. WANGER: You want to have "as provided by law" modify the rest of the sentence; is that correct?

MR. STAIGER: Yes.

MR. WANGER: You would. Well, it would seem to me that that would entirely defeat the intent of the whole section, because that would mean it would not come into effect at all unless it were provided by law. This would mean that the section was not self executing. The whole purpose here is to have it be self executing and, therefore, I strongly urge you to vote for this amendment, to remove this difficulty.

It may be just a comma, but when we are writing a constitution a comma can make the difference between accomplishing what you intend and not accomplishing it, and that has been so interpreted in many cases in the past. So I strongly urge you to vote for this, to make the intent of this convention clear and, frankly, to avoid the interpretation which Delegate Staiger has suggested he would prefer.

MR. STAIGER: Do I still retain the floor, Mr. President?

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Yes.

MR. STAIGER: Well, using Mr. Wanger's interpretation, it would then read, "There is hereby established a state highway commission . . . as provided by law. Then it goes on to explain exactly who would be on the commission. I see no danger in that area. I think it is important to leave some flexibility in these words "all state trunkline highways and appurtenant facilities" and, for that reason, I think that we should leave the comma in there if it will give this interpretation of modifying those terms.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Mr. William Hanna.

MR. W. F. HANNA: Mr. President and fellow delegates, I would recommend that you defeat the Wanger amendment. We have, for the first time, written into this constitution the term "trunkline highways." Now this is already statutorily defined and we don't know what they are going to say a "trunkline highway" is, and if you adopt the Wanger amendment, we have got to go on in this constitution and define what we mean by a "trunkline highway." We cannot even leave that definition to the state law any more. Then we will have to go into this constitution and define "appurtenant facilities" because if we adopt the Wanger amendment they cannot define that by law. Then you would limit it to "public works" which would be the only thing that could be provided by law.

I think that the comma should stay so that the legislature can classify and provide and define what are "state trunkline highways," what are "appurtenant facilities" and, certainly, there is no problem; they will not give the state highway department anything that is not either a public work, a highway or appurtenant facility.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Mrs. Cushman.

MRS. CUSHMAN: No.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Mr. Stafseth.

MR. STAFSETH: Mr. President and fellow delegates, we have had a lot of discussion about this comma and what it does, but I will say this: that whether the comma, from a grammatical standpoint, should be in or not, in or out as far as the highway people are concerned, where it says "provided by law" as far as the past precedent, the statutes of the state describe where the trunklines are, they describe what a "trunkline" is, and if you leave the ability or this flexibility to define these things for the legislature, that is as it should be.

Now I would think if you took the comma out, it would only modify as to public works. Now, I am not enough of an English student to know that, but it has always been defined that way and for a very good purpose: one of the reasons that they want to specify what state trunklines are is so you don't get into the situation of having practically every road a state trunkline and diluting the whole fund. Actually, about 10 per cent of the roads in Michigan are state trunklines. About half the money is provided for the state trunklines and the reason for that is that 80 per cent of the traffic uses the state trunklines, so that you want to protect against a dilution of the funds for constructing the main arteries in the state.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Mr. Wanger.

MR. WANGER: Just briefly, the objection as raised to this amendment has merely to do with the words "state trunkline highways and appurtenant facilities." Now it seems to me that there is no danger of a restrictive interpretation here because of the fact that the legislature is, in the next clause, given the right to confer jurisdiction over "such other public works of the state," so there is no difficulty to speak of, in that section, with that problem but there is a big problem if you take the words "as provided by law" and have them modify the entire paragraph. There is a serious problem, the problem that the legislature, because of some interest group's activities over there or because of a great campaign, may decide not to provide for a highway commission at all, whether or not the constitution sets it up, because it is obvious that unless otherwise provided you cannot mandamus the legislature. Now that is the interpretation problem we are getting into and this amendment will clear it up. The other interpretation problem which the amendment would allegedly create is far less serious.

MR. DEHNKE: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Mr. Dehnke.

MR. DEHNKE: For the reason stated by Mr. William Hanna, I hope this amendment will not be adopted. I think the comma should stay in to reflect the intent of the convention.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: The question is upon the amendment offered by Mr. Wanger. All those in favor will say aye. All those opposed will say no.

The amendment is not adopted. The question now is upon the passage of article V. The Chair will recognize Mr. Stevens.

MR. STEVENS: Mr. President and fellow delegates, I suppose it is a matter of opinion and I will so stipulate. Regarding the remarks of Mr. Marshall, his term "objectionable" and so forth, it occurs to me that, in the opinion of many of us, those things which he thinks are objectionable are both desirable and wise and also good. So it becomes a matter of terminology and opinion. I cannot understand why he thinks that what he considers unnecessary or objectionable is necessarily so considered by everybody else.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Mr. Sterrett.

MR. STERRETT: Mr. President and delegates, the executive article that we are about to vote on, I feel, is a great improvement over the present constitution, the 1908 constitution. I believe we have put the responsibility where it belongs. We have properly made the various operations of state government accountable to the governor with the correct type of checks and balances by the legislature. This is definitely an improvement over the 1908 constitution. The only thing any delegate has to do here is to read the present constitution and he can see the improvement for himself.

The objection, mainly, that I have heard about the executive article is the advice and consent of the senate. We have talked about the malapportioned legislature. The committee on legislative organization has taken care of the so called malapportioned legislature, as I see it, and anybody that would go out and campaign against this new document would be completely ridiculous because it is an improvement over the 1908 constitution; and if they did campaign against this document they would not be telling the people the truth and they would not be serving the people in a just manner as a delegate of this constitutional convention.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Mr. Van Dusen.

MR. VAN DUSEN: Mr. President, I doubt that further debate is going to be significantly contributive. I would move to limit it to 5 minutes on the article.

MR. DOWNS: May I —

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: The Chair has 5 speakers — 6 with Mr. Downs.

MR. DOWNS: May I make a preferential motion —

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Yes.

MR. DOWNS: — that that be 2½ minutes a speaker?

MR. VAN DUSEN: I will accede to Mr. Downs — could you make it 2 minutes? That would make the total 10. (laughter) I would move, Mr. President, to limit debate to 10 minutes, 2 minutes a speaker.

MR. MARSHALL: Point of order, Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: What's the point, Mr. Marshall?

MR. MARSHALL: I object to the official timekeeper and Delegate Downs working out a deal on the floor of this convention. (laughter)

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Mr. Van Dusen moves that debate be limited to 10 minutes upon the article. All those in favor will say aye. Opposed will say no.

The motion prevails. The Chair recognizes Mr. Garry Brown.

MR. G. E. BROWN: Mr. President and members of the convention, I will not take 2 minutes, but in view of Mr. Marshall's remarks — I think that they should be answered, although there are some things on which I might agree with Mr. Marshall — I would say this: that his criticism of accommodations and deals, or whatever you want to call them, and his assumption of a "holier than thou" attitude is rather nauseating, especially in view of the accommodation that was made off the floor on the issue that was before us last evening. Deals, accommodations, what have you, as undesirable as they may be, are better made by delegates to this convention than effected by legislative lobbyists from across the street.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Mr. Blandford.

MR. BLANDFORD: Mr. President and fellow delegates, Delegate Marshall, in urging a no vote on article V, I feel, wandered far afield from the actual article — which, of course, has been his custom. I urge a yes vote on article V and will wander somewhat afield myself. I think we have seen on the floor of this convention the last 7½ months an old political trick, and that is to accuse the other fellow of something that you are guilty of yourself. We have seen the Democrats, the minority party on this floor, aghast that the Republicans have made a deal. They have been dealing ever since this convention started. All we have to look at is the search and seizure vote and every ballot that we have had and we know where the dealing has been taking place.

I think if the Republicans have been guilty of anything on this floor it is that we have been guilty of restraint. We have listened to the ravings of the Democratic party on practically every item. We have been called the "handmaidens of big business." We have been called "rotten apples." It has been said that we have tried to gag debate — I remember one delegate taking 4 hours to explain his apportionment plan. I remember many hours on search and seizure. As I say, if the Republicans have been guilty of anything it has been that we have been guilty of restraint.

I realize that the minority party cannot understand the workings of the Republican party. Being dominated by one group, they do not have to work together in order to come up with a good conclusion. We don't operate that way. We have many divergent people in the Republican party of which I am proud and of which I am one of them. I certainly hope that the Republican party stays that way —

MR. BINKOWSKI: Point of order.

MR. BLANDFORD: — that we will never be dominated —

MR. BINKOWSKI: Point of order.

MR. BLANDFORD: — and we will work together to make this a great constitution.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Mr. Binkowski raises a point of order.

MR. BLANDFORD: Thank you.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: The point comes too late. He is all through talking. (laughter) Judge Shaffer.

MR. SHAFFER: Mr. President, I simply want to ask Mr. Martin a question here, if there isn't a mistake in printing in the last line in section 28 of article V, the last sentence, "Nothing contained in this section shall be construed to diminish the right of any party to direct and immediate legal or equitable remedies. . . ." What does "and" mean in there? Do you mean: comma? "Direct," comma, "immediate legal or equitable remedies?" Or appropriate?

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Mr. Martin.

MR. MARTIN: Mr. Shaffer, I don't know what the author of the amendment had in mind by the "and." I assume that the "and" is simply to make it a little more emphatic that there should be some "direct and immediate" legal remedies. I have been in doubt about the effect of this section from the beginning but I don't think it does any harm to the section.

MR. DEHNKE: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Mr. Martin has the floor. Do you want to be recognized in the speaking list?

MR. DEHNKE: Yes.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Mr. Martin is recognized next.

MR. MARTIN: Mr. President, I don't want to say anything more than that this article V contains, in my judgment, some of the very most important provisions in the new constitution and I don't know what the Democrat minority has in mind in consistently recommending that their members vote no on each of these provisions. I assume they intend to offer some provisions of their own and then if those don't pass, I am not sure whether they are proposing to work against the entire constitution or not. But I don't think that a no vote against this entire article can be interpreted in any other way than that you are opposed to the article as a whole.

I certainly would urge the members of the minority to vote their convictions on this particular article of the constitution because it does contain some of the very important provisions. I hope that the recommendations of the leadership of the minority will not be accepted and that the members of the minority will vote as their conscience and their judgment dictate, and not as their leadership requests them to do.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Mr. Dehnke. Mr. Dehnke passes. Mr. T. S. Brown.

MR. T. S. BROWN: Mr. President and fellow delegates, I should like to add my little part to what Bill Marshall has already said, except in a different vein.

I do not consider that this article represents either a philosophical orientation of any sort or a compromise between philosophical orientations. As a result of having 4 or 5 different ways of selecting the people who will run the administrative branch of our government, we have no internal consistency and no internal integrity within the executive branch. For this particular reason, regardless of politics — whether you are a Republican or a Democrat, whether you consider that this will be a liberal document or a conservative document or a good, efficient document — there is no internal consistency and, therefore, this matter must obviously continue in a halting fashion in the years to come.

If this document were completely liberal or completely conservative and if it would articulate, one part with the other, then I would say it at least represents a certain point of view. But since this does not and since it is not by any stretch of the imagination a compromise, I therefore urge the nonadoption of this particular article.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Miss Hart.

MISS HART: Mr. President and fellow delegates, Mr. Martin should not be surprised at the position that the minority party is taking on this on the floor today because the minority party took the position very consistently on the executive committee. It should be no surprise to anyone—the press, the league of women voters, the observers and fellow members on that committee—of where we stood on these issues.

There seems to be a notion abroad that every morning the Democrats are given a list: 1, 2, 3; a, b, c, and with a yes and a no after each number. This convention blinded the board in the hope that the minority might be confused. The minority has voted consistently, as it would have done had the board been open, because the minority operates on a philosophy of government and there is very little problem as far as we are concerned as to where we stand on these issues; so let's stop talking about unseen forces and let's get on with the business of finishing what we have to do this week.

We do not object to the majority taking the positions they take. This is their right to represent the people who sent them here. By the same token the minority has the same right: to represent the people that sent it here. So let's stop all of the innuendoes and let's get on with the business of this convention and rid ourselves of nonsense. Let's at least be friends while we disagree.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Mr. Hodges.

MR. HODGES: Mr. President, I, as a member of the minority, plead guilty to the charge that the Democratic party is dominated by one group: the majority of the people in the state of Michigan who have elected the Democratic party for the past 14 years. After the wheeling and dealing that has been done in this convention, I am safely confident that it will be elected for the next 14 years. (applause)

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Mr. Madar.

MR. MADAR: Mr. President, when I first came up here and before having come up here, I campaigned on promises that I made to those people who I represent. Now, as far as I am concerned, the campaigning for 1962 opened today when Mr. Blandford got up and said what he did.

I don't mind telling you that so far as I am concerned, I was with the Republican party for 34 years and I watched some of its leaders sit there and decide on how they were going to ruin the state of Michigan so that they could defeat Williams. They didn't care what they did to the state: let's kill Williams off no matter what we do to Michigan.

MR. G. E. BROWN: That's not germane to the issue.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Mr. Downs.

MR. DOWNS: Mr. President and fellow delegates, I shall try to speak on the article very briefly—

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Order, please.

MR. DOWNS: First of all, I rise to urge a no vote on this article for 3 specific reasons: the first is that this builds in a conflict between the chief executive and the senate. The people had high hopes that this convention would change that conflict. From looking at the apportionment problem with advice and consent, I believe there will be 12 to 15 Democrats, 26 to 23 Republicans which, with advice and consent and the sudden death, 60 day concept, builds in a conflict if there is a Democrat governor. If there should, within the 50 years, be a Republican governor, he will find the same conflict with the Republican branch that was found before. Secondly, we have discussed elected versus appointed officials. I have favored elected but have recognized the arguments for the appointed. This change in the ad board provides neither elected nor appointed by the governor. The highway commissioner is selected on a hodgepodge system responsible to everybody and nobody and does not have the advantage of either elected or gubernatorial appointment. The treasurer is not appointed by the governor without advice and consent but requires that. And thirdly, on the executive budget part, I just wish to point out that the governor in conjunction with the legislature must cut expenditures on unearmarked items—and this would mean education, welfare, social services that are unearmarked—at the very times when the need was greatest, when state revenue went down. I urge a no vote.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Time for debate has expired. The question is upon the passage of article V, as amended. All those in favor will vote aye. All those opposed will vote no.

MR. YEAGER: Mr. President, I wish to announce my abstention.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Mr. Yeager abstains. Have you all voted? Miss Donnelly abstains. If so, the secretary will lock the machine and record the vote. Mr. Shanahan abstains.

The roll was called and the delegates voted as follows:

SECRETARY CHASE: On the passage of article V, as amended, the yeas are 91; the nays are 39.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: A majority of the delegates elect having voted in favor thereof, article V, as amended, is passed.

For sections 1 through 8 and 10 through 27 of article V as passed, see above, page 3057.

Following is section 9 of article V, as amended and passed:

Sec. 9. The governor shall have power and it shall be his duty to inquire into the condition and administration of any public office and the acts of any public officer, elective or appointive. He may remove or suspend from office for gross neglect of duty or for corrupt conduct in office, or for any other misfeasance or malfeasance therein, any elective or appointive state officer, except legislative or judicial, and shall report the reasons for such removal or suspension to the legislature.

Following is section 28 of article V, as amended and passed:

Sec. 28. There is hereby established a civil rights commission which shall consist of eight persons, not more than four of whom shall be members of the same political party, who shall be appointed by the governor, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, for four-year terms not more than two of which shall expire in the same year. It shall be the duty of the commission in a manner which may be prescribed by law to investigate alleged discrimination against any person because of religion, race, color or national origin in the enjoyment of the civil rights guaranteed by law and by this constitution, and to secure the equal protection of such civil rights without such discrimination. The legislature shall provide an annual appropriation for the effective operation of the commission.

The commission shall have power, in accordance with the provisions of this constitution and of general laws governing administrative agencies, to promulgate rules and regulations for its own procedures, to hold hearings, administer oaths, through court authorization to require the attendance of witnesses and the submission of records, to take testimony, and to issue appropriate orders. The commission shall have other powers provided by law to carry out its purposes. Nothing contained in this section shall be construed to diminish the right of any party to direct and immediate legal or equitable remedies in the courts of this state.

Appeals from final orders of the commission, including cease and desist orders and refusals to issue complaints, shall be tried de novo before the circuit court of the state having jurisdiction provided by law.

Following is explanation of vote submitted by Messrs. Austin, Sablich, Bradley, Wilkowski, Downs, Hodges, Madar, Marshall, Walker, Stopczynski, Young, Faxon, Buback, T. S. Brown, Baginski, Binkowski and Miss Hart:

We voted no on article V, the executive branch, because this builds in the conflict between the governor and the state senate. The executive cannot make a single appointment under this article without the advice and consent of the senate — a senate which does not and can not represent people because of the lack of equitable apportionment. Thus, the governor is restricted and limited and must make decisions on appointments on the basis of confirmability with an actual minority, rather than ability to serve the people of the state.

The present elected highway commissioner has been replaced by a 4 headed bipartisan staggered body, selected with advice and consent, that in turn selects a director. This has neither the advantages of an elected system, nor that of an appointed system directly by the governor. Michigan's present superior highway system can seriously suffer from this unwarranted change.

The state treasurer is no longer elected, but is appointed with advice and consent, and as such will be subject to control in appointment by a majority of the legislators representing a minority of the people of the state. The section dealing on the executive budget (section 19) will practically mandate the governor to reduce expenditures in unearmarked areas if state revenues decline, with the approval of legislative appropriating committees. This too will be a built in conflict between a governor with social responsibilities and a legislative committee that is not truly representative of all the people.

Because highways and local units of government have earmarked funds, whereas schools and social services do not, there will be terrific pressures in a period of economic decline, when tax revenues are least and social needs are the greatest, for the governor to cut expenditures for legislation, mental health, education, and social services to meet requirements of this section.

We, therefore, voted no on this article.

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON (continuing): The secretary will read article VI, judicial branch.

SECRETARY CHASE: Article VI, judicial branch:

[Article VI, sections 1 through 29, was read by the secretary. For the text, see above, page 3060.]

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Article VI has been read a third time.

SECRETARY CHASE: Mr. Cudlip, on behalf of the committee on style and drafting, requests that the following corrections be made in article VI of the proposed revision of the constitution:

section	column	line	Corrections
2	1	57	After "[except]" delete "that".
2	1	57	Change "ANY" to "Any".
10	1	3	After "[" insert "as".
18	2	38	After "court" insert "[such]".
18	2	38	At end of line, change "an" to "AN".

SECRETARY CHASE: Mr. W. F. Hanna [and Mr. Higgs] offers the following amendment:

1. Amend article VI, section 26 (first column, line 39) after "jurisdiction" by inserting a comma and "compensation"; so the language will read, "Their jurisdiction, compensation and powers within this period shall be as provided by law."

VICE PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON: Mr. Hanna.

MR. W. F. HANNA: Mr. President and fellow delegates, I want to raise a problem which, unfortunately, I did not catch on first or second reading and it was not until we were going over this matter carefully in style and drafting last week that I saw what I believe to be a serious problem and a serious inconsistency, and I bring it to the attention of the convention. We have provided that upon the adoption of this constitution, or the effective date of this constitution, that no judicial officer shall be compensated by fees or anything based upon the volume of his business, but it is said that he must be paid a salary. We now then come to section 26, where we have continued in office these offices of circuit court commissioner and justice of the peace, which are in fact officers that in the main have been compensated by fees of their office and dependent upon the volume of activity.

Now I want to raise 3 problems with this conflict as I see it: first is the practical impossibility, if this constitution goes into effect on January first of a given year. In the townships the fiscal year is from April 1 to April 1, and in counties the fiscal year will have commenced before the effective date of the constitution. There will be no money appropriated; there will be no money out of which you can pay circuit court commissioners a salary or a justice of the peace a salary. Therefore, you are asking these people to serve completely without compensation. Secondly, under the present state law, each township elects 2 justices of the peace. Certainly, you will have to provide in all due process that the 2 justices will receive the same salary. And in many, many, many townships that have 2 justices, one justice maintains an active calendar and open docket and the other has no open calendar, no docket, and is purely an honorary type of office. To set a salary commensurate for these 2 men that is the same immediately penalizes the man who has been doing the work and benefits the man who does not do the work, and so far there is nothing in this constitution that makes a justice of the peace maintain a docket, hold office, or perform any judicial function. Therefore, until this whole matter can be worked out, this man can sit there and draw a salary and not do anything. So that you have a practical fiscal problem in the efforts to do this.

Now, the second problem that I want to raise is breach of contract. We have elsewhere provided in this constitution that you

Sec. 20. In every criminal prosecution, the accused shall have the right to a speedy and public trial by an impartial jury, which may consist of less than 12 jurors in all courts not of record; to be informed of the nature of the accusation; to be confronted with the witnesses against him; to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor; to have the assistance of counsel for his defense; to have an appeal as a matter of right; and in courts of record, when the trial court so orders, to have such reasonable assistance as may be necessary to perfect and prosecute an appeal.

Sec. 21. No person shall be imprisoned for debt arising out of or founded on contract, express or implied, except in cases of fraud or breach of trust.

Sec. 22. Treason against the state shall consist only in levying war against it or in adhering to its enemies, giving them aid and comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason unless upon the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act or on confession in open court.

Article II Elections

Sec. 1. Every citizen of the United States who has attained the age of 21 years, who has resided in this state six months, and who meets the requirements of local residence provided by law, shall be an elector and qualified to vote in any election except as otherwise provided in this constitution. The legislature shall define residence for voting purposes.

Sec. 2. The legislature may by law exclude persons from voting because of mental incompetence or commitment to a jail or penal institution.

Sec. 3. For purposes of voting in the election for president and vice-president of the United States only, the legislature may by law establish lesser residence requirements for citizens who have resided in this state for less than six months and may waive residence requirements for former citizens of this state who have removed herefrom. The legislature shall not permit voting by any person who meets the voting residence requirements of the state to which he has removed.

Sec. 4. The legislature shall enact laws to regulate the time, place and manner of all nominations and elections, except as otherwise provided in this constitution or in the constitution and laws of the United States. The legislature shall enact laws to preserve the purity of elections, to preserve the secrecy of the ballot, to guard against abuses of the elective franchise, and to provide for a system of voter registration and absentee voting. No law shall be enacted which permits a candidate in any partisan primary or partisan election to have a ballot designation except when required for identification of candidates for the same office who have the same or similar surnames.

Sec. 5. Except for special elections to fill vacancies, or as otherwise provided in this constitution, all elections for national, state, county and township offices shall be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November in each even-numbered year or on such other date as members of the congress of the United States are regularly elected.

Sec. 6. Whenever any question is required to be submitted by a political subdivision to the electors which involves the increase of any ad valorem tax rate limitation for a period of more than five years, or the issue of bonds, only electors in, and who have property assessed for any ad valorem taxes in, any part of the district or territory to be affected by the result of such election or electors who are the lawful husbands or wives of such persons shall be entitled to vote thereon. All electors in the district or territory affected may vote on all other questions.

Sec. 7. A board of state canvassers of four members shall be established by law. No candidate for an office to be canvassed nor any inspector of elections shall be eligible to serve as a member of a board of canvassers. A majority of any board of canvassers shall not be composed of members of the same political party.

Sec. 8. Laws shall be enacted to provide for the recall of all elective officers except judges of courts of record upon petition of electors equal in number to 25 percent of the number of persons voting in the last preceding election for the office of governor in the electoral district of the officer sought to be recalled. The sufficiency of any statement of reasons or grounds procedurally required shall be a political rather than a judicial question.

Sec. 9. The people reserve to themselves the power to propose laws and to enact and reject laws, called the initiative, and the power to approve or reject laws enacted by the legislature, called the referendum. The power of initiative extends only to laws which the legislature may enact under this constitution. The power of referendum does not extend to acts making appropriations for state institutions or to meet deficiencies in state funds and must be invoked in the manner prescribed by law within 90 days following the final adjournment of the legislative session at which the law was enacted. To invoke the initiative or referendum, petitions signed by a number of registered electors, not less than eight percent for initiative and five percent for referendum of the total vote cast for all candidates for governor at the last preceding general election at which a governor was elected shall be required.

No law as to which the power of referendum properly has been invoked shall be effective thereafter unless approved by a majority of the electors voting thereon at the next general election.

Any law proposed by initiative petition shall be either enacted or rejected by the legislature without change or amendment within 40 session days from the time such petition is received by the legislature. If any law proposed by such petition shall be enacted by the legislature it shall be subject to referendum, as hereinafter provided.

If the law so proposed is not enacted by the legislature within the 40 days, the state officer authorized by law shall submit such proposed law to the people for approval or rejection at the next general election. The legislature may reject any measure so proposed by initiative petition and propose a different measure upon the same subject by a yea and nay vote upon separate roll calls, and in such event both measures shall be submitted by such state officer to the electors for approval or rejection at the next general election.

Any law submitted to the people by either initiative or referendum petition and approved by a majority of the votes cast thereon at any election shall take effect 10 days after the date of the official declaration of the vote. No law initiated or adopted by the people shall be subject to the veto power of the governor, and no law adopted by the people at the polls under the initiative provisions of this section shall be amended or repealed, except by a vote of the electors or three-fourths of the members elected to and serving in each house of the legislature. Laws approved by the people under the referendum provision of this section may be amended by the legislature at any subsequent session thereof. If two or more measures approved by the electors at the same election conflict, that receiving the highest affirmative vote shall prevail.

The legislature shall implement the provisions of this section.

Article III

General Government

Sec. 1. The seat of government shall be at Lansing.

Sec. 2. The powers of government are divided into three branches: legislative, executive and judicial. No person exercising powers of one branch shall exercise powers properly belonging to another branch except as expressly provided in this constitution.

Sec. 4. The militia shall be organized, equipped and disciplined as provided by law.

Sec. 5. Subject to provisions of general law, this state or any political subdivision, any governmental authority or any combination thereof may enter into agreements for the performance, financing or execution of their respective functions, with any one or more of the other states, the United States, the Dominion of Canada, or any political subdivision thereof unless otherwise provided in this constitution. Any other provision of this constitution notwithstanding, an officer or employee of the state or of any such unit of government or subdivision or agency thereof may serve on or with any governmental body established for the purposes set forth in this section and shall not be required to relinquish his office or employment by reason of such service. The legislature may impose such restrictions, limitations or conditions on such service as it may deem appropriate.

Sec. 6. The state shall not be a party to, nor be financially interested in, any work of internal improvement, nor engage in carrying on any such work, except for public internal improvements provided by law.

Sec. 7. The common law and the statute laws now in force, not repugnant to this consti-

Sec. 8. Either house of the legislature or the governor may request the opinion of the supreme court on important questions of law upon solemn occasions as to the constitutionality of legislation after it has been enacted into law but before its effective date.

Article IV Legislative Branch

Sec. 1. The legislative power of the State of Michigan is vested in a senate and a house of representatives.

Sec. 2. The senate shall consist of 38 members to be elected from single member districts at the same election as the governor for four-year terms concurrent with the term of office of the governor.

In districting the state for the purpose of electing senators after the official publication of the total population count of each federal decennial census, each county shall be assigned an apportionment factor equal to the sum of its percentage of the state's population as shown by the last regular federal decennial census computed to the nearest one-one hundredth of one percent multiplied by four and its percentage of the state's land area computed to the nearest one-one hundredth of one percent.

In arranging the state into senatorial districts, the apportionment commission shall be governed by the following rules:

(1) Counties with 13 or more apportionment factors shall be entitled as a class to senators in the proportion that the total apportionment factors of such counties bear to the total apportionment factors of the state computed to the nearest whole number. After each such county has been allocated one senator, the remaining senators to which this class of counties is entitled shall be distributed among such counties by the method of equal proportions applied to the apportionment factors.

(2) Counties having less than 13 apportionment factors shall be entitled as a class to senators in the proportion that the total apportionment factors of such counties bear to the total apportionment factors of the state computed to the nearest whole number. Such counties shall thereafter be arranged into senatorial districts that are compact, convenient, and contiguous by land, as rectangular in shape as possible, and having as nearly as possible 13 apportionment factors, but in no event less than 10 or more than 16. Insofar as possible, existing senatorial districts at the time of reapportionment shall not be altered unless there is a failure to comply with the above standards.

(3) Counties entitled to two or more senate districts shall be divided into single member districts. The population of such districts shall be as nearly equal as possible but shall not be less than 75 percent nor more than 125 percent of a number determined by dividing the population of the county by the number of senators to which it is entitled. Each such district shall follow incorporated city or township boundary lines to the extent possible and shall be compact, contiguous, and as nearly uniform in shape as possible.

Sec. 3. The house of representatives shall consist of 110 members elected for two-year terms from single member districts apportioned on a basis of population as provided in this article. The districts shall consist of compact and convenient territory contiguous by land.

Each county which has a population of not less than seven-tenths of one percent of the population of the state shall constitute a separate representative area. Each county having less than seven-tenths of one percent of the population of the state shall be combined with another county or counties to form a representative area of not less than seven-tenths of one percent of the population of the state. Any county which is isolated under the initial allocation as provided in this section shall be joined with that contiguous representative area having the smallest percentage of the state's population. Each such representative area shall be entitled initially to one representative.

After the assignment of one representative to each of the representative areas, the remaining house seats shall be apportioned among the representative areas on the basis of population by the method of equal proportions.

Any county comprising a representative area entitled to two or more representatives shall be divided into single member representative districts as follows:

(1) The population of such districts shall be as nearly equal as possible but shall not be less than 75 percent nor more than 125 percent of a number determined by dividing the population of the representative area by the number of representatives to which it is entitled.

(2) Such single member districts shall follow city and township boundaries where applicable and shall be composed of compact and contiguous territory as nearly square in shape as possible.

Any representative area consisting of more than one county, entitled to more than one representative, shall be divided into single member districts as equal as possible in population adhering to county lines.

Sec. 4. In counties having more than one representative or senatorial district, the territory in the same county annexed to or merged with a city between apportionments shall become a part of a contiguous representative or senatorial dis-

1 | trict in the city with which it is combined, if
2 | provided by ordinance of the city. The district
3 | or districts with which the territory shall be
4 | combined shall be determined by such ordinance
5 | certified to the secretary of state. No such change
6 | in the boundaries of a representative or senatorial
7 | district shall have the effect of removing a legis-
8 | lator from office during his term.

9 | Sec. 5. Island areas are considered to be con-
10 | tiguous by land to the county of which they are
11 | a part.

12 | Sec. 6. A commission on legislative apportion-
13 | ment is hereby established consisting of eight
14 | persons, four of whom shall be selected by the
15 | state organizations of each of the two political
16 | parties whose candidates for governor received
17 | the highest vote at the last general election at
18 | which a governor was elected preceding each ap-
19 | portionment. If a candidate for governor of a third
20 | political party has received at such election more
21 | than 25 percent of such gubernatorial vote, the
22 | commission shall consist of 12 members, four of
23 | whom shall be selected by the state organization of
24 | the third political party. One member of the com-
25 | mission shall be selected by each political party or-
26 | ganization from each of the following four regions:
27 | (1) The upper peninsula; (2) The northern part of
28 | the lower peninsula, north of a line drawn along
29 | the northern boundaries of the counties of Bay,
30 | Midland, Isabella, Mecosta, Newaygo and Oceana;
31 | (3) Southwestern Michigan, those counties south
32 | of region (2) and west of a line drawn along
33 | the western boundaries of the counties of Bay,
34 | Saginaw, Shiawassee, Ingham, Jackson and Hills-
35 | dale; (4) Southeastern Michigan, the remaining
36 | counties of the state.

37 | No officers or employees of the federal, state
38 | or local governments, excepting notaries public
39 | and members of the armed forces reserve, shall
40 | be eligible for membership on the commission.
41 | Members of the commission shall not be eligible
42 | for election to the legislature until two years after
43 | the apportionment in which they participated
44 | becomes effective.

45 | The commission shall be appointed immediately
46 | after the adoption of this constitution and when-
47 | ever apportionment or districting of the legislature
48 | is required by the provisions of this constitution.
49 | Members of the commission shall hold office until
50 | each apportionment or districting plan becomes
51 | effective. Vacancies shall be filled in the same
52 | manner as for original appointment.

53 | The secretary of state shall be secretary of
54 | the commission without vote, and in that capacity
55 | shall furnish, under the direction of the commis-
56 | sion, all necessary technical services. The com-
57 | mission shall elect its own chairman, shall make
58 | its own rules of procedure, and shall receive com-
59 | pensation provided by law. The legislature shall
60 | appropriate funds to enable the commission to carry out its activities.

1 | Within 30 days after the adoption of this con-
2 | stitution, and after the official total population
3 | count of each federal decennial census of the state
4 | and its political subdivisions is available, the se-
5 | cretary of state shall issue a call convening the
6 | commission not less than 30 nor more than 45
7 | days thereafter. The commission shall complete
8 | its work within 180 days after all necessary census
9 | information is available. The commission shall
10 | proceed to district and apportion the senate and
11 | house of representatives according to the provi-
12 | sions of this constitution. All final decisions shall
13 | require the concurrence of a majority of the mem-
14 | bers of the commission. The commission shall hold
15 | public hearings as may be provided by law.

16 | Each final apportionment and districting plan
17 | shall be published as provided by law within 30
18 | days from the date of its adoption and shall be-
19 | come law 60 days after publication. The secre-
20 | tary of state shall keep a public record of all the
21 | proceedings of the commission and shall be re-
22 | sponsible for the publication and distribution of
23 | each plan.

24 | If a majority of the commission cannot agree
25 | on a plan, each member of the commission, indi-
26 | vidualy or jointly with other members, may sub-
27 | mit a proposed plan to the supreme court. The
28 | supreme court shall determine which plan com-
29 | plies most accurately with the constitutional re-
30 | quirements and shall direct that it be adopted
31 | by the commission and published as provided
32 | in this section.

33 | Upon the application of any elector filed not
34 | later than 60 days after final publication of the
35 | plan, the supreme court, in the exercise of origi-
36 | nal jurisdiction, shall direct the secretary of
37 | state or the apportionment commission to per-
38 | form their duties, may review any final plan
39 | adopted by the commission, and shall remand
40 | such plan to the commission for further action
41 | if it fails to comply with the requirements of
42 | this constitution.

43 | Sec. 7. Each senator and representative
44 | must be a citizen of the United States, at least
45 | 21 years of age, and an elector of the district
46 | he represents. The removal of his domicile from
47 | the district shall be deemed a vacation of the
48 | office. No person who has been convicted of sub-
49 | version or who has within the preceding 20 years
50 | been convicted of a felony involving a breach
51 | of public trust shall be eligible for either house
52 | of the legislature.

53 | Sec. 8. No person holding any office under the
54 | United States or this state or a political subdivi-
55 | sion thereof, except notaries public and officers
56 | of the armed forces reserve, may be a member of
57 | either house of the legislature.

58 | Sec. 9. No person elected to the legislature
59 | shall receive any civil appointment within this

1 state from the governor, except notaries public,
2 from the legislature, or from any other state
3 authority, during the term for which he is elected.

4 Sec. 10. No member of the legislature nor any 5 state officer shall be interested directly or in-6 directly in any contract with the state or any 7 political subdivision thereof which shall cause a
8 substantial conflict of interest. The legislature
9 shall further implement this provision by appro-
10 priate legislation.

11 Sec. 11. Senators and representatives shall be 12 privileged from civil arrest and civil process dur-
13 ing sessions of the legislature and for five days
14 next before the commencement and after the 15 termination thereof. They shall not be ques-
16 tioned in any other place for any speech in either
17 house.

18 Sec. 12. The compensation and expense al-
19 lowances of the members of the legislature shall 20 be determined by law. Changes in compensation
21 or expense allowances shall become effective only 22 when legislators commence their terms of office
23 after a general election.

24 Sec. 13. The legislature shall meet at the seat
25 of government on the second Wednesday in Janu-
26 ary of each year at twelve o'clock noon. Each
27 regular session shall adjourn without day, on a 28 day determined by concurrent resolution, at 29 twelve o'clock noon. Any business, bill or joint 30 resolution pending at the final adjournment of 31 a regular session held in an odd numbered year
32 shall carry over with the same status to the 33 next regular session.

34 Sec. 14. A majority of the members elected
35 to and serving in each house shall constitute a 36 quorum to do business. A smaller number in 37 each house may adjourn from day to day, and 38 may compel the attendance of absent members in 39 the manner and with penalties as each house may 40 prescribe.

41 Sec. 15. There shall be a bi-partisan legisla-
42 tive council consisting of legislators appointed in 43 the manner prescribed by law. The legislature
44 shall appropriate funds for the council's opera-
45 tions and provide for its staff which shall main-
46 tain bill drafting, research and other services
47 for the members of the legislature. The council 48 shall periodically examine and recommend to the 49 legislature revision of the various laws of the 50 state.

51 Sec. 16. Each house, except as otherwise pro-
52 vided in this constitution, shall choose its own
53 officers and determine the rules of its proceedings,
54 but shall not adopt any rule that will prevent a 55 majority of the members elected thereto and 56 serving therein from discharging a committee
57 from the further consideration of any measure.
58 Each house shall be the sole judge of the quali-
59 fications, elections and returns of its members, 60 and may, with the concurrence of two-thirds of

1 all the members elected thereto and serving
2 therein, expel a member. The reasons for such 3 expulsion shall be entered in the journal, with 4 the votes and names of the members voting upon
5 the question. No member shall be expelled a
6 second time for the same cause.

7 Sec. 17. Each house of the legislature may 8 establish the committees necessary for the effi-
9 cient conduct of its business and the legislature
10 may create joint committees. Each committee
11 shall by roll call vote record the vote and name 12 of all action on bills and resolutions taken in 13 the committee. Such vote shall be available for 14 public inspection. Notice of all committee hear-15 ings and a clear statement of all subjects to be 16 considered at each hearing shall be published in 17 the journal in advance of the hearing.

18 Sec. 18. Each house shall keep a journal of 19 its proceedings, and publish the same unless the 20 public security otherwise requires. The record
21 of the vote and name of the members of either
22 house voting on any question shall be entered 23 in the journal at the request of one-fifth of the 24 members present. Any member of either house
25 may dissent from and protest against any act,
26 proceeding or resolution which he deems injuri-
27 ous to any person or the public, and have the 28 reason for his dissent entered in the journal.

29 Sec. 19. All elections in either house or in 30 joint convention and all votes on appointments
31 submitted to the senate for advice and consent
32 shall be published by vote and name in the journal.

33 Sec. 20. The doors of each house shall be open
34 unless the public security otherwise requires.

35 Sec. 21. Neither house shall, without the con-
36 sent of the other, adjourn for more than two 37 intervening calendar days, nor to any place other 38 than where the legislature may then be in session.

39 Sec. 22. All legislation shall be by bill and 40 may originate in either house.

41 Sec. 23. The style of the laws shall be: The 42 People of the State of Michigan enact.

43 Sec. 24. No law shall embrace more than one
44 object, which shall be expressed in its title. No
45 bill shall be altered or amended on its passage
46 through either house so as to change its original 47 purpose as determined by its total content and 48 not alone by its title.

49 Sec. 25. No law shall be revised, altered or 50 amended by reference to its title only. The section
51 or sections of the act altered or amended shall 52 be re-enacted and published at length.

53 Sec. 26. No bill shall be passed or become a 54 law at any regular session of the legislature until 55 it has been printed or reproduced and in the pos-
56 session of each house for at least five days. Every 57 bill shall be read three times in each house be-58 fore the final passage thereof. No bill shall be-59 come a law without the concurrence of a majority 60 of the members elected to and serving in each house. On the final passage of bills, the votes and names of the members voting thereon shall be entered in the journal.

Sec. 27. No act shall take effect until the expiration of 90 days from the end of the session at which it was passed, but the legislature may give immediate effect to acts by a two-thirds vote of the members elected to and serving in each house.

Sec. 28. When the legislature is convened on extraordinary occasions in special session no bill shall be passed on any subjects other than those expressly stated in the governor's proclamation or submitted by special message.

Sec. 29. The legislature shall pass no local or special act in any case where a general act can be made applicable, and whether a general act can be made applicable shall be a judicial question. No local or special act shall take effect until approved by two-thirds of the members elected to and serving in each house and by a majority of the electors voting thereon in the district affected. Any act repealing local or special acts shall require only a majority of the members elected to and serving in each house and shall not require submission to the electors of such district.

Sec. 30. The assent of two-thirds of the members elected to and serving in each house of the legislature shall be required for the appropriation of public money or property for local or private purposes.

They shall be grouped as far as practicable according to major purposes.

Subsequent to the initial allocation, the governor may make changes in the organization of the executive branch or in the assignment of functions among its units which he considers necessary for efficient administration. Where these changes require the force of law, they shall be set forth in executive orders and submitted to the legislature. Thereafter the legislature shall have 60 calendar days of a regular session, or a full session if of shorter duration, to disapprove each executive order. Unless disapproved in both houses by a resolution concurred in by a majority of the members elected to and serving in each house, each order shall become effective at a date thereafter to be designated by the governor.

If the governor or the person in line of succession to serve as governor is absent from the state, or suffering under an inability, the powers and duties of the office of governor shall devolve in order of precedence until the absence or inability giving rise to the devolution of powers ceases.

The inability of the governor or person acting as governor shall be determined by a majority of the supreme court on joint request of the president pro tempore of the senate and the speaker of the house of representatives. 57 constitution, the total amount of general ad valo-

60 shall not exceed 15 mills on each dollar of the 1 assessed valuation of property as finally equalized.

2 Under procedures provided by law, which shall

6 which shall not exceed 18 mills on each dollar of 7 such valuation, may be adopted and thereafter
8 altered by the vote of a majority of the qualified
9 electors of such county voting thereon, in lieu 10 of the limitation hereinbefore established. These 11 limitations may be increased to an aggregate of 12 not to exceed 50 mills on each dollar of valuation,

49 Sec. 10. One-eighth of all taxes imposed on 50 retailers on taxable sales at retail of tangible 51 personal property shall be used exclusively for 52 assistance to townships, cities and villages, on 53 a population basis as provided by law. In de-

Such indebtedness in any fiscal year shall not exceed 15 percent of undedicated revenues received by the state during the preceding fiscal year and such debts shall be repaid at the time the revenues so pledged are received, but not later than the end of the same fiscal year.

The question submitted to the electors shall state the amount to be borrowed, the specific purpose to which the funds shall be devoted, and the method of repayment.

Sec. 16. The state, in addition to any other borrowing power, may borrow from time to time such amounts as shall be required, pledge its faith and credit and issue its notes or bonds therefor, for the purpose of making loans to school districts as provided in this section.

If the minimum amount which would otherwise be necessary for a school district to levy in any year to pay principal and interest on its qualified bonds, including any necessary allowances for estimated tax delinquencies, exceeds 13 mills on each dollar of its assessed valuation as finally equalized, or such lower millage as the legislature may prescribe, then the school district may elect to borrow all or any part of the excess from the state. In that event the state shall lend the excess amount to the school district for the payment of principal and interest. If for any reason any school district will be or is unable to pay the principal and interest on its qualified bonds when due, then the school district shall borrow and the state shall lend to it an amount sufficient to enable the school district to make the payment.

The term "qualified bonds" means general obli-

After a school district has received loans from the state, each year thereafter it shall levy for debt service, exclusive of levies for nonqualified bonds, not less than 13 mills or such lower millage as the legislature may prescribe, until the amount loaned has been repaid, and any tax collections therefrom in any year over and above the minimum requirements for principal and interest on qualified bonds shall be used toward the repayment of state loans. In any year when such levy would produce an amount in excess of the requirements and the amount due to the state, the levy may be reduced by the amount of the excess.

Subject to the foregoing provisions, the legislature shall have the power to prescribe and to limit the procedure, terms and conditions for the qualification of bonds, for obtaining and making state loans, and for the repayment of loans.

The power to tax for the payment of principal and interest on bonds hereafter issued which are the general obligations of any school district, including refunding bonds, and for repayment of any state loans made to school districts, shall be without limitation as to rate or amount.

All rights acquired under Sections 27 and 28 of Article X of the Constitution of 1908, by holders of bonds heretofore issued, and all obligations assumed by the state or any school district under these sections, shall remain unimpaired.

Sec. 17. No money shall be paid out of the state treasury except in pursuance of appropriations made by law.

Sec. 18. The credit of the state shall not be granted to, nor in aid of any person, association or corporation, public or private, except as authorized in this constitution.

12 units of local government and the auditing of 13 county accounts by competent state authority
14 and other units of government as provided by law.

19 audit reports and other reports of public moneys
20 shall be public records and open to inspection. A 21 statement of all revenues and expenditures of pub-
22 lic moneys shall be published and distributed
23 annually, as provided by law.

95 provided by law.

96 Sec. 3. Neither the legislature nor any poli-
97 tical subdivision of this state shall grant or author-
98 ize extra compensation to any public officer, agent
99 or contractor after the service has been rendered 100 or the contract entered into.

101 Sec. 4. No person having custody or control of 102 public moneys shall be a member of the legislature, 103 or be eligible to any office of trust or profit under 104 this state, until he shall have made an accounting,
105 as provided by law, of all sums for which he may 106 be liable.

107 Sec. 5. The classified state civil service shall 108 consist of all positions in the state service except 109 those filled by popular election, heads of principal
110 departments, members of boards and commis-
111 sions, the principal executive officer of boards and 112 commissions heading principal departments, em-
113 ployees of courts of record, employees of the legislature, employees of the state institutions of higher education, all persons in the armed forces of the state, eight exempt positions in the office of the governor, and within each principal department, when requested by the department head, two other exempt positions, one of which shall be policy-making. The civil service commission may exempt three additional positions of a policy-making nature within each principal department.

The civil service commission shall be non-salaried and shall consist of four persons, not more than two of whom shall be members of the same political party, appointed by the governor for terms of eight years, no two of which shall expire in the same year.

The administration of the commission's powers shall be vested in a state personnel director who shall be a member of the classified service and who shall be responsible to and selected by the commission after open competitive examination.

The commission shall classify all positions in the classified service according to their respective duties and responsibilities, fix rates of compensation for all classes of positions, approve or disapprove disbursements for all personal services, determine by competitive examination and performance exclusively on the basis of merit, efficiency and fitness the qualifications of all candidates for positions in the classified service, make rules and regulations covering all personnel transactions, and regulate all conditions of employment in the classified service.

No person shall be appointed to or promoted in the classified service who has not been certified by the commission as qualified for such appointment or promotion. No appointments, promotions, demotions or removals in the classified service shall be made for religious, racial or partisan considerations.

Increases in rates of compensation authorized by the commission may be effective only at the start of a fiscal year and shall require prior notice to the governor, who shall transmit such increases to the legislature as part of his budget. The legislature may, by a majority vote of the members elected to and serving in each house, waive the notice and permit increases in rates of compensation to be effective at a time other than the start of a fiscal year. Within 60 calendar days following such transmission, the legislature may, by a two-thirds vote of the members elected to and serving in each house, reject or reduce increases in rates of compensation authorized by the commission. Any reduction ordered by the legislature shall apply uniformly to all classes of employees affected by the increases and shall not adjust pay differentials already established by the civil service commission. The legislature may not reduce rates of compensation below those in effect at the time of the transmission of increases authorized by the commission.

The appointing authorities may create or abolish positions for reasons of administrative efficiency without the approval of the commission. Positions shall not be created nor abolished except for reasons of administrative efficiency. Any employee considering himself aggrieved by the abolition of a position shall have a right of appeal to the commission through established grievance procedures.

The civil service commission shall recommend to the governor and to the legislature rates of compensation for all appointed positions within the executive department not a part of the classified service.

To enable the commission to exercise its powers, the legislature shall appropriate to the commission for the ensuing fiscal year a sum not less than one percent of the aggregate payroll of the classified service for the preceding fiscal year, as certified by the commission. Within six months after the conclusion of each fiscal year the commission shall return to the state treasury all moneys unexpended for that fiscal year.

The commission shall furnish reports of expenditures, at least annually, to the governor and the legislature and shall be subject to annual audit as provided by law.

No payment for personal services shall be made or authorized until the provisions of this constitution pertaining to civil service have been complied with in every particular. Violation of any of the provisions hereof may be restrained or observance compelled by injunctive or mandamus proceedings brought by any citizen of the state.

Sec. 6. By ordinance or resolution of its governing body which shall not take effect until approved by a majority of the electors voting thereon, unless otherwise provided by charter, each county, township, city, village, school district and other governmental unit or authority may establish, modify or discontinue a merit system for its employees other than teachers under contract or tenure. The state civil service commission may on request furnish technical services to any such unit on a reimbursable basis.

Sec. 7. The house of representatives shall have the sole power of impeaching civil officers for corrupt conduct in office or for crimes or misdemeanors, but a majority of the members elected and serving shall be necessary to direct an impeachment.

When an impeachment is directed, the house of representatives shall elect three of its members to prosecute the impeachment.

Every impeachment shall be tried by the senate immediately after the final adjournment of the legislature. The senators shall take an oath or affirmation truly and impartially to try and determine the impeachment according to the evi-

1 dence. When the governor or lieutenant governor
2 is tried, the chief justice of the supreme court
3 shall preside.

4 No person shall be convicted without the con-
5 currence of two-thirds of the senators elected and 6 serving. Judgment in case of conviction shall not 7 extend further than removal from office, but the 8 person convicted shall be liable to punishment
9 according to law.

10 No judicial officer shall exercise any of the 11 functions of his office after an impeachment is 12 directed until he is acquitted.

Article XII

Amendment & Revision

13 Sec. 1. Amendments to this constitution may 14 be proposed in the senate or house of representa-
15 tives. Proposed amendments agreed to by two-16 thirds of the members elected to and serving in 17 each house on a vote with the names and vote of 18 those voting entered in the respective journals
19 shall be submitted, not less than 60 days there-
20 after, to the electors at the next general election
21 or special election as the legislature shall direct.
22 If a majority of electors voting on a proposed 23 amendment approve the same, it shall become 24 part of the constitution and shall abrogate or 25 amend existing provisions of the constitution at 26 the end of 45 days after the date of the election
27 at which it was approved.

28 Sec. 2. Amendments may be proposed to this 29 constitution by petition of the registered electors
30 of this state. Every petition shall include the full 31 text of the proposed amendment, and be signed by 32 registered electors of the state equal in number to 33 at least 10 percent of the total vote cast for 34 all candidates for governor at the last preceding 35 general election at which a governor was elected.
36 Such petitions shall be filed with the person au-
37 thorized by law to receive the same at least 120
38 days before the election at which the proposed 39 amendment is to be voted upon. Any such petition
40 shall be in the form, and shall be signed and 41 circulated in such manner, as prescribed by law.
42 The person authorized by law to receive such peti-
43 tion shall upon its receipt determine, as provided
44 by law, the validity and sufficiency of the signa-
45 tures on the petition, and make an official an-46 nouncement thereof at least 60 days prior to the 47 election at which the proposed amendment is to be 48 voted upon.

49 Any amendment proposed by such petition shall 50 be submitted, not less than 120 days after it was 51 filed, to the electors at the next general election.
52 Such proposed amendment, existing provisions of 53 the constitution which would be altered or abro-
54 gated thereby, and the question as it shall appear
55 on the ballot shall be published in full as provided
56 by law. Copies of such publication shall be posted 57 in each polling place and furnished to news media

as provided by law.

58 The ballot to be used in such election shall con-
59 tain a statement of the purpose of the proposed 60 amendment, expressed in not more than 100 words, exclusive of caption. Such statement of purpose and caption shall be prepared by the person authorized by law, and shall consist of a true and impartial statement of the purpose of the amendment in such language as shall create no prejudice for or against the proposed amendment.

61 If the proposed amendment is approved by a
62 majority of the electors voting on the question, 63 it shall become part of the constitution, and 64 shall abrogate or amend existing provisions of 65 the constitution at the end of 45 days after 66 the date of the election at which it was ap-67 proved. If two or more amendments approved by 68 the electors at the same election conflict, that 69 amendment receiving the highest affirmative vote
70 shall prevail.

71 Sec. 3. At the general election to be held in 72 the year 1978, and in each 16th year thereafter 73 and at such times as may be provided by law, the 74 question of a general revision of the constitution
75 shall be submitted to the electors of the state. If 76 a majority of the electors voting on the question
77 decide in favor of a convention for such purpose,
78 at an election to be held not later than six months
79 after the proposal was certified as approved, the 80 electors of each representative district as then 81 organized shall elect one delegate and the elec-
82 tors of each senatorial district as then organized
83 shall elect one delegate at a partisan election.
84 The delegates so elected shall convene at the seat
85 of government on the first Tuesday in October
86 next succeeding such election or at an earlier date
87 if provided by law.

88 The convention shall choose its own officers,
89 determine the rules of its proceedings and judge
90 the qualifications, elections and returns of its mem-
91 bers. The governor shall appoint a qualified
92 resident of the same district to fill a vacancy
93 in the office of any delegate who shall be a mem-
94 ber of the same party as the delegate vacating
95 the office. The convention shall have power to ap-
96 point such officers, employees and assistants as 97 it deems necessary and to fix their compensation;
98 to provide for the printing and distribution of its 99 documents, journals and proceedings; to explain 100 and disseminate information about the proposed constitution and to complete the business of the convention in an orderly manner. Each delegate shall receive for his services compensation provided by law.

101 No proposed constitution or amendment adopted
102 by such convention shall be submitted to the 103 electors for approval as hereinafter provided un-
104 less by the assent of a majority of all the delegates 105 elected to and serving in the convention, with the 106 names and vote of those voting entered in the journal. Any proposed constitution or amendments adopted by such convention shall be submitted to the qualified electors in the manner and at the time provided by such convention not less than 90 days after final adjournment of the convention. Upon the approval of such constitution or amendments by a majority of the qualified electors voting thereon the constitution or amendments shall take effect as provided by the convention.

against the secretary of state, by Mr. Van Dusen, chairman, submits the following report:

In accordance with Resolution 96, the committee on action against secretary of state on May 14, 1962, filed with the circuit court for the county of Ingham, a petition for declaration of rights in an action entitled, Stephen S. Nisbet, President of the Michigan Constitutional Convention of 1961-1962 v. James M. Hare, Secretary of State. The relief sought was a declaration that the convention has the right to provide for submission of the proposed new constitution to the electors at the general election to be held November 6, 1962. The summons and petition were served on the secretary of state on the same day.

On May 22, having had no response from the attorney general, petitioner filed a motion for the entry of a decree. On May 25, the secretary of state appeared specially by the attorney general and moved to dismiss the petition on the ground that the case did not present an actual controversy. The trial court heard argument on the attorney general's motion on June 1 and on June 6 rendered an opinion denying the motion to dismiss. An order to that effect was entered on June 11.

Instead of proceeding to file an answer, the attorney general then filed an application to the supreme court for leave to appeal. This application was granted by the supreme court and the attorney general, on July 2, filed a claim of appeal.

The attorney general has not yet filed a brief and he states that he does not intend to do so until after August 7.

It is obvious that no judicial determination of the right of the constitutional convention to require submission of the proposed constitution to the electors on November 6 will be made in time to be useful to the convention. Accordingly, the committee recommends:

1) That section 15 [formerly section 16] of the schedule and temporary provisions of the proposed constitution be amended by striking from the first sentence the words "Tuesday after the first Monday of November, 1962" and inserting "first Monday in April, 1963."

2) That the committee be authorized to discontinue the action entitled, Nisbet v. Hare.

Richard C. Van Dusen, chairman.

MR. VAN DUSEN: Mr. President, I move the adoption of the report.

PRESIDENT NISBET: The question is on the motion of Mr. Van Dusen that the report be adopted. Those in favor will say aye. Opposed, no.

The report is adopted. Mr. Van Dusen.

MR. VAN DUSEN: Mr. President, in compliance with our rules, I think it would now be necessary to take a roll call vote on the amendment to the constitution changing the date.

PRESIDENT NISBET: Mr. Chase will read the amendment.

SECRETARY CHASE: The amendment recommended in the report is as follows:

1. Amend the schedule, section 15 [formerly section 16] (column 2) line 11, after "held on the" by striking out "Tuesday after the first Monday of November, 1962.", and inserting "first Monday in April, 1963."

PRESIDENT NISBET: The secretary will call the roll. Those in favor of the amendment will vote aye as your name is called. Those opposed will vote no.

SECRETARY CHASE: On the adoption of the constitution as amended, the yeas are 98; the nays are 43. (applause)

PRESIDENT NISBET: The constitution is adopted.

For the constitution as adopted, see below, page 3317.

Because of the hour, it being almost noon, the Chair recognizes Mr. Van Dusen.

MR. VANDUSEN: Mr. President, I move that the convention now stand in recess until 2:00 p.m.

PRESIDENT NISBET: The question is on the motion of Mr. Van Dusen that we recess until 2:00 p.m. Those in favor will say aye. Opposed, no.

The motion prevails. We are recessed until 2:00 o'clock.

[Whereupon, at 11:50 o'clock a.m., the convention recessed; and, at 2:00 o'clock p.m., reconvened.]

Will the delegates please take their seats. The convention will please come to order.

SECRETARY CHASE: Mr. President, a quorum of the convention is present.

PRESIDENT NISBET: I think we should recognize the fact that many of our employees are voluntarily back with us today, meeting with the delegates. I'm sure all of us are very happy to have them here. It brings about a happy result to see them and I think we ought to give them a good hand. (applause) Mr. Chase has an announcement.

SECRETARY CHASE: There are 3 announcements that possibly should have been made before we recessed for lunch.

First, there is mail for all of the delegates in the mail room downstairs.

Just prior to the May 11 adjournment, several of the delegates took out, on loan, sets of convention slides which have not been returned. Missing from our files are 12 complete sets of slides. Since we frequently have call from other delegates for the use of these slides, we would appreciate their return as soon as possible. Ink White, chairman of the committee on public information.

I am sure the delegates recall the lady on the civic center staff who took such good care of keeping the windows clean and the place well slicked up, who had to go to the hospital for a very critical operation. A number of the delegates contributed to a fund to help her over her financial difficulties. I have the following card:

It is very difficult to express my appreciation to all the wonderful people of con. con. Let me say, with my heart, your kindness and generosity will always be remembered.

Sincerely,
Freda Adams.

PRESIDENT NISBET: Since the adjournment on May 11, we have added 2 new associate members to the delegation: Mrs. Charles Follo and Mrs. Gil Wanger.

I asked Charlie if Mrs. Follo was present so that he might present her, but he said she isn't. We are sorry, Charlie, she couldn't be with us.

Mr. Wanger, is your associate delegate present? Would you present her?

[Whereupon, the delegates accorded Mrs. Wanger a standing ovation.]

At the final session before the long recess the president was authorized to name a reunion committee for the constitutional convention. Accordingly, the president appoints, as members of the reunion committee: Mr. Erickson, Mrs. Koeze, Messrs. Jones, Bowens, Brake, Mrs. Conklin, Mr. Dean Doty, Mrs. Daisy Elliott, Messrs. Faxon, Kelsey, Kuhn, Powell, Sharpe, Wanger, White and Norris.

Without objection, the appointments are approved. You will notice that most of these delegates are within the area of Lansing, Detroit or Grand Rapids for their ease in getting together when they have to meet. Mr. Claud Erickson is chairman of the committee.

Returning to the order of business, approval of address to people. We will take up the report of the committee on public information. Mr. White, chairman.

MR. WHITE: Mr. President, under date of June 26, 1962, each delegate was mailed proof copies of the proposed address to the people. Since that time our committee has received numerous suggestions for corrections, additions, deletions and so on. Our committee has met and gone over these suggestions and they have been, for the most part, agreed to. I might say, parenthetically, the address in its present corrected form represents the writing and editing of upwards of 50 of our delegates.

Under date of July 27, 1962, each of you was mailed a 16 page multilith report which outlined in detail some 108 corrections. This communication also carried the recommendation that we be authorized to correct the text of the constitution as it appears in the address to conform with the style and drafting changes adopted at today's session, and to offer comments accordingly, if necessary. All of this material has been delivered again to each delegate's desk today. Additionally, you have a single white multilith sheet from our committee containing brief addenda to this 16 page report.

It seems to me, Mr. President, the delegates have had ample time to consider these matters, and to expedite our final deliberations, I move that the report of the public information committee, with the recommended addenda, be considered read.

PRESIDENT NISBET: Without objection, it is so ordered.

Following is the report as submitted and considered read:

After careful consideration of suggestions from delegates, your committee on public information recommends the adoption of the following changes in the proof copy of the address to the people:

1. Amend page 2, second full paragraph, line 3, after "that one" by striking out "must" and inserting "should"; to improve phraseology.

2. Amend page 2, third full paragraph, line 1, by striking out "Ordered by popular vote, its delegates selected by the people on the basis of one from each senatorial and representative district, the Constitutional Convention of 1961-62 met in Lansing on October 3, 1961.", and inserting "The convention was ordered by popular vote in April of 1961. There were 144 delegates, representing Michigan's 34 State Senatorial districts and 110 State Representative seats. They were elected in statewide voting on September 12, 1961, and convened at Lansing on October 3, 1961."; to improve awkward sentence construction and correct error by indicating "seats" rather than representative "districts."

3. Amend page 2, fifth full paragraph, line 2, after "overlapped" by striking out "each other"; to improve phraseology.

4. Amend page 2, fifth full paragraph, line 6, after

CONSTITUTION

STATE OF MICHIGAN

August 1, 1962

PREAMBLE

We, the people of the State of Michigan, grateful to Almighty God for the blessings of freedom, and earnestly desiring to secure these blessings undiminished to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this constitution.

Declaration of Rights

Sec. 1. All political power is inherent in the people. Government is instituted for their equal benefit, security and protection.

Sec. 2. ARTICLE II

Elections

Sec. 1. Every citizen of the United States who has attained the age of 21 years, who has resided in this state six months, and who meets the requirements of local residence provided by law, shall be an elector and qualified to vote in any election except as otherwise provided in this constitution. The legislature shall define residence for voting purposes.

Sec. 2. The legislature may by law exclude persons from voting because of mental incompetence or commitment to a jail or penal institution.

Sec. 3. For purposes of voting in the election for president and vice-president of the United States only, the legislature may by law establish lesser residence requirements for citizens who have resided in this state for less than six months and may waive residence requirements for former citizens of this state who have removed herefrom. The legislature shall not permit voting by any person who meets the voting residence requirements of the state to which he has removed.

Sec. 4. The legislature shall enact laws to regulate the time, place and manner of all nominations and elections, except as otherwise provided in this constitution or in the constitution and laws of the United States. The legislature shall enact laws to preserve the purity of elections, to preserve the secrecy of the ballot, to guard against abuses of the elective franchise, and to provide for a system of voter registration and absentee voting. No law shall be enacted which permits a candidate in any partisan primary or partisan election to have a ballot designation except when required for identification of candidates for the same office who have the same or similar surnames.

Sec. 5. Except for special elections to fill vacancies, or as otherwise provided in this constitution, all elections for national, state, county and township offices shall be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November in each even-numbered year or on such other date as members of the congress of the United States are regularly elected.

Sec. 6. Whenever any question is required to be submitted by a political subdivision to the electors for the increase of the ad valorem tax rate limitation imposed by Section 6 of Article IX for a period of more than five years, or for the issue of bonds, only electors in, and who have property assessed for any ad valorem taxes in, any part of the district or territory to be affected by the result of such election or electors who are the lawful husbands or wives of such persons shall be entitled to vote thereon. All electors in the district or territory affected may vote on all other questions.

Sec. 7. A board of state canvassers of four members shall be established by law. No candidate for an office to be canvassed nor any inspector of elections shall be eligible to serve as a member of a board of canvassers. A majority of any board of canvassers shall not be composed of members of the same political party.

Sec. 8. Laws shall be enacted to provide for the recall of all elective officers except judges of courts of record upon petition of electors equal in number to 25 percent of the number of persons voting in the last preceding election for the office of governor in the electoral district of the officer sought to be recalled. The sufficiency of any statement of reasons or grounds procedurally required shall be a political rather than a judicial question.

Sec. 9. The people reserve to themselves the power to propose laws and to enact and reject laws, called the initiative, and the power to approve or reject laws enacted by the legislature, called the referendum. The power of initiative extends only to laws which the legislature may enact under this constitution. The power of referendum does not extend to acts making appropriations for state institutions or to meet deficiencies in state funds and must be invoked in the manner prescribed by law within 90 days following the final adjournment of the legislative session at which the law was enacted. To invoke the initiative or referendum, petitions signed by a number of registered electors, not less than eight percent for initiative and five percent for referendum of the total vote cast for all candidates for governor at the last preceding general election at which a governor was elected shall be required.

No law as to which the power of referendum properly has been invoked shall be effective thereafter unless approved by a majority of the electors voting thereon at the next general election.

Any law proposed by initiative petition shall be either enacted or rejected by the legislature without change or amendment within 40 session days from the time such petition is received by the legislature. If any law proposed by such petition shall be enacted by the legislature it shall be subject to referendum, as hereinafter provided.

If the law so proposed is not enacted by the legislature within the 40 days, the state officer authorized by law shall submit such proposed law to the people for approval or rejection at the next general election. The legislature may reject any measure so proposed by initiative petition and propose a different measure upon the same subject by a yea and nay vote upon separate roll calls, and in such event both measures shall be submitted by such state officer to the electors for approval or rejection at the next general election.

Any law submitted to the people by either initiative or referendum petition and approved by a majority of the votes cast thereon at any election shall take effect 10 days after the date of the official declaration of the vote. No law initiated or adopted by the people shall be subject to the veto power of the governor, and no law adopted by the people at the polls under the initiative provisions of this section shall be amended or repealed, except by a vote of the electors unless otherwise provided in the initiative measure or by three-fourths of the members elected to and serving in each house of the legislature. Laws approved by the people under the referendum provision of this section may be amended by the legislature at any subsequent session thereof. If two or more measures approved by the electors at the same election conflict, that receiving the highest affirmative vote shall prevail.

The legislature shall implement the provisions of this section.

General Government

Sec. 1. The seat of government shall be at Lansing.

Sec. 2. The powers of government are divided into three branches: legislative, executive and judicial. No person exercising powers of one branch shall exercise powers properly belonging to another branch except as expressly provided in this constitution.

Sec. 3. There shall be a great seal of the State of Michigan and its use shall be provided by law.

Sec. 4. The militia shall be organized, equipped and disciplined as provided by law.

Sec. 5. Subject to provisions of general law, this state or any political subdivision thereof, any governmental authority or any combination thereof may enter into agreements for the performance, financing or execution of their respective functions, with any one or more of the other states, the United States, the Dominion of Canada, or any political subdivision thereof unless otherwise provided in this constitution. Any other provision of this constitution notwithstanding, an officer or employee of the state or of any such unit of government or subdivision or agency thereof may serve on or with any governmental body established for the purposes set forth in this section and shall not be required to relinquish his office or employment by reason of such service. The legislature may impose such restrictions, limitations or conditions on such service as it may deem appropriate.

Sec. 6. The state shall not be a party to, nor be financially interested in, any work of internal improvement, nor engage in carrying on any such work, except for public internal improvements provided by law.

Sec. 7. The common law and the statute laws now in force, not repugnant to this constitution, shall remain in force until they expire by their own limitations, or are changed, amended or repealed.

Sec. 8. Either house of the legislature or the governor may request the opinion of the supreme court on important questions of law upon solemn occasions as to the constitutionality of legislation after it has been enacted into law but before its effective date.

ARTICLE IV

Legislative Branch

Sec. 1. The legislative power of the State of Michigan is vested in a senate and a house of representatives.

Sec. 2. The senate shall consist of 38 members to be elected from single member districts at the same election as the governor for four-year terms concurrent with the term of office of the governor.

In districting the state for the purpose of electing senators after the official publication of the total population count of each federal decennial census, each county shall be assigned apportionment factors equal to the sum of its percentage of the state's population as shown by the last regular federal decennial census computed to the nearest one-one hundredth of one percent multiplied by four and its percentage of the state's land area computed to the nearest one-one hundredth of one percent.

In arranging the state into senatorial districts, the apportionment commission shall be governed by the following rules:

(1) Counties with 13 or more apportionment factors shall be entitled as a class to senators in the proportion that the total apportionment factors of such counties bear to the total apportionment factors of the state computed to the nearest whole number. After each such county has been allocated one senator, the remaining senators to which this class of counties is entitled shall be distributed among such counties by the method of equal proportions applied to the apportionment factors.

(2) Counties having less than 13 apportionment factors shall be entitled as a class to senators in the proportion that the total apportionment factors of such counties bear to the total apportionment factors of the state computed to the nearest whole number. Such counties shall thereafter be arranged into senatorial districts that are compact, convenient, and contiguous by land, as rectangular in shape as possible, and having as nearly as possible 13 apportionment factors, but in no event less than 10 or more than 16. Insofar as possible, existing senatorial districts at the time of reapportionment shall not be altered unless there is a failure to comply with the above standards.

(3) Counties entitled to two or more senators shall be divided into single member districts. The population of such districts shall be as nearly equal as possible but shall not be less than 75 percent nor more than 125 percent of a number determined by dividing the population of the county by the number of senators to which it is entitled. Each such district shall follow incorporated city or township boundary lines to the extent possible and shall be compact, contiguous, and as nearly uniform in shape as possible.

Sec. 3. The house of representatives shall consist of 110 members elected for two-year terms from single member districts apportioned on a basis of population as provided in this article. The districts shall consist of compact and convenient territory contiguous by land.

Each county which has a population of not less than seven-tenths of one percent of the population of the state shall constitute a separate representative area. Each county having less than seven-tenths of one percent of the population of the state shall be combined with another county or counties to form a representative area of not less than seven-tenths of one percent of the population of the state. Any county which is isolated under the initial allocation as provided in this section shall be joined with that contiguous representative area having the smallest percentage of the state's population. Each such representative area shall be entitled initially to one representative.

After the assignment of one representative to each of the representative areas, the remaining house seats shall be apportioned among the representative areas on the basis of population by the method of equal proportions.

Any county comprising a representative area entitled to two or more representatives shall be divided into single member representative districts as follows:

(1) The population of such districts shall be as nearly equal as possible but shall not be less than 75 percent nor more than 125 percent of a number determined by dividing the population of the representative area by the number of representatives to which it is entitled.

(2) Such single member districts shall follow city and township boundaries where applicable and shall be composed of compact and contiguous territory as nearly square in shape as possible.

Any representative area consisting of more than one county, entitled to more than one representative, shall be divided into single member districts as equal as possible in population, adhering to county lines.

Sec. 4. In counties having more than one representative or senatorial district, the territory in the same county annexed to or merged with a city between apportionments shall become a part of a contiguous representative or senatorial district in the city with which it is combined, if provided by ordinance of the city. The district or districts with which the territory shall be combined shall be determined by such ordinance certified to the secretary of state. No such change in the boundaries of a representative or senatorial district shall have the effect of removing a legislator from office during his term.

Sec. 5. Island areas are considered to be contiguous by land to the county of which they are a part.

Sec. 6. A commission on legislative apportionment is hereby established consisting of eight electors, four of whom shall be selected by the state organizations of each of the two political parties whose candidates for governor received the highest vote at the last general election at which a governor was elected preceding each apportionment. If a candidate for governor of a third political party has received at such election more than 25 percent of such gubernatorial vote, the commission shall consist of 12 members, four of whom shall be selected by the state organization of the third political party. One resident of each of the following four regions shall be selected by each political party organization: (1) the upper peninsula; (2) the northern part of the lower peninsula, north of a line drawn along the northern boundaries of the counties of Bay, Midland, Isabella, Mecosta, Newaygo and Oceana; (3) southwestern Michigan, those counties south of region (2) and west of a line drawn along the western boundaries of the counties of Bay, Saginaw, Shiawassee, Ingham, Jackson and Hillsdale; (4) southeastern Michigan, the remaining counties of the state.

No officers or employees of the federal, state or local governments, excepting notaries public and members of the armed forces reserve, shall be eligible for membership on the commission. Members of the commission shall not be eligible for election to the legislature until two years after the apportionment in which they participated becomes effective.

The commission shall be appointed immediately after the adoption of this constitution and whenever apportionment or districting of the legislature is required by the provisions of this constitution. Members of the commission shall hold office until each apportionment or districting plan becomes effective. Vacancies shall be filled in the same manner as for original appointment.

The secretary of state shall be secretary of the commission without vote, and in that capacity shall furnish, under the direction of the commission, all necessary technical services. The commission shall elect its own chairman, shall make its own rules of procedure, and shall receive compensation provided by law. The legislature shall appropriate funds to enable the commission to carry out its activities.

Within 30 days after the adoption of this constitution, and after the official total population count of each federal decennial census of the state and its political subdivisions is available, the secretary of state shall issue a call convening the commission not less than 30 nor more than 45 days thereafter. The commission shall complete its work within 180 days after all necessary census information is available. The commission shall proceed to district and apportion the senate and house of representatives according to the provisions of this constitution. All final decisions shall require the concurrence of a majority of the members of the commission. The commission shall hold public hearings as may be provided by law.

Each final apportionment and districting plan shall be published as provided by law within 30 days from the date of its adoption and shall become law 60 days after publication. The secretary of state shall keep a public record of all the proceedings of the commission and shall be responsible for the publication and distribution of each plan.

If a majority of the commission cannot agree on a plan, each member of the commission, individually or jointly with other members, may submit a proposed plan to the supreme court. The supreme court shall determine which plan complies most accurately with the constitutional requirements and shall direct that it be adopted by the commission and published as provided in this section.

Upon the application of any elector filed not later than 60 days after final publication of the plan, the supreme court, in the exercise of original jurisdiction, shall direct the secretary of state or the commission to perform their duties, may review any final plan adopted by the commission, and shall remand such plan to the commission for further action if it fails to comply with the requirements of this constitution.

Sec. 7. Each senator and representative must be a citizen of the United States, at least 21 years of age, and an elector of the district he represents. The removal of his domicile from the district shall be deemed a vacation of the office. No person who has been convicted of subversion or who has within the preceding 20 years been convicted of a felony involving a breach of public trust shall be eligible for either house of the legislature.

Sec. 8. No person holding any office, employment or position under the United States or this state or a political subdivision thereof, except notaries public and members of the armed forces reserve, may be a member of either house of the legislature.

Sec. 9. No person elected to the legislature shall receive any civil appointment within this state from the governor, except notaries public, from the legislature, or from any other state authority, during the term for which he is elected.

Sec. 10. No member of the legislature nor any state officer shall be interested directly or indirectly in any contract with the state or any political subdivision thereof which shall cause a substantial conflict of interest. The legislature shall further implement this provision by appropriate legislation.

Sec. 11. Senators and representatives shall be privileged from civil arrest and civil process during sessions of the legislature and for five days next before the commencement and after the termination thereof. They shall not be questioned in any other place for any speech in either house.

Sec. 12. The compensation and expense allowances of the members of the legislature shall be determined by law. Changes in compensation or expense allowances shall become effective only when legislators commence their terms of office after a general election.

Sec. 13. The legislature shall meet at the seat of government on the second Wednesday in January of each year at twelve o'clock noon. Each regular session shall adjourn without day, on a day determined by concurrent resolution, at twelve o'clock noon. Any business, bill or joint resolution pending at the final adjournment of a regular session held in an odd numbered year shall carry over with the same status to the next regular session.

Sec. 14. A majority of the members elected to and serving in each house shall constitute a quorum to do business. A smaller number in each house may adjourn from day to day, and may compel the attendance of absent members in the manner and with penalties as each house may prescribe.

Sec. 15. There shall be a bi-partisan legislative council consisting of legislators appointed in the manner prescribed by law. The legislature shall appropriate funds for the council's operations and provide for its staff which shall maintain bill drafting, research and other services for the members of the legislature. The council shall periodically examine and recommend to the legislature revision of the various laws of the state.

Sec. 16. Each house, except as otherwise provided in this constitution, shall choose its own officers and determine the rules of its proceedings, but shall not adopt any rule that will prevent a majority of the members elected thereto and serving therein from discharging a committee from the further consideration of any measure. Each house shall be the sole judge of the qualifications, elections and returns of its members, and may, with the concurrence of two-thirds of all the members elected thereto and serving therein, expel a member. The reasons for such expulsion shall be entered in the journal, with the votes and names of the members voting upon the question. No member shall be expelled a second time for the same cause.

Sec. 17. Each house of the legislature may establish the committees necessary for the efficient conduct of its business and the legislature may create joint committees. On all actions on bills and resolutions in each committee, names and votes of members shall be recorded. Such vote shall be available for public inspection. Notice of all committee hearings and a clear statement of all subjects to be considered at each hearing shall be published in the journal in advance of the hearing.

Sec. 18. Each house shall keep a journal of its proceedings, and publish the same unless the public security otherwise requires. The record of the vote and name of the members of either house voting on any question shall be entered in the journal at the request of one-fifth of the members present. Any member of either house may dissent from and protest against any act, proceeding or resolution which he deems injurious to any person or the public, and have the reason for his dissent entered in the journal.

Sec. 19. All elections in either house or in joint convention and all votes on appointments submitted to the senate for advice and consent shall be published by vote and name in the journal.

Sec. 20. The doors of each house shall be open unless the public security otherwise requires.

Sec. 21. Neither house shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than two intervening calendar days, nor to any place other than where the legislature may then be in session.

Sec. 22. All legislation shall be by bill and may originate in either house.

Sec. 23. The style of the laws shall be: The People of the State of Michigan enact.

Sec. 24. No law shall embrace more than one object, which shall be expressed in its title. No bill shall be altered or amended on its passage through either house so as to change its original purpose as determined by its total content and not alone by its title.

Sec. 25. No law shall be revised, altered or amended by reference to its title only. The section or sections of the act altered or amended shall be re-enacted and published at length.

Sec. 26. No bill shall be passed or become a law at any regular session of the legislature until it has been printed or reproduced and in the possession of each house for at least five days. Every bill shall be read three times in each house before the final passage thereof. No bill shall become a law without the concurrence of a majority of the members elected to and serving in each house. On the final passage of bills, the votes and names of the members voting thereon shall be entered in the journal.

Sec. 27. No act shall take effect until the expiration of 90 days from the end of the session at which it was passed, but the legislature may give immediate effect to acts by a two-thirds vote of the members elected to and serving in each house.

Sec. 28. When the legislature is convened on extraordinary occasions in special session no bill shall be passed on any subjects other than those expressly stated in the governor's proclamation or submitted by special message.

Sec. 29. The legislature shall pass no local or special act in any case where a general act can be made applicable, and whether a general act can be made applicable shall be a judicial question. No local or special act shall take effect until approved by two-thirds of the members elected to and serving in each house and by a majority of the electors voting thereon in the district affected. Any act repealing local or special acts shall require only a majority of the members elected to and serving in each house and shall not require submission to the electors of such district.

Sec. 30. The assent of two-thirds of the members elected to and serving in each house of the legislature shall be required for the appropriation of public money or property for local or private purposes.

Sec. 31. The general appropriation bills for the succeeding fiscal period covering items set forth in the budget shall be passed or rejected in either house of the legislature before that house passes any appropriation bill for items not in the budget except bills supplementing appropriations for the current fiscal year's operation. Any bill requiring an appropriation to carry out its purpose shall be considered an appropriation bill. One of the general appropriation bills as passed by the legislature shall contain an itemized statement of estimated revenue by major source in each operating fund for the ensuing fiscal period, the total of which shall not be less than the total of all appropriations made from each fund in the general appropriation bills as passed.

Sec. 32. Every law which imposes, continues or revives a tax shall distinctly state the tax.

Sec. 33. Every bill passed by the legislature shall be presented to the governor before it becomes law, and the governor shall have 14 days measured in hours and minutes from the time of presentation in which to consider it. If he approves, he shall within that time sign and file it with the secretary of state and it shall become law. If he does not approve, and the legislature has within that time finally adjourned the session at which the bill was passed, it shall not become law. If he disapproves, and the legislature continues the session at which the bill was passed, he shall return it within such 14-day period with his objections, to the house in which it originated. That house shall enter such objections in full in its journal and reconsider the bill. If two-thirds of the members elected to and serving in that house pass the bill notwithstanding the objections of the governor, it shall be sent with the objections to the other house for reconsideration. The bill shall become law if passed by two-thirds of the members elected to and serving in that house. The vote of each house shall be entered in the journal with the votes and names of the members voting thereon. If any bill is not returned by the governor within such 14-day period, the legislature continuing in session, it shall become law as if he had signed it.

Sec. 34. Any bill passed by the legislature and approved by the governor, except a bill appropriating money, may provide that it will not become law unless approved by a majority of the electors voting thereon.

Sec. 35. All laws enacted at any session of the legislature shall be published in book form within 60 days after final adjournment of the session, and shall be distributed in the manner provided by law. The prompt publication of judicial decisions shall be provided by law. All laws and judicial decisions shall be free for publication by any person.

Sec. 36. No general revision of the laws shall be made. The legislature may provide for a compilation of the laws in force, arranged without alteration, under appropriate heads and titles.

Sec. 37. The legislature may by concurrent resolution empower a joint committee of the legislature, acting between sessions, to suspend any rule or regulation promulgated by an administrative agency subsequent to the adjournment of the last preceding regular legislative session. Such suspension shall continue no longer than the end of the next regular legislative session.

Sec. 38. The legislature may provide by law the cases in which any office shall be vacant and the manner of filling vacancies where no provision is made in this constitution.

Sec. 39. In order to insure continuity of state and local governmental operations in periods of emergency only, resulting from disasters occurring in this state caused by enemy attack on the United States, the legislature may provide by law for prompt and temporary succession to the powers and duties of public offices, of whatever nature and whether filled by election or appointment, the incumbents of which may become unavailable for carrying on the powers and duties of such offices; and enact other laws necessary and proper for insuring the continuity of governmental operations. Notwithstanding the power conferred by this section, elections shall always be called as soon as possible to fill any vacancies in elective offices temporarily occupied by operation of any legislation enacted pursuant to the provisions of this section.

Sec. 40. The legislature may by law establish a liquor control commission which, subject to statutory limitations, shall exercise complete control of the alcoholic beverage traffic within this state, including the retail sales thereof. The legislature may provide for an excise tax on such sales. Neither the legislature nor the commission may authorize the manufacture or sale of alcoholic beverages in any county in which a majority of the electors voting thereon shall prohibit the same.

Sec. 41. The legislature shall not authorize any lottery nor permit the sale of lottery tickets.

Sec. 42. The legislature may provide for the incorporation of ports and port districts, and confer power and authority upon them to engage in work of internal improvements in connection therewith.

Sec. 43. No general law providing for the incorporation of trust companies or corporations for banking purposes, or regulating the business thereof, shall be enacted, amended or repealed except by a vote of two-thirds of the members elected to and serving in each house.

Sec. 44. The legislature may authorize a trial by a jury of less than 12 jurors in civil cases.

Sec. 45. The legislature may provide for indeterminate sentences as punishment for crime and for the detention and release of persons imprisoned or detained under such sentences.

Sec. 46. No law shall be enacted providing for the penalty of death.

Sec. 47. The legislature may authorize the employment of chaplains in state institutions of detention or confinement.

Sec. 48. The legislature may enact laws providing for the resolution of disputes concerning public employees, except those in the state classified civil service.

Sec. 49. The legislature may enact laws relative to the hours and conditions of employment.

Sec. 50. The legislature may provide safety measures and regulate the use of atomic energy and forms of energy developed in the future, having in view the general welfare of the people of this state.

Sec. 51. The public health and general welfare of the people of the state are hereby declared to be matters of primary public concern. The legislature shall pass suitable laws for the protection and promotion of the public health.

Sec. 52. The conservation and development of the natural resources of the state are hereby declared to be of paramount public concern in the interest of the health, safety and general welfare of the people. The legislature shall provide for the protection of the air, water and other natural resources of the state from pollution, impairment and destruction.

Sec. 53. The legislature by a majority vote of the members elected to and serving in each house, shall appoint an auditor general, who shall be a certified public accountant licensed to practice in this state, to serve for a term of eight years. He shall be ineligible for appointment or election to any other public office in this state from which compensation is derived while serving as auditor general and for two years following the termination of his service. He may be removed for cause at any time by a two-thirds vote of the members elected to and serving in each house. The auditor general shall conduct post audits of financial transactions and accounts of the state and of all branches, departments, offices, boards, commissions, agencies, authorities and institutions of the state established by this constitution or by law, and performance post audits thereof.

The auditor general upon direction by the legislature may employ independent accounting firms or legal counsel and may make investigations pertinent to the conduct of audits. He shall report annually to the legislature and to the governor and at such other times as he deems necessary or as required by the legislature. He shall be assigned no duties other than those specified in this section.

Nothing in this section shall be construed in any way to infringe the responsibility and constitutional authority of the governing boards of the institutions of higher education to be solely responsible for the control and direction of all expenditures from the institutions' funds.

The auditor general, his deputy and one other member of his staff shall be exempt from classified civil service. All other members of his staff shall have classified civil service status.

ARTICLE V

Executive Branch

Sec. 1. The executive power is vested in the governor.

Where these changes require the force of law, they shall be set forth in executive orders and submitted to the legislature. Thereafter the legislature shall have 60 calendar days of a regular session, or a full regular session if of shorter duration, to disapprove each executive order. Unless disapproved in both houses by a resolution concurred in by a majority of the members elected to and serving in each house, each order shall become effective at a date thereafter to be designated by the governor.

The inability of the governor or person acting as governor shall be determined by a majority of the supreme court on joint request of the president pro tempore of the senate and the speaker of the house of representatives. Such determination shall be final

Finance and Taxation

Sec. 1. The legislature shall impose taxes sufficient with other resources to pay the expenses of state government.

Sec. 2. The power of taxation shall never be surrendered, suspended or contracted away.

Sec. 3. The legislature shall provide for the uniform general ad valorem taxation of real and tangible personal property not exempt by law. The legislature shall provide for the determination of true cash value of such property; the proportion of true cash value at which such property shall be uniformly assessed, which shall not, after January 1, 1966, exceed 50 percent; and for a system of equalization of assessments. The legislature may provide for alternative means of taxation of designated real and tangible personal property in lieu of general ad valorem taxation. Every tax other than the general ad valorem property tax shall be uniform upon the class or classes on which it operates.

Sec. 4. Property owned and occupied by non-profit religious or educational organizations and used exclusively for religious or educational purposes, as defined by law, shall be exempt from real and personal property taxes.

Sec. 5. The legislature shall provide for the assessment by the state of the property of those public service businesses assessed by the state at the date this constitution becomes effective, and of other property as designated by the legislature, and for the imposition and collection of taxes thereon. Property assessed by the state shall be assessed at the same proportion of its true cash value as the legislature shall specify for property subject to general ad valorem taxation. The rate of taxation on such property shall be the average rate levied upon other property in this state under the general ad valorem tax law, or, if the legislature provides, the rate of tax applicable to the property of each business enterprise assessed by the state shall be the average rate of ad valorem taxation levied upon other property in all counties in which any of such property is situated.

Sec. 6. Except as otherwise provided in this constitution, the total amount of general ad valorem taxes imposed upon real and tangible personal property for all purposes in any one year shall not exceed 15 mills on each dollar of the assessed valuation of property as finally equalized. Under procedures provided by law, which shall guarantee the right of initiative, separate tax limitations for any county and for the townships and for school districts therein, the aggregate of which shall not exceed 18 mills on each dollar of such valuation, may be adopted and thereafter altered by the vote of a majority of the qualified electors of such county voting thereon, in lieu of the limitation hereinbefore established. These limitations may be increased to an aggregate of not to exceed 50 mills on each dollar of valuation, for a period of not to exceed 20 years at any one time, if approved by a majority of the electors, qualified under Section 6 of Article II of this constitution, voting on the question.

The foregoing limitations shall not apply to taxes imposed for the payment of principal and interest on bonds or other evidences of indebtedness or for the payment of assessments or contract obligations in anticipation of which bonds are issued, which taxes may be imposed without limitation as to rate or amount; or to taxes imposed for any other purpose by any city, village, charter county, charter township, charter authority or other authority, the tax limitations of which are provided by charter or by general law.

In any school district which extends into two or more counties, property taxes at the highest rate available in the county which contains the greatest part of the area of the district may be imposed and collected for school purposes throughout the district.

Sec. 7. No income tax graduated as to rate or base shall be imposed by the state or any of its subdivisions.

Sec. 8. The legislature shall not impose a sales tax on retailers at a rate of more than four percent of their gross taxable sales of tangible personal property.

Sec. 10. One-eighth of all taxes imposed on retailers on taxable sales at retail of tangible personal property shall be used exclusively for assistance to townships, cities and villages, on a population basis as provided by law. In determining population the legislature may exclude any portion of the total number of persons who are wards, patients or convicts in any tax supported institution.

Sec. 11. There shall be established a state school aid fund which shall be used exclusively for aid to school districts, higher education and school employees' retirement systems, as provided by law. One-half of all taxes imposed on retailers on taxable sales at retail of tangible personal property, and other tax revenues provided by law, shall

Such indebtedness in any fiscal year shall not exceed 15 percent of undedicated revenues received by the state during the preceding fiscal year and such debts shall be repaid at the time the revenues so pledged are received, but not later than the end of the same fiscal year.

Sec. 15. The state may borrow money for specific purposes in amounts as may be provided by acts of the legislature adopted by a vote of two-thirds of the members elected to and serving in each house, and approved by a majority of the electors voting thereon at any general election. The question submitted to the electors shall state the amount to be borrowed, the specific purpose to which the funds shall be devoted, and the method of repayment.

Sec. 16. The state, in addition to any other borrowing power, may borrow from time to time such amounts as shall be required, pledge its faith and credit and issue its notes or bonds therefor, for the purpose of making loans to school districts as provided in this section.

If the minimum amount which would otherwise be necessary for a school district to levy in any year to pay principal and interest on its qualified bonds, including any necessary allowances for estimated tax delinquencies, exceeds 13 mills on each dollar of its assessed valuation as finally equalized, or such lower millage as the legislature may prescribe, then the school district may elect to borrow all or any part of the excess from the state. In that event the state shall lend the excess amount to the school district for the payment of principal and interest. If for any reason any school district will be or is unable to pay the principal and interest on its qualified bonds when due, then the school district shall borrow and the state shall lend to it an amount sufficient to enable the school district to make the payment.

The term "qualified bonds" means general obligation bonds of school districts issued for capital expenditures, including refunding bonds, issued prior to May 4, 1955, or issued thereafter and qualified as provided by law pursuant to Section 27 or Section 28 of Article X of the Constitution of 1908 or pursuant to this section.

After a school district has received loans from the state, each year thereafter it shall levy for debt service, exclusive of levies for nonqualified bonds, not less than 13 mills or such lower millage as the legislature may prescribe, until the amount loaned has been repaid, and any tax collections therefrom in any year over and above the minimum requirements for principal and interest on qualified bonds shall be used toward the repayment of state loans. In any year when such levy would produce an amount in excess of the requirements and the amount due to the state, the levy may be reduced by the amount of the excess.

Subject to the foregoing provisions, the legislature shall have the power to prescribe and to limit the procedure, terms and conditions for the qualification of bonds, for obtaining and making state loans, and for the repayment of loans.

The power to tax for the payment of principal and interest on bonds hereafter issued which are the general obligations of any school district, including refunding bonds, and for repayment of any state loans made to school districts, shall be without limitation as to rate or amount.

All rights acquired under Sections 27 and 28 of Article X of the Constitution of 1908, by holders of bonds heretofore issued, and all obligations assumed by the state or any school district under these sections, shall remain unimpaired.

Sec. 17. No money shall be paid out of the state treasury except in pursuance of appropriations made by law.

Sec. 18. The credit of the state shall not be granted to, nor in aid of any person, association or corporation, public or private, except as authorized in this constitution.

Sec. 22. •• To be eligible for the office of governor or lieutenant governor a person must have attained the age of 30 years, and have been •••• a registered elector in this state for four years next preceding his election.

This is a revision of Sec. 13, Article VI, of the present constitution. The age requirement of 30 years is retained for eligibility to the office of governor or lieutenant governor. Present requirements that a person shall have "been 5 years a citizen of the United States and a resident of this state 2 years" have been changed to a person who has "been a registered elector in this state for four years next preceding his election."

The "registered elector" requirement is regarded as sufficient to take care of the citizenship and residence provisions in the present constitution.

State officer compensation.

Sec. 23. The governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state •• and attorney general shall each receive the compensation •• provided by law •• in full payment for all services performed and expenses incurred during his term of office. •• Such compensation shall not be changed during the term of office •• except as otherwise provided in this constitution.

This is a revision of Sec. 21, Article VI, of the present constitution to include the lieutenant governor and to eliminate the auditor general and state treasurer, who become appointive officials. The words "except as otherwise provided in this constitution" are added at the end of the section to eliminate any possible conflict with the provision which requires payment of the same compensation as the governor receives to those state officers who may succeed to his powers and duties.

Executive residence.

Sec. 24. An executive residence suitably furnished shall be provided at the seat of government for the use of the governor. He shall receive an allowance for its maintenance as provided by law.

This is a new section reflecting the convention's belief that a suitable residence for the governor, properly furnished and with an adequate maintenance allowance, should be provided. Of the 50 states, 41 now provide a residence for the governor. All details of construction and related matters are left to the determination of the legislature.

Lieutenant governor; duties.

Sec. 25. The lieutenant governor shall be president of the senate, but shall have no vote, unless they be equally divided. He may perform duties requested of him by the governor, but no power vested in the governor shall be delegated.

This is a revision of Sec. 19, Article VI, of the present constitution. A significant change is the provision that the lieutenant governor, in his capacity as president of the senate, may vote in case of equal division. The lieutenant governor is also directed to "perform duties requested of him by the governor." The section specifies, however, that "no power vested in the governor shall be delegated."

Succession to governorship.

Sec. 26. In case of the conviction of the governor on impeachment, his removal from office, his resignation or his death, •••• the lieutenant governor, the elected secretary of state, the elected attorney general ••• and such other persons designated by law shall in that order be governor for the remainder of the governor's term.

In case of the death of the governor-elect, the lieutenant governor-elect, the secretary of state-elect, the attorney general-elect and such other persons designated by law shall become governor in that order at the commencement of the governor-elect's term.

If the governor or the person in line of succession to serve as governor is absent from the state, or suffering under an inability, the powers and duties of the office of governor shall devolve in order of precedence until the absence or inability giving rise to the devolution of powers ceases.

The inability of the governor or person acting as governor shall be determined by a majority of the supreme court on joint request of the president pro tempore of the senate and the speaker of the house of representatives. Such determination shall be final and conclusive. The supreme court shall upon its own initiative determine if and when the inability ceases.

This is a revision of Secs. 16 and 17, Article VI, of the present constitution. It brings the matter of line of succession to vacancy in the office of governor into conformity with the new document and provides a method for determining the possible inability of the state's chief executive to serve.

The new language, "conviction of the governor on" impeachment, reflects the convention's judgment that a person serving as governor should be permitted to continue in office until impeachment proceedings have been concluded by either acquittal or conviction.

The line of succession to the governorship continues in the same order as the present constitution, except for the deletion of "state treasurer" and "auditor general" who become appointive rather than elective officers under this revised constitution. The matter of further succession, after the three elective state officers, is left to legislative determination.

The phrase "be governor" is substituted for "act as governor" to remove any possible doubt as to the status of one who succeeds to the office in the event of a vacancy. Deleted in its entirety as unnecessary is a sentence in the present Sec. 16 regarding the governor's status while at the head of a military force outside the state.

The fourth paragraph is new language which provides that the inability of a person to serve as governor may be determined by a majority vote of the supreme court. The court would be empowered to act only upon a joint request for such determination from the president pro tempore of the state senate and the speaker of the house of representatives. The supreme court is also given authority to determine when the inability ceases.

Same; salary.

Sec. 27. The legislature shall provide that the salary of any state officer while acting as governor shall be equal to that of the governor.

This is a revision of Sec. 18, Article VI, of the present constitution. It clarifies the previous language and directs the legislature to provide compensation equal to that of the governor to any state officer acting in the capacity of governor.

Highway commission.

Sec. 28. There is hereby established a state highway commission, which shall administer the state highway department and have jurisdiction and control over all state trunkline highways and appurtenant facilities, and such other public works of the state, as provided by law.

The state highway commission shall consist of four members, not more than two of whom shall be members of the same political party. They shall be appointed by the governor by and with the advice and consent of the senate for four-year terms, no two of which shall expire in the same year, as provided by law.

The state highway commission shall appoint and may remove a state highway director, who shall be a competent highway engineer and administrator. He shall be the principal executive officer of the state highway department and shall be responsible for executing the policy of the state highway commission.

This is a new section establishing a bipartisan state highway commission which will administer the state highway department and have control and jurisdiction over state highways and associated facilities as well as such other public works of the state authorized by law.

No more than two of the four-member commission may belong to the same political party. They are to be appointed by the governor, with advice and consent of the senate, for four-year overlapping terms.

The commission is to appoint a state highway director to be the principal executive officer of the department. He is to be a competent highway engineer and administrator.

Civil rights commission.

Sec. 29. There is hereby established a civil rights commission which shall consist of eight persons, not more than four of whom shall be members of the same political party, who shall be appointed by the governor, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, for four-year terms not more than two of which shall expire in the same year. It shall be the duty of the commission in a manner which may be prescribed by law to investigate alleged discrimination against any person because of religion, race, color or national origin in the enjoyment of the civil rights guaranteed by law and by this constitution, and to secure the equal protection of such civil rights without such discrimination. The legislature shall provide an annual appropriation for the effective operation of the commission.

The commission shall have power, in accordance with the provisions of this constitution and of general laws governing administrative agencies, to promulgate rules and regulations for its own procedures, to hold hearings, administer oaths, through court authorization to require the attendance of witnesses and the submission of records, to take testimony, and to issue appropriate orders. The commission shall have other powers provided by law to carry out its purposes. Nothing contained in this section shall be construed to diminish the right of any party to direct and immediate legal or equitable remedies in the courts of this state.

Appeals from final orders of the commission, including cease and desist orders and refusals to issue complaints, shall be tried de novo before the circuit court having jurisdiction provided by law.

This is a new section establishing an eight-member bipartisan civil rights commission to be named by the governor, with advice and consent of the senate, for four-year staggered terms. The commission is given powers and duties, as prescribed by law, to investigate instances of alleged discrimination against any person because of religion, race, color or national origin in the enjoyment of the civil rights guaranteed by this constitution and law; and to secure the equal protection of such rights without discrimination.

The legislature is directed to provide an annual appropriation for the effective operation of the commission whose powers are enumerated in the second paragraph.
